Pennsylvania Purebred Hog Show, Sale Highlights Quality

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL — A number of Pennsylvania's top breeders of Yorkshire, Duroc, and Hampshire swine participated in the annual state show and sale of those breeds last Saturday at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, in Lebanon.

According to show officials only two exhibitors weren't able to attend because of the winter storm. Buyers from seven different states attended the sale that followed the show.

Randy Smith, herdsman at Isler's Yorkshires and Durocs, of Ohio, was judge.

There were a total of 57 animals registered for the show and sale, which broke down to 25 Yorkshires, 16 Durocs, and 16 Hampshires. The purpose of the show and sale is generally to offer breeders a chance to buy and sell breeding stock to enhance their own operations.

Many of the participants raise and sell purebred or mixed hogs for breeding or showing. All open gilts and boars entered in the show were first scanned for loin eye and backfat.

"At this show, we have been using Mike Cherchuck Real-Time Scanning for backfat and loin eye, for four years," said Steve Wilson, show organizer. "We feel (ultrasound scanning for desirable characteristics) is a plus for our customers knowing this about the animals they purchase. We feel it is vital in producing lean quality animals."

The cash sale auctioneer was Harry Bachman, of Annville and he saw an average of $365 for Yorkshire bred gilts, $450 for Duroc bred gilts, and $445 for Hampshire bred gilts.

Of the open gilts, Yorkshires sold for an average of $188, Durocs sold for $202 on average, and Hampshires went for $247 each.

All animals were cleared of brucellosis and pusedorabies and were to have been vaccinated for leptospirisis and erysipelias not less than 21 days before the sale.

Show premiums were paid for the top 10 bred gilts in the junior and senior groups, ranging from $40 for first place to $22 for 10th. For the boars and open gilts, show premiums ran from $40 for first to $4 for 10th place.

The classes were for boars and gilts farrowed after July 1, 1993. The limits were one boar per consignor per breed, and two open gilts per consignor per breed.

Showers were allowed to enter as many bred gilts, farrowed on or after Feb. 1, 1993, as they desired, as long as the gilts weren't bred to a boar from a different breed. Showers were restricted to entering one gilt bred to a different breed boar.

A Home Where The Buffalo Roam

MIRIAM WERT

MIFFLINTOWN (Juniata Co.) — While taking photos of the buffalo at the Juniata Springs Bison Farm, the only thing missing was a tribe of Indians riding over the hill. The herd was inside the fence, contently munching on hay placed there by owners Doug and Shirley Drewes. The bison gave no indication of being wild animals as they are officially known. Seeing a stranger so close by did not alarm them in the least.

If the Drewes had chosen another name for their farm, surely it would have been, "A Dream Come True" or "Heaven on Earth". Both names reflect their expressed feelings about the farm. They are both from farming backgrounds although their families did not own farms. As a youth, Doug worked as a farmhand for various farmers and learned to love the land. He always dreamed of having his own farm "some day", and Shirley joined in on that dream after they married.

They had a few acres in Lancaster County. Several years ago, Doug read an ad in Lancaster Farming that a bison was for sale, and his dream increased to wanting not merely a farm but a bison farm. The couple purchased the 32-acre farm at Mifflintown in Juniata County, and moved to it in June 1992.

In November of that year, they bought their first bison and kept increasing the herd regularly to the present 22. The animals came from various places, including locally, New York, South Dakota, Colorado and West Virginia. These animals are possibly the third generation raised inside a fence, and they make no attempt to jump the fence even with the high snow.

Their principal crops are hay and field corn. The corn is ground for the bison and mixed with vitamins and needed natural supple-

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—"Grass is the forgiveness of nature, a constant benediction. It yields no fruit in earth or air yet should its harvest fail for a single year, famine would depopulate the world."

John Baylor, historian and past president of the American Forage and Grassland Council (AFGC), used this 125-year-old quote to capture the attention of members of the council from all areas of the U.S. and Canada at their annual convention held this week at the Host Resort. He was telling how AFGC serves the producers.

In many countries 90 to 100 percent of the nutrients from ruminant livestock comes from forage. In the U.S. about half of the farming area is grassland. Through dairy animals, beef animals, and sheep, 25 percent of the nation's food supply has its base in forages. But even today, according to Baylor, forages are producing only about one-fourth its known potential.

In 1942 a number of industry people gathered at the New Jersey Experiment Station to discuss what could be done in the field of grassland harvest. Harvesting was labor intensive at the time, and the country was at war so food was a problem. From this beginning, efforts were made to develop methods to handle forages, because they are the backbone of input costs to operate the farm.

"I know of no other organization that has had the producer directly in mind in the development procedure," Baylor said. "At the time, information was not readily available. So the new organization spent time developing educational materials. In addition, field days, workshops, and farmer awards programs were initiated to increase the educational value of the council."

John Baylor, known as a lifetime supporter of grassland and forages, was honored for writing the history of the council's first 50 years that was published for the golden anniversary of the American Forage and Grassland Council meeting in Lancaster this week. Making the presentation are from left, Garry Lacefield, past president; Baylor; Vivien Allen, past president; and Clive Holland, new president.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, March 9, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds slowed and was generally no better than fair. Seller offerings varied, but were fully adequate to cover current inquiry. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mixed in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 1 cent fligher at 54 to 66 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, supplies were at least adequate on all items.

New York & Phila. Frozen Egg Report

Tuesday, March 8, 1994

Prices generally trended lower as competition for limited sales got more intense. Raw materials were in excess of current needs and most processors refused to pay higher prices and reduced running time instead. Floor stocks were fully sufficient and more than satisfied current dealer needs.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, March 9, 1994

Trucklot buying interest was irregular and ranged light to fair but slower than typical Wednesday trading. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were irregularly distributed and ranged close balance to available. Trading was reported at unchanged prices and the undertone was steady. Line run breasts were also irregularly distributed with some committed deliveries shorted while other processors offered product at current prices. Dark meat items were well cleared and the undertone was fully steady. Yellow wings improved over early week with prices trending unchanged to higher. White skin wings were tight.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES. ## National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.
Wednesday, March 9, 1994

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY FAVORABLE GROWING WEATHER IN WINTER WHEAT AREAS AND CONTINUED SLACK EXPORT DEMAND PUSHED WHEAT PRICES MODERATELY LOWER. CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES, HOWEVER, REGAINED SOME OF TUESDAY'S LOSSES AS TRADERS ANTICIPATE USDA'S STOCKS REPORT DUE TOMORROW AND LACK OF SUBSTANTIAL EXPORT INTEREST SEEN IN NEAR FUTURE. WHEAT 3 TO 6 CENTS LOWER. CORN 1 TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 1 TO 5 CENTS HIGHER. SOYBEANS 6 TO 8 CENTS HIGHER. SOUTH PLAINS RECEIVING MUCH NEEDED MOISTURE THIS WEEK, PRESSURED WHEAT PRICES. FEW EXPORT SALES LIMITED LOSSES BUT DISMAL OUTLOOK FOR WHEAT ORDERS, ESPECIALLY FROM RUSSIA AND POSSIBLY CHINA, DROVE PRICES LOWER. SLIGHT INCREASES IN CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES REFLECT ANTICIPATION FOR A BULL- ISH STOCK REPORT TOMORROW. SOME LIGHT FARMER SELLING WAS ALSO NOTED. REPORTS OF LOWER SOYBEAN YIELDS IN BRAZIL ADDED SUPPORT TO PRICES.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

VERNAL EQUINOX, MARCH 20.

THE SHAMROCK SAINT

Was there really a St Patrick? Definitely Did he really drive the snakes out of Ireland? Probably not At age 16 (around A D 400), Patrick was kidnapped from his home on the west coast of England and carried off to Ireland After 6 years he escaped, and upon returning home received his call (in a dream) to return to Ireland and preach the Gospel He spent the next 15 or so years in a monastic life, preparing for his missionary work Although some Christians lived in Ireland at the time, it was Patrick who spread the Word throughout the land and brought an organized church into existence We wear a shamrock on St Patrick's Day because the saint used its three leaves to explain the Trinity But, as far as we know, he never drank green beer!

In beginning or in end
March its gifts will send.

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

Last week we raised the issue of using unbleached, undyed toilet paper to reduce toxic waste during manufacturing But we can go a step further Soft, high-quality toilet paper made from recycled paper is on the market If you can't find a good brand locally (many are available), the Seventh Generation company sells excellent 2-ply and 1-ply toilet paper made from unbleached, de-inked, recycled paper Contact them at 800-456-1177 for more information or to place an order

WHOLE WHEAT IRISH SODA BREAD

3 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup unbleached white flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup currants
1¾ cups buttermilk

Combine dry ingredients Add currants and stir to coat with flour Stir in buttermilk Knead dough on lightly floured board until smooth (about 3 minutes) Form dough into 2 round loaves Place on greased cookie sheets Cut a cross on top of each loaf Bake at 375° F for 35 minutes

Makes 2 loaves

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Cold, rain and snow, clear and mild west, then freezing rain and snow

SOUTHEAST: Clear, showers west, then cold, rain, and snow; clearing and turning milder.

MIDWEST: Cold, snow, heavy storm east, clearing and remaining cold.

NORTHWEST: Mild, flurries, cold mountains, sprinkles coast; seasonable; rain, snow mountains

SOUTHWEST: Cold, showers, snow mountains, clearing and warming

Nutrient Management Board Needs Support

The 15-members of the Nutrient Management Advisory Board to the State Conservation Commission should be commended for their work to assist in breaking new ground in the effort to put together a workable system of nutrient management in the state.

Despite a series of severe winter storms, the board has met in almost full attendance in Harrisburg since the board first formed last fall.

The only cancelation was in February, but it was not because board members could not attend — earlier and repeated weather-caused work closings prevented the staff that supports the board from getting all the information together to conduct a complete meeting. It was felt that it would be more efficient to be completely prepared for the the March meeting.

And they were.

Now, with the state Department of Agriculture accepting applications for interim certification, the reality of the program is starting to take shape.

The board members and the commission members are going to need a lot of support from the public as they struggle with bringing to reality the ideology of nutrient management.

In effect, they are entering a never-traveled area.

Perhaps it would be easier if the state were already operating on a watershed-to-watershed strategy with the management of water resources instead of being managed according to boundaries created by commercial and political interests.

Local water cycles drive a lot of the movement of nutrients. Understanding local water cycles would mean understanding differences in geologies, percolation rates, and, in general, much of the specific conditions which affect the cycling of water locally.

Overlaying a nutrient management strategy on top of a local water management plan would be a lot easier, because it would provide a foundation for planning.

That lack of such a foundation begs the question, "If there is no management of the local water cycles which help drive nutrient flows and cycles, then how can effective nutrient management be obtained?"

Perhaps it would be easier on the board, if the One-Plan Concept were more than a concept and the different agricultural agencies were already cooperating with a one-plan, one-farm system.

It would seem that planning nutrient flow on a farm would be less of a task if it could be overlaid on top of an already existing business plan.

Perhaps it would be easier, if American society was already truly concerned about what happened to their own nutrient laden waste once it was out of sight. That way when they saw manure being applied to a crop field, they would know that just because they can see and smell something doesn't mean that's all there is.

That doesn't look like it's going to happen.

Judging from the amount of discarded bottles, bags and wrappers which get tossed from bridges into streams, into pastures and generally anywhere convienence dictates, and the relatively few people with onlot septic systems who have any clue whether they work or not, there are many people who operate on the out-of-sight, out-of-mind principal.

Perhaps it would be easier for the board, if people spent 22 percent of their income on food rather than for taxes.

Perhaps if it truly was a business advantage for a livestock producer to find and use adequate areas of cultivated soils for properly utilizing excess nutrients, we wouldn't have found a need to create the Nutrient Management Act.

And, perhaps, if people would truly respect each other, themselves and their children, we also wouldn't have had a need to make yet another law.

If all these other things were in place, the job of the Nutrient Management Advisory Board and the State Conservation Commission would be much, much easier.

But, as we are without all those things, the board members need all the understanding, patience and support they can get to do the job well.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz

To Cooperate With Burning Ordinances

This week I received a phone call from the county fire chief asking if farmers were exempt from local ordinances on burning.

This incidence was a result of many townships enacting a uniform fire code which includes no burning after sunset, notifying the local fire company before doing a control burning, etc.

The right to farm law, to the best of my understanding, is untested in this area. However, I hope we do not have to test this provision.

Talking with this fire chief, he was willing to let the farmer burn the items in question provided the farmer would notify him first.

The reason for this is to prevent the fire company from answering an unnecessary call in the middle of the night.

As populations increase in rural areas, farmers need to increase their good neighbor policies. By being good neighbors and talking with our neighbors we can eliminate a lot of problems. Develop and maintain a good relationship with your township officials and keep them informed on what you are doing.

To Reduce Neighbor Complaints

At our Nutrient Management Meeting this week, Don Robinson of the Lancaster County Conservation District presented a talk on "Simple and Inexpensive Ways to Keep The Public Off Your Back."

Some ideas he presented included keeping your farmstead looking clean and neat.

Outside appearance affects how the public views you. Keep things picked up and fixed up. Plant grass strips around fields and next to streams. This helps to keep soil and manure off the roads and from getting into the streams.

Plant trees around buildings especially evergreens. This helps to shield off the buildings while helping to control dust and odors.

Invite the neighbors over to an open house and tour. Serve refreshments and talk. Ask them to tell you in advance when they are planning a picnic or party so you may plan field activities and manure spreading according.

Give them dates when you need to spread manure so they will not plan outdoor activities then. Ask for vacation dates. When they are away would be a good time to spread manure, etc.

Knowing your neighbors and being friendly will go a long way in preventing problems.

To Learn Lessons From The Winter of 94

The winter of 1994 will be long remembered. Some people are saying we will have similar ones for the rest of the decade. This weekend marks the anniversary of the blizzard of 1993.

What have we learned from all this?

It reminded us that snow will slide off roofs with crushing force. A fact that should dictate how we attach extensions to existing buildings.

Heavy accumulations of snow, water and ice can collapse roofs and push out supporting walls. We may need to increase our snow loading requirements for new buildings.

Also, many people found out they did not have the insurance coverage they needed for snow damage. Examine your policies now and make necessary changes. (Do not forget flood insurance!)

Cold weather, snow and ice may disrupt deliveries, communications and services. Keep your inventories of food, feed, medications, fuel and essential supplies well stocked.

What happens when water, fuel lines, feeds, manure and equipment freeze up or when the power goes off?

Can you prevent these problems or do you have alternative plans of action?

Do you have extra storage for milk, manure and other items? In the event of a emergency, can you get help, can you summon help and can help get to you?

Some planning and action now could prevent a major problem latter.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE CAUSE OR THE RESULT?

March 13, 1994

Background Scripture:
Romans 3:21 thru 4:25
Devotional Reading:
Romans 2:4b-16

I was on jury duty this past week and was selected for a jury to hear a civil case between two drivers who were involved in a collision on a Dallas throughway. A woman driver, whose car was rear-ended by a man, was suing him for negligence. According to the judge, the burden of proof was on the woman, the plaintiff, and the case was decided against her because the jury did not believe that her lawyer had presented sufficient evidence.

I got the impression that many of the jurors, like myself, were sympathetic to the woman and would have liked to have seen her awarded something for her extensive hospital bills and damage to her car. But we were not there to be sympathetic; the case was to be decided upon law and legal procedure and accordingly she lost out. A court's main business is justice and equity, not compassion.

THE LEGAL MODEL

Paul's approach to the question of salvation, especially in Romans, seems essentially a legalistic one. People are called to live by the law and, when they break the law, they are pardoned only because Jesus Christ has already paid the price of their offense. Like a plea bargain, they have only to accept his offer of pardon. So Paul uses the language of the courtroom and temple sacrifice, both legalistic systems: "law", "justified", "redemption", "righteousness", and "reckoned". When we sin, we end up with either a debt to be paid or an offense for which we are to be punished. In the sacrifice of Jesus Christ, says Paul, the debt is paid for us and the offense is blotted from our record — if we accept it.

My problem with this approach is not so much Paul's language itself, but the way in which Christians have subsequently made of it a legalistic system, a kind of transactional salvation. So there have been times in the history of Christianity when Christians have argued bitterly over whether, once a person had accepted the grace of God, he or she can fall again into sin. If, on Jesus' account, God pardons us, can we continue to sin and retain our redeemed status? And, if I say, yes, I accept the grace of God's forgiveness, doesn't my believing get me off the hook?

That's where the legalistic model fails us. Salvation is not so much a transaction, a contract to which each of the parties must live up to, but a relationship. Receiving the grace of God is not a matter of saying, "Yes, I receive it," but in living in dependence upon God's faithfulness. The "faith" that was "reckoned to Abraham as righteousness" was not a belief, much less a verbal affirmation, but a life that was founded upon the grace of God.

GRACE, NOT WORKS

Although Paul is speaking out of a legalistic model, the answer he is proposing, the grace of God, is a move from a legal system to an experience of grace, the unmerited gift. On legalistic grounds, none of us could stand acquitted before God's judgment. None of us can totally live up to the law or be good enough to earn God's forgiveness. What saves us is not a legal system, but the free, loving gift of God. It is ironic that Christians who intellectually accept that we are saved by grace instead of works, use the acceptance of that grace as the work that saves them.

How, then, do we accept the grace of God? As Abraham did, living his life in steadfast trust of God's promises. Living that way was his faith. It was not what Abraham said about his faith, but what he did about it that Paul is holding up for us. Like Abraham, none of us can ever be good enough to earn God's love. None of us can ever have that love by accepting the idea of salvation by grace through faith. But we can have it by living every day as if we are dependent upon that love.

Paul isn't trying to get rid of works, but he wants to put them in their proper place. Instead of being the cause of God's love, they are instead the result of it.

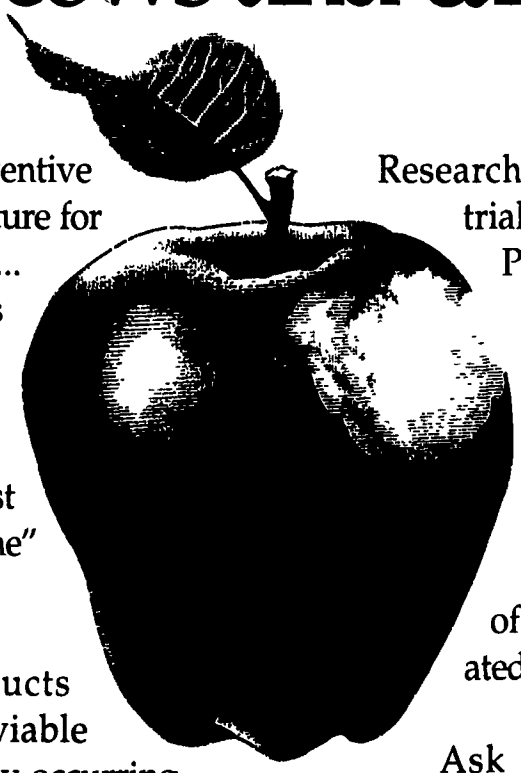
Think of it as "an apple a day" for cows and calves



Experts say "preventive medicine" IS the future for the dairy industry... and dairymen across the country say the line of PROBIOS® brand Microbial Products is the best "preventive medicine" of today.

PROBIOS Products contain selected, viable cultures of naturally-occurring lactic acid-producing bacteria... micro-organisms known for their beneficial activity in the digestive tract of animals. These bacteria are essential for proper digestive tract function and lead to better performance.

Research and performance trials have shown that PROBIOS Microbial Products may:

◆ Stimulate appetite in freshening cows

◆ Reduce incidence of scours and associated treatment costs

To: All Hershey Equipment Employees
From: Donald C. Hershey
Subject: Big Dutchman Outperforms Competitors

After tabulating the results of many layer flocks nationwide, we now have positive proof that Big Dutchman systems outperform all major competing systems.

Unlike what competition has been claiming with absolutely no proof, we have all the facts to back up our statements.

Spread the word! Anyone considering a new building or remodeling an older house can be assured that Big Dutchman offers these advantages.

★ More Eggs Per Bird
★ Larger Eggs
★ Less Electrical Expense
★ Better Feed Conversion
★ Less Mortality
★ Cleaner Eggs

All these facts mean that a Big Dutchman system installed by Hershey will save money in operating expenses. The contract grower also receives a larger bonus payment!

Results are not from some small test house but are based on a blend of results from coast to coast, north to south.

DON'T WASTE YOUR MONEY!

More Eggs Per Bird And Better Feed Conversion Puts Money In Your Pocket!

The best just got better

More choices, better productivity and uncompromising quality in what we build best.

Want more cutting power? Put the non-stop action of our 3-bladed triangular discs to work for you. Whether you're cutting forage with Vicon's new, wider disc mowers or with GMR mower conditioners, this advanced disc cutting system won't plug or leave you worrying about leaf loss. There's one more blade than the competition. It's the extra edge you need in a heavy, wet crop or fire ant mounds.

AM 2800/3200 disc mowers work full width at 9'4" and 10'6" with a flatter cutterbar to streamline crop flow and eliminate clogs. Conditioning rollers, set at a 25° angle on GMR mower conditioners, leave fluffy, fast drying swaths with high energy leaves intact.

Need flexibility to round bale silage, hay and straw? Here it is! Two efficient choices for more profitable forage production - wet or dry.

Fourteen razor sharp blades on the Deutz-Fahr Opticut cut high moisture forage in short lengths for compression into extremely dense 4' x 4' or 4' x 5' bales, weighing up to 1500 and 2000 lbs., respectively. For baling hay or straw, just fold the cutting mechanism out of the way, hydraulically.

With the new RV 126 variable chamber baler, you make the call. The twin belt design lets you tailor dense, uniform bales from 2' to 6' diameters, in any weight, in any forage crop, all at the turn of a knob. Both systems package with twine or net wrap.

When it comes to making better hay faster and more profitably, we give you the best.

Looking for a durable, top driven mower? Harvest quality hay with PZ's new high speed Cyclomower drum mowers. Clean cutting mounted machines range from 5'5" to 6'9" widths.

HELP FOR A BUDGET HEADACHE

IN THE WANT ADS

National Grassland Enthusiasts Visit Dutch Country

In 1972 the national hay marketing task force was formed to determine methods to help find the price of forages based on feed value. And the task force also sought better packaging methods for long-distance hauling.

Another speaker on Tuesday's program, Ewing Row, managing editor, Hoards' Dairyman, said, in 10 to 20 years from now, whoever can produce milk at least cost will be in business.

"The days of support prices to keep marginal dairy farmers in business is gone," Row said. "So are the days when Uncle Sam will offer to buy everything that is produced. We're in transition now. Dairymen are solely responsible for the government support price purchases in excess of seven billion pounds of milk based on milk solids equivalent. They must pay for disposing of what will not clear the U.S. market at the current support price. Ten years from now there will be no support price."

Row said the goal for dairy farms must be to produce one million pounds of milk per worker. This may take the form of 50 cows producing 20,000 lbs. or 40 cows producing 25,000 lbs. It's not necessarily being big. It's however you can do it.

Steve Ford, forage economist, Penn State University, said efficiencies in the forage program can help address declining profits on the farm. He listed several facts that will influence profitability on the farm. They are competition from other farm areas; price variablity, reduced support prices, and government regulations.

In the 60's all the farmer needed to do was be a good producer. In the 70's you needed to become a marketer. By the 80's with the farm depression, you needed to be a financial wizard. Now in the 90's you need to have systems management. Feed purchases, crop production costs, interest and labor all need to be considered in your forage system. In addition, feed losses occur between harvest and storage, between storage and feeding, and when the animals are fed.

In our forage markets, purchases are made not on feed value content but on how it smells, looks or what it weighs. "With a cow eating seven tons of forage, if you save $20 per ton either in reduced initial cost or by reducing storage and feeding losses, you can save $140 per cow," Ford said. "That's $8,400 saved in a 60 cow herd."

Various tours for the women and the men were conducted throughout the three-day event. This gave the visitors an opportunity to see farming and agri-business in Lancaster County. Many technical and information subjects were also coverd in seminars. Tuesday evening was Pennsylvania night, and a bountiful banquet of Pennsylvania produced foods was served in smorgasbord style, or as one farmer at the table suggested, in grazing style.

The climax of the convention was the awards banquet Wednesday night. Dr. John Moore, University of Florida, received the Medallion award. He received his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D degrees in animal science from Ohio State University. In 1961 he joined the faculty of the animal science department of the University of Florida. His teaching assignment includes graduate classes in animal nutrition and in principle of forage quality evaluation. His research emphasizes predicting the quality of tropical grasses from routine laboratory analyses, studying the relationship of forage structure and micro-anatomy to forage quality, and predicting the effect of supplemental concentrates on utilization of forages.

Two presidential citations were awarded posthumously to Jack Barlett and Zur Craine.

Bartlett was a founder of the joint committee on grassland farming and was elected its first chairman. As head of the department of dairy science at the New Jersey Agriculture Experiment Station, he was able to see firsthand the need for more practical and better information for managing forage crops. Bartlett died in 1961 after serving for a number of years in the organization that was to become the American Forage and Grassland Council. The enduring contribution that Bartlett made to grassland agriculture was his vision and ability to develop this into a coordinated effort that sparked a greater awareness of the tremendous potential from improved forages.

Craine was one of the founders of what is now known as the American Forage and Grassland Council. He was secretary of the National Silo Association and a long-time advocate of better quality forages. In 1944, following discussions with others with the same interests, he sent out a general invitation to all interested in animal and human nutrition to attend a conference. This meeting was to deal with information on harvesting, storing, and preserving grasses, legumes, sorghums, corn, and all green crops. Craine served for 15 years as the first recording secretary of this organization before his death in 1959.

NAFTA To Help Reduce 'Artificial Costs,' Says Farm Bureau President

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Reducing trade barriers will do a lot to eliminate "artificial costs" on products, according to Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Kleckner spoke to about 200 attendees at the golden anniversary celebration of the founding of the American Forage and Grassland Council at the national conference on Monday at the Host Resort.

The American Farm Bureau president operates a 350-acre, 1,800-head swine farrow-to-finish farm in Rudd, Iowa. He said that the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) recently approved by Congress will create the "potential for a trade-free continent" encompassing the U.S., Canada, and Mexico.

"If the future unfolds like it's supposed to, trade barriers between these three nations will be gone in 15 years," said Kleckner.

The agreement, which paves the way for the final passage of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) later this year, will mean better prices for American consumers and more markets for agricultural products.

"Eliminating trade barriers is just making more sense . . . because it costs an awful lot to protect domestic jobs," he said.

Kleckner pointed out the results of two reports that examined just how much the protectionism, which NAFTA will help to eliminate, costs. One is from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which examines the costs to taxpayers and consumers in 24 developed countries. The study looked at one year in particular — 1992 — to see how much it cost. The result? Consumers paid about $354 billion in higher costs and ag subsidies.

Another report, from the Institute for International Economics, placed the cost of protection for U.S. consumers at about $70 billion annually.

"How do consumers put up with those higher prices?" said Kleckner. "I think that most of them don't know about it."

In this country, there is too much emphasis on job protection at almost any cost.

According to the Institute for International Economics Report, consumers pay about $170,000 every year to save each job.

NAFTA allows the passage of GATT to open up markets to about 117 nations. He equated the passage of NAFTA and its effect on Those receiving merit awards are: J. Mike Phillips, Southwest Research & Extension Center, Hope Arkansas; Ray Hoyum, Western Ag-Minerals, Houston, Texas; Steven L. Fales, Penn State University; Jerry H. Cherney, Cornell University, and Daniel J. Undersander, University of Wisconsin.

Those receiving distinguished grasslander awards include: Charles M. Wolgemuth, Hershey; Joe D. Burns, Knoxville, Tennessee; Foy Campbell, Montgomery, Alabama; Willis A. King, Clemson, South Carolina; Dwayne Rohweder; Sun Lakes, Arizona; Arland W. Pauli, Lanark, Illinois; James R. Turner, Arcadia, California; Robert Van Keuren, Wooster, Ohio; Walter F. Wedin, Bloomington, Minnesota; and Robert E. Wagner, Stone Mountain, Georgia.

In the young scientist competition, Mark Gardner, Penn State, won first place with his presentation: Maturity and species effects on forage quality and in protein degradability of forage legumes.

Eric Spandal, Michigan State, was second with his presentation: The relationship between plant maturity and forage quality in alfalfa-grass mixtures.

Paulett Pierson, Ohio State, was third with her presentation: Greenhouse selection for resistance to Sclerotina crown and stem rot in alfalfa.

In the forage spokesperson competition winners are: 1. James McKinlay, Ontario; 2. Donnie Shaw, Kentucky; 3. Audrey Rodgers, Pennsylvania; 4. Bradd Vickers, New York, and 5. Kevin Belkholm, Minnesota.

John Baylor was honored for his many years of service to the American Forage and Grassland Council, especially for his efforts to write and publish the history of the association that has been completed for this the golden anniversary of the council. The past presidents sent a letter of commendation to John, and this letter was framed and presented at the awards banquet.

The letter reads in part: "The past presidents of the American Forage and Grassland Council express appreciation for writing the history of the AFGC. This was a major undertaking and a significant achievement. Those of us who have been privileged to serve this organization in the capacity as president want to take this opportunity to thank you for documenting the forage council's first 50 years. With the knowledge of what has gone before, our present and future leadership can be better prepared to meet the challenges of the future. The past presidents salute you and thank you for contributing so much, both during our past, and on this landmark occasion as we begin our journey into the next 50 years."

John Rodgers passed the gavel to the incoming president, Clive Holland. The next conference is scheduled for Lexington, Kentucky, in 1995.

Who Do You Let Into Your Pockets? (This is part two of a two-part series)

In the first article of this series I asked, "Who determines what you buy? Is it you, a trusted friend, a respected business person, or is it high pressure sales people, con artists and other people of questionable character?

"Do you have a plan that guides family and business decisions? Do your plans dictate what you buy, or are your decisions made on a whim, and are you easily swayed by passionate sales pitches of slick sales people?"

The article also discussed a list of 13 ideas which may serve as guidelines for spending your hard-earned dollars wisely. This article is a continuation of that discussion.

14. Are you sure you want to bite on all those free gifts you allegedly have won, but have to take special action to claim?

How many times have you received a letter or a call announcing that you are among a chosen few that have won one of a list of prizes, or have been chosen as a finalist in a contest? How many thousands, probably millions, of other people are among the "chosen few?" Who's kidding whom?!

Many of these "games" involve hidden costs and required action on your part, such as: expensive toll calls, advanced processing fees, charges for further instructions or information, required trips to listen to high-pressure sales pitches, required purchases, excessive shipping and handling charges, and etc.

15. Get-rich-quick ventures that require money up front to purchase supplies and training materials, especially if these people place most of their emphasis on telling you how to enroll other new prospects into the same business rather than on helping you to successfully produce and market the product. Chances are, this is a pyramid scam in disguise. The big winners are the original promoters, and the big losers are the ones who got into the pyramid scam last.

16. High-return, low-risk, get-rich-quick investments. Don't let your dreams and desire for instant wealth overcome your good senses; come down to earth. High return investments are generally high risk investments: high returns are offered to entice high risk investment capital.

17. Unsolicited merchandise sent to you. You don't have to pay for it or return it; it's legally yours — for free.

18. Charities who attempt to confuse you with tax exempt status. Tax exempt means that the charitable organization is exempt from paying taxes, not the donor. Tax deductible means that donors may deduct these contributions on their tax returns.

19. Businesses and charitable organizations that use look-alike names. Most frauds do not want to look like frauds, so they disguise their true identity by trying to look like someone more credible. Frequently, they will time their fraudulent solicitations to coincide with those of other credible organizations. Know the solicitor and be sure you are contributing to the charity of your choice.

20. Phony solicitors disguised as church workers, veterans, police, homeless people, and children who solicit to support a drug habit or who are working for someone else. You can bypass solicitors and contribute directly to the charity of your choice.

21. Pleas by strangers to contribute to "worthy" causes and become members of their organizations. Do these people have hidden motives and agendas, and what are their tactics? Are you in favor of them?

22. Strangers who prey upon your faith, your fears, and your emotions. You should not have to make decisions under threats from anyone that something bad will happen if you fail to act quickly and do business with them.

23. Strangers and "black sheep in the family" who take advantage of the sick and elderly, under the pretense of caring for their well-being (their health, retirement, financial security, etc.), while intending to steal their life's savings, depriving them of a good retirement, and robbing family members of their inheritance.

As you can see, the list of questionable practices can get quite long. If you are in doubt about a person or group who approaches you, get as much information as possible about them, their business or organization, their products and services, and references. Check the references they provided, and try to find some other local references in addition to what they provided.

Christian Farmers Fellowship To Organize In Pennsylvania

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.)—An effort to start a Pennsylvania chapter of The Fellowship of Christian Farmers International will move forward with a meeting scheduled for Monday, March 28, at the Lancaster County Bible Church located one mile east of Route 283 along Route 772 between Manheim and Mt. Joy.

The purpose of the fellowship is to build, maintain, and strengthen faith in God for the farmer, the farm family and the farming industry through presenting Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour. In June 1987, 27 Maryland men and women met together and reviewed the policies, procedures and spiritual beliefs of this organization. They then voted unanimously to start a Central Maryland Chapter, which was the first chapter in the U.S. The Maryland fellowship now has approximately 580 persons on their mailing list in southern Pennsylvania and Maryland. The broader fellowship now has 30 active chapters in the U.S. with 15 more showing strong interest.

Donald Hershey, dairy farmer from Manheim, said the Pennsylvania meeting will have as guest speakers Wilson Lippy, the new international president, and Dave Sparks, the new Maryland president.

The Christian farmers that have initiated this effort for Pennsylvania are anxious to have other farmers with similar interest to attend this meeting. Hershey said you may call his farm number for discussions or for more information about the meeting. This number is (717) 665-3808.

Farm Issues Discussed At Conference

DECATUR, Ill. — Adopt-A-Farm Family of America, Inc., which has stepped forward during hurricanes, floods and droughts to assist victims, held their fourth Rural Restoration Conference here recently.

Motivational speakers and consultants informed participants about marketing farm products, soil life and tillage practices, crisis sharing, rural community restoration, making decisions by faith, marriage enrichment, keeping the family business, and prayer partnerships.

Two hundred fifty people representing 16 states attended.

Successful Farming Magazine and Myers Land Management co-sponsored the event.

A second Rural Restoration Conference will be held in Nebraska City, Neb., Aug. 28-30.

ADADC Dairying Award To Underwood

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — William T. Underwood, dairy farmer from Tully, New York, was presented the Service to Dairying Award at the 34th Annual Meeting of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) at the Sheraton Inn, Liverpool, New York. The award is given each year to an outstanding person in the dairy industry in recognition of their commitment to dairy promotion.

Underwood, who began his career on the farm in 1955, has held significant positions with many dairy promotion organizations at the local and national level. His service and dedication to dairying has spanned over 40 years.

In 1962, Underwood was named New York State Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year. He has been a director for the Preble Bulk Milk Cooperative for over 25 years where he has held the offices of president, secretary and treasurer. Underwood has also chaired the executive committee of the Cortland County Cooperative Extension Association and has been president and state director of the Cortland County Holstein Club.

Mr. Underwood has been a member of the New York State Milk Promotion Advisory Board since it's inception 22 years ago and has served as chairman for the past 18 years. Currently, he serves as chairman of the National Dairy Board's advertising and sales promotion committee and is a member of it's finance and administrative export market enhancement committee. Mr. Underwood has been a member of the National Dairy Board since 1988.

With the assistance of his son, Richard, and son-in-law, Frank Ricigliano, Underwood and his wife, Jean, operate an 800-acre dairy farm in Cortland County where they milk 250 Holsteins. ADADC was pleased to honor Mr. Underwood at its recent annual meeting.

In other business, Raymond Johnson was re-elected as president of the association. Johnson a dairy farmer from Schaghticoke, New York, starts his twelveth year as president of ADADC's board. In partnership with his son Edward, Johnson operates a 530-acre farm with Holstein cattle.

Dairy producers representing New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania met in February to elect officers and review the advertising and promotion programs implemented by ADADC during 1993. This year, a video presentation depicted how ADADC maintained its high quality of programs and high level of promotion results while gaining the greatest return for dairy farmer's investment even though ADADC's annual budget has not increased in five years.

Also elected were: vice president, K. Allen Roszel of Montrose, Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania; second vice president, Paul Kirsch of Varysburg in Wyoming County, New York; treasurer, Robert Harrison of Skaneateles, Onondaga County, New York; and secretary, David Hardie of Lansing, Tompkins County, New York.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. is a dairy promotion organization which represents dairy producers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Grass Is Greener On Forgey's Side Of The Fence

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LOGANSPORT, Ind. — As a forage farmer, Dave Forgey always searches for greener grass. About three years ago while reading about New Zealand's grazing practices, he visualized the possibility for greener grass on his 300-acre dairy farm.

Now, Forgey brags that "the grass is definitely greener on our side of the fence."

This discovery has raised his dairy farming profits 400 percent.

Forgey is so excited about his discovery that he has traveled to more than 10 states across the U.S. this year to tell other farmers how they too can have greener grass.

Forgey, who said that he has always been a good forage producer — probably better than a dairyman because I knew plants — classified himself as a conventional dairy farmer until his experiment three years ago.

"Then I took a 180 degree turn and broke my farmland into paddocks that are three to four acres is size and went to seasonal dairying. Forgey's 150 cows graze in those paddocks from late March until December 15.

He lets all his cows dry up before Christmas and then freshen in March and April.

"The cow that freshens in March hits peak production in May and June when they need the most feed. That corresponds with the same growing pattern as acreage," Forgey said.

Because he always kept detailed records, Forgey said that those records showed that it was really tough to make money in dairying during December and January because of the cold weather problems causing equipment breakdowns and animal health problems.

With one easy stroke, Forgey changed that. "If the cows are dry, there aren't problems," he said. "No frozen udders, no equipment breakdowns to deal with in those cold frigid months, no fuel costs, and less time working."

Since the cows graze, Fogery was able to sell his expensive hay baling equipment — the chopper, combine, and corn planter.

Now he needs only a haybine, a round baler and stretch wrap to harvest the excess forage for the small amount he feeds the dry cows when it's too cold for pasturing.

Before the transition to grazing, Fogery said that his herd averaged 20,000 pounds in production. "But the returns for the investment was only 5 percent. Now, after three years of grazing, my returns are 20 percent — that's a 400 percent difference," a jubilant Forgey reported.

He tells fellow farmers, "We must learn to control our costs. Margins are smaller every year and with world markets looming over the dairy end, they can ship in milk at $8 a hundred weight."

After careful analysis, Forgey predicts $10 a hundred weight will be the highest price in the next 10 years.

"If that's true, we must find a cheaper way to produce milk," Forgey said.

The most logical way is to look for lower costs. And to Forgery there is no quicker way to cut costs than to use rotational grazing. He estimates that it cost him less that $20 per acre to put up a one wire high-tensile fence that is electrified and can be moved around.

Fear of change keeps most farmers from making the switch, Forgey said. Some think cows bloat on grazing, but that can be easily controlled by stringing polywire inside the fenced area and moving it two to three times a day.

On a typical day, Forgey said his 150 cows are put into a three-fourth acre of good quality alfalfa grass pasture that is 8- to 10-inches tall. This forces the cattle to graze the area to about three inches. As soon as the 3-inch height is reached — about one hour or less — the polywire is moved, forcing the cows to graze the next three-fourth acre. This keeps the cows from top grazing and from trampling the grass,

Forgey estimates that it takes less than 5 minutes to change the polywire.

Some farmers fear muddy pastures, but Forgey said that is never a problem when rotational grazing is used.

"Because the grass is shorter, younger plants come up and that makes thicker grass, which in turn controls the mud made by cows," he said.

"Many people don't understand the concept and think you can't make it work. But if you understand plants and how they grow, it works," he said.

Dave Forgey reports that his profits increased 400 percent when he switched to seasonal milking and intensive grazing.

On hot days, the breakwires are changed more often, which allows more moisture in the grass where the cows graze.

Before Forgey made the switch, he said that he read tremendously about the research done on New Zealand grazing. One article showed how a small farmer milking only 30 cows could survive financially in 1987.

"That made me realize the concept and the profit potential," Forgey said. "I thought why can't I use this same concept with my 150 cows"?

Studies show that about one acre is needed per cow and its replacement to make grazing work. Although Forgey has only 150 cows on his 300 acres, now that he knows grazing works, he plans to increase his herd size soon.

Forgey had a consultant from Wisconsin help him convert his farm to paddocks and since then Forgey has been on his own.

"It's a big change, and one that a farmer does not get much support from as far as equipment dealers, feed companies, and nutrition consultants," he said.

"It's especially difficult for farmers to make the switch if they are already experiencing financial difficulties, because it is not promoted as a viable option — because so little is known about it."

But Forgey sees that changing. Since he has experienced success with this method, he is in great demand as a speaker at many extension and agricultural meetings.

Forgey, himself, cannot stop talking about the benefits of rotational grazing. He said there is less stress on the soil since it isn't plowed. In early March, Forgey uses a four-wheeler to hand seed an established pasture. He uses about 10 pounds legumes in a hand seeder fastened to the four-wheeler.

There's little need for fertilizing since the cows take care of that while grazing.

Forgey said that he ocassionally stimulates early and late growth in the pasture by adding some nitrogen.

GATT on world trade with the movement of a battleship. "Once it's started, it just keeps going," he said, allowing other countries, such as Argentina, Chile, and those on the Pacific Rim, to join in. This could benefit consumers, and agriculture, in a big way.

The markets will thus "respond to consumer supply and demand, rather than political supply and demand," according to Kleckner.

Kleckner spoke about the importance of respecting the role science has in helping to improve the work farmer's work, which goes unappreciated by many who do not understand farming. He cited the efforts of environmentalists to create more pressures on farmers regarding animal care.

"We continually face rules and regulations that are imposed, not to promote better husbandry, but to answer unfounded charges," he said. "It's clear to me that we'll never be able to please some people no matter how well we treat our animals or how well we care for them."

This produces a tremendous impact on those who produce the feed and forage for the animals.

Kleckner said that his farm farrows year-round in farrowing stalls. He said, "I wonder about these folks who are screaming about how animals are confined.

"I'd like them to come up to my farm or some of your farms, for example, when it's 30 degrees below zero or 20 below zero and the wind chill is 50, 60, 70 degrees below zero, and (see) that building is heated and those heat lamps (are on). Would (the pigs) be more comfortable outside in weather like that? I think not."

He said he is bothered by media accounts that portray a farmer that is doing something wrong "and make a big story of how they treat their animals or about some environmental impact that their farm has caused," he said. "You can find those people. And the inference is that that's all of us."

Kleckner also spoke about the severe weather that Midwest farmers have had to endure, and efforts to recover from a debilitating summer of floods and a cold, snowy winter. He said that in parts of northwest Iowa, "it was horrible up there — it was unbelievable." He said the weather was so bad "you feel like crying but you cannot because you're an adult," and humor is the only way some farmers can deal with the situation.

Penn State Joins IPM Development Consortium

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State is one of several institutions that will participate in a national consortium led by Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University to develop international integrated pest management (IPM) programs.

The five-year, $7.5 million IPM program is funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) and will involve countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. In many developing countries, crop losses to insects, diseases, weeds and other pests are estimated to be as high as 50 percent. IPM could effectively control these pests while greatly reducing the economic and environmental costs of using chemicals.

Three researchers in the College of Agricultural Sciences are participating in the initial stages of the program. They are Dr. Charles Pitts, professor of entomology; Dr. Edwin Rajotte, associate professor of entomology; and George Greaser, research associate in agricultural economics and rural sociology.

IPM integrates pest-control decisions into economically sustainable, ecologically based farming systems. It involves using pest-resistant plant varieties, rotating crops, adjusting planting or harvesting dates and introducing and encouraging natural predators of pests.

"IPM enables farmers to avoid excessive use of pesticides, which could endanger the environment and the health of farmers, rural citizens and consumers of agricultural products all over the world," said Pitts, who has done pest-management research in Albania and Swaziland.

"Being selected to be part of the consortium indicates that IPM researchers at Penn State are becoming nationally recognized as top experts," said Dr. J. Dean Jansma, associate dean for international programs. "The program gives Penn State an opportunity to expand its IPM efforts with other countries, helping them increase crop yields and at the same time protect the environment, farm workers and consumers.

"With international trade agreements such as the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), promoting IPM in other countries will help ensure that imported foods are free of pesticides."

"The plan is to take a participatory approach to IPM," said Rajotte, who has studied economic impacts of different agricultural practices and has helped develop pest-management expert systems. "Many other nations already use IPM strategies. After we find out what practices a country is using, we can work with farmers, scientists and other officials to further develop IPM programs."

"Our approach will include sociological and economic considerations in these countries," said Greaser, who has helped develop farm management systems in Poland and Swaziland. "Where adoption of IPM is hindered by technical, socioeconomic, policy-related or informational constraints, every effort will be made to correct these.

"A major focus will be the role of women in IPM, because a large percentage of farmers in many developing countries are women," Greaser said. "The goal is to assist different countries in developing management systems that work for them."

Eckel Reports On Farm Bureau Legislative Tour

WASHINGTON D.C. — A statewide farm leader Wednesday called on Pennsylvania congressmen and U.S. senators to continue to support a balanced budget amendment and wetlands reform, and to heed farmers' concerns about proposals to reorganize USDA and rewrite the Clean Water Act.

Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (Farm Bureau) made his remarks during a breakfast meeting of lawmakers and about 200 farmers participating in Farm Bureau's Washington Legislative Tour. The farmers, all members of county legislative committees, had visited their congressmen and senators the day before to personally convey their concerns on issues affecting agriculture.

While a balanced budget amendment, Senate Joint Resolution 41, fell four votes shy of the two-thirds majority it needed to pass the Senate on March 1, Farm Bureau will continue working for its approval when the House votes on House Joint Resolution 103 later this month and will then work to have it reconsidered in the Senate.

"I have heard the argument that a balanced budget would endanger the economic health of the nation and lead to devastating cuts in vital programs on which millions of Americans depend," Eckel told legislators, "Well, I contend that ALL AMERICANS depend on our government acting responsibly by staying within the tax revenues that it receives."

Continued deficit spending, Eckel said, is placing an ever increasing burden on taxpayers. "It is difficult to envision the passage of the family farm onto the next generation, or the very survival of the family farm if the tax burden continues to increase."

Federal regulators have used a section of the Clean Water Act of 1972 dealing with the discharge of dredged materials into navigable waters as one of the foundations for wetlands policy. The section has been expanded through court rulings and regulations, from not one but four separate agencies, into a confusing federal wetlands policy that is adversely affecting landowners, according to Eckel. Farm Bureau is supporting H.R. 1330 introduced by Reps. Jimmy Hayes (D-LA) and Tom Ridge (R-PA) to enact a consistent and realistic definition that protects true wetlands, he said.

"H.R. 1330 strikes a balance between protection of wetlands; protection of private property rights, and protection for our water quality," Eckel said. It also provides compensation to landowners if their land is "taken" by regulatory action.

Farm Bureau members are proponents of efficiency and cost containment in government, Eckel said. "But, farmers are wondering if their enthusiasm for a balanced budget has made them targets rather than examples. It seems that the U.S. Department of Agriculture is being singled out for evaluation and reorganization while other agencies conduct business as usual."

Farm Bureau supports USDA Secretary Espy's proposal to consolidate farm programs into a single Farm Service Agency, but the locations of local offices should be determined according to the unique needs of the area rather than a minimum number of farmers served, Eckel said.

"Pennsylvania Farm Bureau supports efforts to better organize USDA if it results in a better and more efficient manner to deliver programs to agriculture," Eckel said. "The first steps for reorganization and cost savings measures should be done at the federal level before attacking county office structures of these services and programs. If it works at the federal level, then move ahead with the reorganization."

Congress is expected to rewrite the Clean Water Act this year and is under pressure to increase regulation of "nonpoint" sources of pollution, including farm runoff. Eckel pointed out that 1,200 Pennsylvania farmers are already voluntarily participating in programs to reduce nutrient runoff into the Chesapeake Bay. Cost-share programs between 1985 and 1991 have enabled farmers to reduce nitrogen and phosphorus runoff into the bay.

"These accomplishments were made voluntarily, with technical assistance and financial incentives from government to farmers," Eckel said. "Long-term success will depend on the voluntary efforts of the farmers, and adequate cost-share funding."

Lebanon Holds 4-H Livestock Meeting

From the left, Lebanon County Extension Agent Kenneth Winebark presents a certificate of appreciation to Richard and Carol Kreider and their son Brian for many years of service to the county 4-H community.

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County 4-H Livestock Club held its annual banquet Tuesday at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds and named its outstanding members.

At least 200 people attended the event held for the first time in the large show barn facility of the fairgrounds convention center.

During the meeting, the achievements of members during the past year were reviewed, leaders were recognized for their efforts, and the club's outstanding members were named.

The outstanding senior member was Wendy Atkins, 14, who has been a member of the the 4-H Beef Club, Sheep Club, Swine Club and judging team. She has been involved in many projects and demonstrations and competitions and is also a member of Cedar Crest High School FFA, the school band, Youth For Christ and its volleyball team, and is on the school's superior honor roll.

In cooperation with her brothers, she had projects in breeding hogs, and then on her own she did projects with market steer, breeding ram lamb, ewes, two market hogs for the county fair, a carcass hog, and entered hogs in the club roundup, the Southeastern Pa. Hog Derby, at Keystone International Livestock Exposition, and the Farm Show. She has also raised market and carcass lambs for competition.

She was seventh in judging at State Day, and participated in judging contests in York, the Lebanon-Lancaster contest, York Far, Lebanon Fair, in the Penn State University Block and Bridle competition, at Delaware Valley University, the Stockman's Contest, and at the Eastern States Exposition in Massachusetts.

In addition she participated in numerous food and livestock commodity promotions, served as chairman of the club's cookie sales, has been involved in a number of club activities.

The outstanding junior member was Joseph Tice, 10, whose projects included market lamb, market hogs and breeding sheep. He participated in a number of contest locally, at Penn State, Delaware Valley College and in Lancaster and York, as well as being a member of the county junior livestock judging team. He also participated in the county fair, his club's Roundup and the state Farm Show.

His additional activities include serving as an acolyte at Millcreek Lutheran Church, playing baseball, soccer and basketball, and he is a member of Boy Scout Tropp 47.

The Outstanding Rookie of the Year was Janine Winebark, 8, who showed the grand champion market hog of the 1994 state Farm Show.

Janine has also been involved in numerous commodity promotions, almost all the 4-H club activities, and she has raised market lambs and hogs and competed at the county fair, the Southeast Pa. Market Hog Derby, taking champion carcass, taking a first at the Maryland State Fair, two firsts at the Eastern National Livestock Exposition, placed in the KILE, and showed the grand champion crossbred hog at the 4-H Roundup, taking reserve grand champion overall, in addition to many other awards and achievements.

Nutrient Management Plans Will Affect Animal Producers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many of Pennsylvania's livestock producers may be affected by the state's Nutrient Management Act. The act requires livestock operations that generate or use large amounts of animal manure to develop and implement nutrient management plans.

Now is a good time for farm owners and operators to determine whether their facilities will need to comply with the act's requirements, according to an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"The Nutrient Management Act was passed in July, and State Conservation Commission regulations based on the act will be issued within the next two years," said Dr. John Becker, associate professor of agricultural economics. "This gives producers who will be affected an opportunity to get a jump start on nutrient management planning."

Under the act, animal operations that exceed a certain animal density per acre are considered concentrated animal operations and must develop and implement sound nutrient management plans.

"If a farm's animal density exceeds two animal-equivalent units per acre on an annualized basis, that farm will be required to develop and implement a nutrient management plan," Becker said. "An animal-equivalent unit equals 1,000 pounds of liveweight livestock or poultry, regardless of how many animals comprise the unit.

"Of particular interest in the forthcoming regulations will be the formula developed to calculate a farm's animal density, particularly in a mixed livestock enterprise."

Affected operations in existence when the regulations become effective must prepare a nutrient management plan (NMP) within one year of the effective date of the regulations. "Operations that come into existence or expand after the regulations become effective must prepare a plan within three months after the facility starts operating," Becker said.

The NMP and any plan amendments must be developed by a nutrient management specialist who certifies that the plan was prepared in accordance with the requirements of the act. Plans are to be submitted for review and approval to the local conservation district or to the State Conservation Commission if the farm is in a county that elects to not accept administrative authority.

"Within 90 days, the reviewing agency must either approve, disapprove or modify the plan," Becker said. "The agency must notify the person submitting the plan of its action in writing, and must include a specific explanation for disapproval or modification."

Approved plans must be fully implemented within three years. "This limit can be extended by two years if the plan requires substantial capital improvements," Becker said. "But the owner must demonstrate that the improvement costs cannot be financed through available funding sources, including a Nutrient Management Fund created by the act."

The act also gives farmers a degree of protection from fines, penalties and other complaints. "If nutrient pollution results from actions that are in compliance with an NMP, the farm owner is exempt from fines and penalties under the Nutrient Management Act," Becker said. "This insulates farmers from fines and penalties under the act itself.

"Moreover, if a person is fully and properly implementing an approved management plan, the person's actions are to be considered a mitigating factor in any civil action for damages alleged to be caused by actions performed under the approved plan."

Becker said that the act does not limit the power of state agencies and departments to enforce other statutes. Common law nuisance claims and state environmental laws such as the Clean Streams Law and the Solid Waste Management Act are unaffected by adoption of the Nutrient Management Act.

For more information about nutrient management, contact your county's Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

Report Potholes On PennDOT Hotline

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As of March 7, citizens throughout south central Pennsylvania were able to once again use PennDOT's toll-free hotline service to report problem potholes on state roadways.

The hotline is to be available to callers from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. It is to be in operation for four weeks, until April 1.

The toll-free number for PennDOT's District 8, which covers the eight-county region of south central Pennsylvania, is 1-800-932-4855. This area includes Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, Perry and York counties.

According to District Engineer Baily Hoffman, the hotline assists PennDOT crews in locating problem potholes that oftentimes develop overnight during this time of year.

"The frequent changes from freezing cold weather to mild weather contributes to the development of potholes throughout our area," Hoffman said. "Quite a number of potholes have developed over the past month. The hotline will assist PennDOT crews in scheduling and making repairs."

Callers who use the hotline service should provide the following information to the hotline operator:

- the location of the pothole in terms of the county, township, city, or borough;
- the traffic route, state route, or local road name where the pothole is located; and
- the location of the pothole based on existing landmarks such as buildings, billboards, signs, etc.

Hoffman reminds callers to call back if the telephone lines are busy, as may be the case during peak periods.

Pothole hotline calls are noted and sent directly to the appropriate county maintenance office for action. Normally, problem potholes are scheduled for repairs within two weeks.

Last year, 440 calls were received on the hotline for the District 8 region.

The Halls have about 95 sows and raise both purebred Yorkshires and Hampshires.

The Donald Chambers Farm, of Punxsutawney, showed the champion Yorkshire boar, while Hall showed the reserve champion. The Chambers have about 40 sows and maintain an all purebred herd of all three breeds. The farm is run by Dennis, Don, and Don Jr.

Wilson's Yorkshires and Hampshires is a farrow-to-finish oepration using about 90 sows. It is runs by Steve, Jeff and Ron Wilson.

Smiths Hog Farm is run by Bruce and Sandy Smith and they have 80 sows and sell feeders and breeding stock.

In the Hampshire breed, Todd and Terry Bennecoff, of Kutztown, showed all three champions, and the reserve champion Hampshire bred gilt.

The Bennecoffs sell a lot of 4-H project pigs and breeding stock and keep about 300 on their 100-acre farm. They also raise their own corn, soybeans and small grains for feed.

Safety Video

ALBANY, N.Y. — As part of a campaign to cut farm accidents and bring down the cost of workers' compensation, New York Farm Bureau Communications Department has produced a training video aimed at reducing back injuries. The 17-minute video features John Pollock, Executive Director of the Rural Health & Safety Council and a farm safety educator at Cornell University.

According to Mark F. Emery, NYFB's Director of Communications, "The back safety video was produced for farm employers to use in their on-farm safety training for themselves and their employees. We fully expect this video to be the first in a series of productions that will each focus in on a particular type of farm accident."

The Farm Bureau safety video on reducing back injuries can be borrowed or purchased by calling New York Farm Bureau Communications Department at (518) 436-8495 or by writing to: PO Box 992, Glenmont, NY 12077-0992. The cost of purchasing the video is $8.00 (includes postage and handling).

Counties Process Complete Using Laptops

PAT TORETTI
DRPC ARIS Adm.

Pennsylvania DHIA's program for putting laptops in the hands of its technicians is paying big dividends, now that a large majority of field employees have mastered the program. "About 130 of 175 technicians are now released to transmit data to the DHIA processing center," says Dean Amick, field services director. "For February, the first month in which we have good comparisons on stats for herds sent either electronically or under the old manual system, our turn-around time was 4 days from date of test to the mail for herds prepared on paper, versus only 2.9 days for the electronically submitted herds. Owing to some changes in the lab and even more technicians coming on-line, the numbers for the first week of March look even better; about 3.5 days to ship for paper herds, and only 2.5 days for electronic transmission," says Amick. Beth Kelchner, a Senior Technician from Lycoming County, relates a now common experience: "I tested a herd Friday night and Saturday, sent the transmission and samples on Saturday. The dairyman called me to tell me his papers were in his mailbox on Tuesday, he was so pleased."

Jim Boyer, DRPC manager for Pa DHIA agrees. "The turnaround time statistics are very good. Quick return has always been an important dimension of our business. Although we've always enjoyed big advantages over other DHIAs where the lab tests are done one place and processing is done somewhere else, it's quite an achievement to be able to knock a full day off turnaround time."

Other advantages cited by Boyer include the reduction in errors and records correction expected at the outset of the project. "Overall, we've been able to reduce the number of herds with errors by about a third for those that are prepared on laptops.

That's still conservative when you consider that until very recently we weren't enforcing all the data edits on PC's, in order to give technicians time to adjust. When the folks in the field are more comfortable with the program and the edits get more stringent, we're looking to double or triple that improvement."

The program is rapidly gaining momentum. For February, the first month in which full statistics on the program were available, about 2,500 of the 3,800 herds processed were sent electronically. While that is nearly two thirds of all herds processed, Dean Amick sees a time when only a tiny fraction of herds will actually be sent on paper. "Some owner sampler herds, new herds or herds witih special problems may come in that way, but the future is really already here. It's quite a change from the days back in 1957 when we first computerized and our turnaround time went from same day to 'only' 30 days. I guess the computer guys are finally catching up with the field."

"Already we've had counties that have processed completely on laptops for several months. York was the first to go all electronic, and has been submitting herds that way for about 5 months now. The region manager for that area, Dave Shenk, deserves a lot of credit for pushing the program."

The implementation of PC's in the field has not been without some adjustments, DHIA staffers note. A help desk to support DHIA field employees throughout the state had to be established. The DHIA laboratory, long accustomed to running ahead of the data entry operation, has had to make some changes. And the data entry staff itself, from a high of nine employees a decade ago, has fallen to only two. The biggest changes, of course, have come for DHIA's field technicians. "That's been the bright spot of the whole thing for me," says Boyer. "We've taken our time with this to insure as much as possible that the laptop program was a technicians program rather than a processing center program. We've had a small core of technicians, Anne Brooks in Centre County, Ron Morgan in Mifflin, and Arlen Crider in Franklin who've been working closely with us for almost two years. Then we involved a larger pilot group that's refined the program further over the last year or so. They pretty much designed their own Barnsheet program. And that group hasn't been shy about asking for changes. Many of our technicians have a surprising amount of computer experience, and many more have a genuine aptitude for the work. Still, it's been a big adjustment. Almost a culture change. They've done an outstanding job."

Caren Dodd of Erie County admits that in the beginning there was some extra work, and a few adjustments to make, but overall is quite pleased with the program. "AP herds really appreciate getting their factored milk weights on test day. And the computer adds some prestige to the job."

What's next for the DHIA laptop program? "We wanted to concentrate most heavily on the initial training for the Barnsheet program," Amick says. "But now that technicians are comfortable with the program, we're ready to really take off. The simple test day reporting features in the Barnsheet, like milkweight calculations and data editing, will be vastly improved by the addition of full capability for on-farm reporting in the next few months. We'll be concentrating on hammering out the last details of data entry, and moving technicians toward more and more realtime reporting at our Spring Conferences, which start at the end of this month."

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

A Home Where The Buffalo Roam

ment such as silennium which they discovered is very low in their ground. They do not use sprays or chemicals in growing feed for the bison, and they use no synthetic feeds.

The question is often asked, "Why are the animals sometimes called buffalo but other times, bison?" These names are used interchangeably in writings from the American Bison Association and the National Buffalo Association. The official name of the native American buffalo is American Bison. This is becoming the preferred name by the growers to identify their animals as being native to the United States. Water buffalo are raised in other countries, and some of that meat gets into the U.S. and is advertised for sale as buffalo meat. According to proven information, Doug shares that that meat is not of the same high quality and good taste as American Bison. So he and other bison growers prefer to describe their animals as bison so that buyers of their meat may be assured that it is from native buffalo rather than imported water buffalo.

Doug and Shirley love to share the advantages of raising bison, and they have a standing offer to share information with other interested growers so they may help others to learn from the mistakes made early in their operation.

The advantages of raising these animals are many. No buildings are needed because they are range animals and need no protection from the elements. Shirley laughingly told of how she and Doug would look outside during the heavy snows this Winter and see nothing but big bumps of snow dotting the landscape. No part of the animals was showing. Then they would stand up and shake and send snow flying everywhere. They eat snow if water is not available. They will dig through to reach the hay if it becomes covered with snow. They are very self-sufficient.

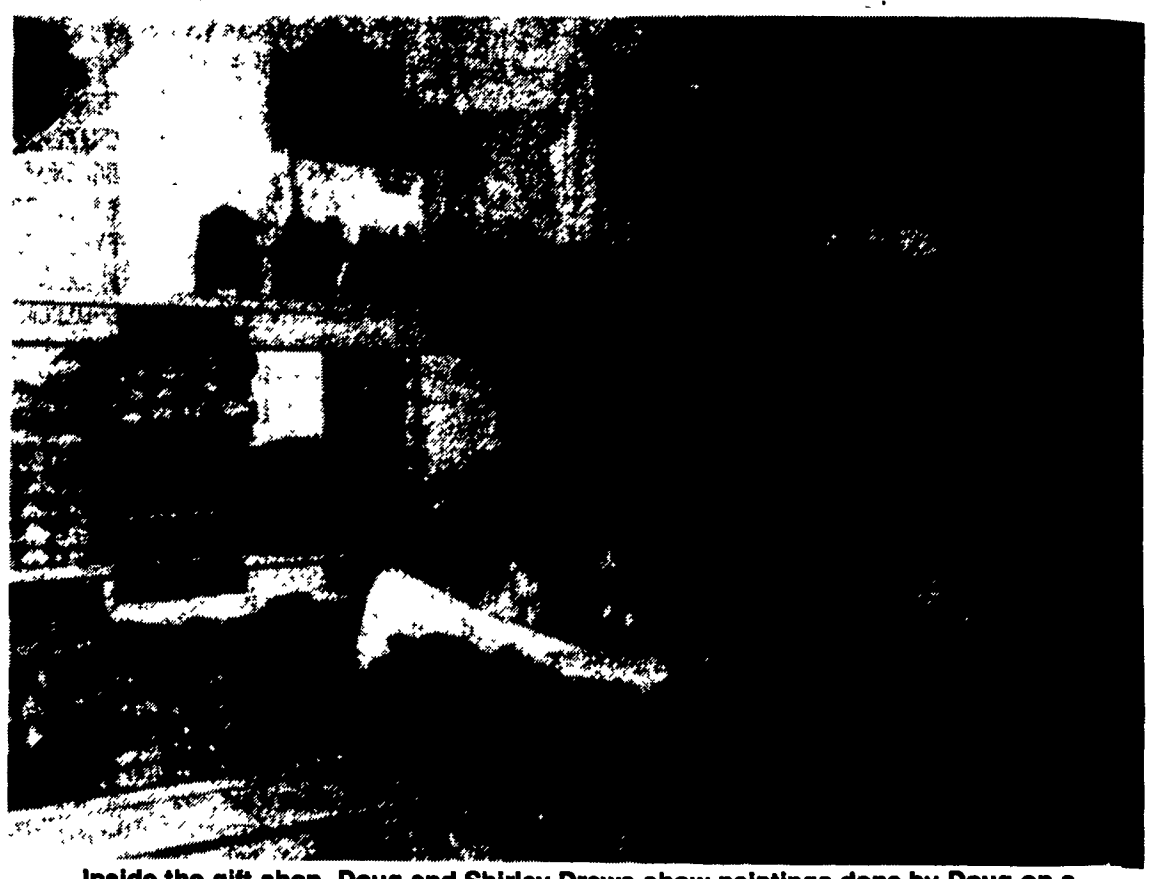
In addition, their feed requirements are not as high in protein and so a lesser grade of hay and feed may be given to them. They are wise in their eating habits and so eat to survive and not just to enjoy the food. Published statistics show that their meat is more lean, lower in fat, cholesterol and calories, and higher in protein than other meats. They are free of drugs, steroids, etc. The meat has an excellent sweet taste and does not shrink in cooking — what you see is what you get after cooking.

Since the bison is officially a wild animal, regulations for slaughtering and processing are much more severe than for other animals. The Drewes have their animals slaughtered elsewhere, but they must pay a high hourly rate to have a government inspector present during the entire process.

Orders are taken for fresh meat, but frozen meat is always available at the gift shop on their farm. The frozen meat is vacuum packed, increasing shelf life and cutting down on freezer burn. The cuts are the same as beef except for the peak roast which is the hump. Their meat is also available at a local market and restaurant.

Their gift shop at the end of their farm road is filled with items that show bison in, on or around them. Doug's beautiful art work is also available, with his most unusual work being pictures that he painted on the shoulder blades taken from slaughtered animals and dried. His love of nature and of the farm is clearly reflected in his art work. He said that he paints from his heart and that he is like a sponge that wants to take in everything from nature and farming and then give it out. He loves the majesty of the animals he raises and relates them to our American history which he loves.

The Drewes anticipate having a grand opening the end of June when they will have meals for sale and people can go through the line and fill up on all cuts of bison meat. It will be timed with when calves are coming so that the public can enjoy seeing them and the adult bison.



Inside the gift shop, Doug and Shirley Drews show paintings done by Doug on a shoulder blade of a bison.

Doug and Shirley pointed out that they receive a lot of help on the farm from sons Jason, 12; Joshua, 11; and Daniel, 9. When they come to the farm for the Summer, as well as Saturdays the rest of the year, they like to bring friends along for the fun times which are mixed in with doing many chores. It is obvious that the Drewes enjoy having the boys, and they feel that work is good discipline for them. They painted the gift shop, and Jason drove all of the nails to build its porch. They also help with the very large truck patch which produces many bushels of sweet corn as well as squash and other vegetables that are sold locally.

The buffalo roam, the boys work and play, and Doug and Shirley Drewes enjoy what is a dream come true for them on their farm in Juniata County, just one mile from the Mifflintown Exit of Route 22/322, only 45 minutes West of Harrisburg and 40 minutes East of State College. Visitors are always welcome.

Dauphin County Conservation District Offers Trees, Flowers

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The Dauphin County Conservation District is again conducting a spring seedling sale to promote the importance of forest resources and to encourage area residents to actively celebrate Arbor Day by planting a tree.

This year the district is offering 12 varieties of 2 to 4-year-old bareroot seedlings.

The evergreen varieties, 10 to 30-inches high, are packaged in bundles of 10 of the same species and sell for $6 per bundle.

Hardwoods available this year are White Flowering Dogwood, Chinese Dogwood, Black Gum, European White Birch, Red Oak or Redosier Dogwood.

The height of the hardwood seedlings may be anywhere from 10-inches to 44-inches, depending on variety, and will sell for $1 each.

Large quantity orders may also be purchased at special bulk rates.

Also this year, the district is offering wildflower seeds. There will be Sunny, Shady and Perk-Up mixes and they will be sold in $5, $8 and $10 containers.

In pursuit of the conservation of our natural resources, we are often charged to "think globally and act locally."

Probably no single action better exemplifies that statement than the planting of a tree. Trees beautify our immediate surroundings and provide shelter to wildlife, as well as shade to make our homes and offices more energy efficient.

They reduce noise and provide wind barriers. They cool the air through the evaporation of large quantities of water they transpire. By inhibiting soil erosion, they ultimately provide cleaner streams, rivers and estuaries, and most important, they release precious oxygen into the atmosphere which is vital to the protection of earth and all its inhabitants.

We all know of the economic value of trees. They supply us with hundreds of products we cannot live without, so it is essential that we keep renewing this valuable resource. You can ultimately serve the globe by planting trees locally.

Orders must be pre-paid and received by the district office by March 29, 1994.

Seedlings should be picked up Thursday, April 14, between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m., or Friday, April 15, from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, 1451 Peters Mountain Road (Route 225) in Dauphin.

Chester County Offers Info On Clean, Green

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Chester County has taken steps to update and enhance its "Clean & Green" program, and the Chester County Board of Commissioners said they want to be sure that all eligible landowners are aware of the possible benefits that could be awaiting them.

"Clean & Green" is the common name for Act 319, the Pennsylvania Farmland and Forest Land Assessment Act. Under Act 319, land parcels of 10 acres or more, which are devoted to agricultural or forest land use, may be assessed at use value rather than fair market value.

According to county officials, the program allows owners of qualifying land the opportunity to enter into an agreement with the county. As part of the agreement, property owners maintain their property in its natural, agricultural or wooded state, and in exchange, receive a reduced real estate tax assessment.

What the county has done, according to Commissioners' Chairman Joseph J. Kenna is identify and digitize soils and replace a time-consuming manual process with a computer.

"We went across the county, took all land parcels of 10 acres or more, digitized the soil types, and computerized that information. We now have accurate, easily accessible information and the technology needed to keep the program current on an ongoing basis," Kenna explained.

21st Century Appraisal, an appraisal firm that specializes in Clean & Green assessments, worked with the county in enhancing the Act 319 process.

Using the information gathered, 21st Century has prepared an Act 319 assessment on every potentially eligible property in the county.

Commissioner Karen L. Martynick said the goal now is to share that information.

"We want to make sure that each landowner has the information they need to make an educated, informed decision about whether or not the Act 319 program is beneficial to them at this time. We want them to be able to physically see how Act 319 would impact them," Martynick said.

Martynick said that each eligible property owner is to receive a letter at the end of February. The letter is to contain the property's market value assessment, the property's projected Act 319 assessment and, if relevant, the property's Act 515 assessment.

For information purposes, the letter will also show the impact of these assessments on the property's county tax, based on the 1993 tax rate.

Commissioner Andrew E. Dinniman said that the true benefits of the updated Act 319 program are more likely to be felt at the time of reassessment.

Dinniman said, "Some property owners may not see a significant benefit to their 319 numbers right now, but we expect that as we near reassessment they will. At the time of reassessment, Act 319 values will remain fairly constant as they are tied to "use" rather than "fair market value."

The commissioners encourage interested property owners to mark their calendars to attend one of the four upcoming public meetings that have been scheduled to more fully explain and discuss the ins and outs of Act 319.

The public meetings, which will be conducted by Dr. Robert Barr, president of 21st Century Appraisals, in conjunction with other members from the Chester County farming community, will be held:

- Tuesday, March 1, at the Owen J. Robert High School auditorium, Routes 23 and 100, Bucktown at 7:30 p.m.
- Wednesday, March 2, at Honey Brook Fire Company, Railroad Avenue and King Street, Honey Brook at 1 p.m.
- Wednesday, March 2, Unionville Middle School auditorium, 760 Unionville Road (Route 82), Unionville at 7:30 p.m.
- And on Thursday, March 3, at the Octarara High School cafeteria, Highland Road, Atglen at 7:30 p.m.

County officials remind property owners who are, or who may be, interested in enrolling in the Act 319 program for the 1995 tax year, that they must file their application by June 1.

The commissioners point out that the public meetings will deal with general information concerning Act 319. After all of the meetings have been concluded, property owners may contact representative of 21st Century Appraisals to answer more specific questions

Dan Quayle Featured At Christian Farmers Fellowship

TONI GUAGENTI
AND JOANNE MORVAY
Carroll County Times
Used By Permission

Cheryl Craig got a little closer to former Vice President Dan Quayle than most during Quayle's spirited trip to Carroll County Saturday.

More than 700 people came to meet the man who, with former President George Bush, won every precinct in Carroll County during the 1992 presidential election.

Donning their Sunday best a day early, about 80 people posed for photographs with the former vice president at a special reception before the luncheon. The chance to brush greatness cost $100, proceeds of which went to the Christian farmers organization.

Quayle came into the county riding shotgun next to Sen. Larry Haines, R-Carroll. Haines wouldn't divulge many details about their car-ride conversation but said the two talked about the chance of Maryland getting a Republican governor this year.

"Where'd you get all this snow?" Quayle asked as he squinted his eyes slightly at the bright white mounds outside Wilhelm Ltd.

Inside he was greeted with more brightness, this time from flashing cameras as the man of the hour started pressing the flesh with his fans.

A special closed-off area adjacent to the luncheon room was transformed into a makeshift studio — complete with flag props — as photographer Roger Brackney snapped mementos for the excited crowd.

"This isn't a practice one, this counts," quipped Quayle as the first photo was taken with Heidi K.L. Haines. Her father, Wilson Lippy, organized the event and is one of the fellowship's founders. Heidi Haines, who worked for the U.S. Department of Agriculture during the Bush-Quayle administration, urged everyone to form a line so the reception would run smoothly.

While a lot of people asked for Quayle's John Hancock on luncheon programs or pieces of paper, Don and Robin Frazier of Manchester got Quayle's signature with an indelible marker on something more unusual — a plate.

Both Fraziers told the former vice president they were proud of him.

The plate will have a special place in the couple's china cupboard along with a Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower inaugural plate and a 250th anniversary plate of the B & O Railroad.

Sandy and Joe Gover of Finksburg got Quayle's signature for their two young daughters, Melissa and Jennifer.

"I got a little nervous," Sandy Gover said as she folded up the piece of paper containing the keepsake. But, she said, "he's real kind."

Later, despite the throng of well-wishers, Quayle remembered exactly who Jennings was.

"There he is," Quayle said to Gavin, who was decked out in good black pants and a sporty tie. "C'mon up here son."

"He's the miracle baby," someone from the crowd interjected.

Gavin was quiet when asked whether he was excited about meeting the former vice president; like most farmers, he only speaks when he has something to say.

The line moved quickly and the friendly and smiling Quayle personally greeted each and every one.

But before it had all sunk in, the walls to the reception area came down and what was a private meeting area became just another corner of the banquet room.

No doubt, the memories will last much longer.

Quayle may be persona non grata in some circles, but at the annual luncheon of the Fellowship of Christian Farmers International he felt "right at home," he said.

And that's good because so many people felt comfortable with Quayle, they stopped by throughout the meal at Wilhelm Ltd. outside Westminster — greeting him as if he too was just another farmer who hadn't had much time for socializing this winter.

The crowd laughed with Quayle and applauded him repeatedly during a speech that touched on his upcoming book, losing the last election, the current administration, Murphy Brown, family values and the power of prayer.

Dan Quayle Featured At Christian Farmers Fellowship

Though Quayle said he hasn't decided if he's running for office, he sounded exactly like a man on the campaign trail, hitting all the right Republican notes.

Greeted with a standing ovation when he finally took the podium, Quayle said "Thank you so much for that warm welcome. With that kind of enthusiasm, how did we lose?"

Exactly how Quayle and former President George Bush lost the 1992 campaign is detailed in Quayle's soon to-be-released autobiographical book, "Standing Firm."

"It's a book about myself, my faith and my family," he said.

Many chapters were not easy to write, Quayle said. Looking long and hard at the 1992 campaign — which he termed "lousy" — was especially painful, he said.

Though Quayle has felt targeted by the media for years, he said he resisted the urge to strike back through his book. Instead, he turned the table and interviewed nationally-known journalists about their coverage of him while he was in office.

Another chapter, titled "Murphy and Me," was especially enjoyable to write, Quayle told the crowd — tongue firmly in cheek.

Quayle said his now-famous remarks about family values and his opinion that television shows like "Murphy Brown" are eroding America's moral fabric will be printed in the book.

Quayle noted that President Clinton has read the controversy-causing speech and shares his concerns about the American family.

Those were the kindest words Quayle had for the country's current leader all afternoon.

Discussing Clinton's proposed health care reform, Quayle said, "This is the largest political power grab in the history of our republic."

Clinton's administration couldn't even get the right speech in a teleprompter when the president spoke to Congress last year, "yet they want to fix the health care system?" Quayle asked.

"I don't think I'd be more secure having the federal government run my health care," Quayle chuckled as many in the crowd voiced their assent.

"I sure don't believe the system's going to be more simple," he said. "And savings — when did the federal government ever run anything and save money?"

Canadians having problems with their nationalized health care system come to the United States for medical treatment, Quayle said.

"Where are we going to go? Mexico?" he asked.

Quayle railed against the federal income tax system, which he said "penalizes" people for being married. He protested this country's welfare system, which he said punishes a family by reducing funding if an errant father returns home to help support his children.

Quayle also spoke out strong against government-run programs which remove unwed mothers from the family home.

"The state is not a substitute for parents," he said to yet another round of applause.

"What is the character of our nation when in some of our cities more than 80 percent of our children are born to unwed mothers?" he asked.

Radical reform is badly needed to lower these figures, Quayle said. And if that reform involves religion, so be it.

"America is a religious country," the self-professed Christian said.

People need to keep talking about their belief in God outside their own homes, Quayle said. It is those who are against religion that make such actions controversial, he stated.

"They want it to be too controversial. They want you to retreat. Ultimately, what they want is silence," he told the crowd.

"But when it comes to the family and when it comes to family values, we can never retreat, we can never be silent," Quayle said. "Our country's character and our country's future are at stake."

With applause that shook the room, members of the Fellowship of Christian Farmers made it clear that they agreed.

April Milk Price $15.64

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Rex F. Lothrop today announced a Class I milk price of $15.64 per hundredweight for April 1994.

The April Class I price includes the 20 cent assessment for fluid milk promotion and consumer education. This price, less the 20 cent assessment, is unchanged from March but is $1.67 above last April's Class I price.

Mr. Lothrop announced a Class III milk price of $12.45 per hundredweight for February 1994 and a Class III-A price of $10.27 per hundredweight for the month. The Class III price was down one cent from the previous month, while the Class III-A price was unchanged.

The April 1994 Class I price and the February 1994 Class III price are based on the February 1994 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $12.41 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The February 1994 butterfat price was 62.63 cents per pound, down slightly from January. The February skim milk price per hundredweight was $10.63.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for February was 63.29 cents per pound on the mercantile exchange and the Central States nonfat dry milk price was $1.0989 per pound.

400 Pa. Farm Bureau Members To Visit Legislators In Harrisburg

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Nearly 400 Pennsylvania farmers will call on their state lawmakers Monday, March 14 to discuss legislation in the General Assembly which is important to agriculture. The visits will be part of the annual Harrisburg Legislative Tour conducted by the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (Farm Bureau) is a voluntary statewide farm organization which represents 23,542 families in 54 county units. The farmers visiting Harrisburg are members of county farm bureau legislative committees.

"There are some issues facing the farm community which require legislative action," said Farm Bureau president Keith Eckel. "It makes sense to meet face-to-face with our legislators so they can learn first-hand how these issues are affecting us and what we feel should be done about them. We will be recommending action based on the grassroots policies which have been developed and adopted by our organization."

Among the issues farmers will discuss are the following:

• Local Tax Reform — Farm Bureau is supporting H.B. 891 and H.B. 2202 which provide the opportunity for local tax reform. Farm Bureau policy calls for the elimination of nuisance taxes and the reduction of property taxes through a locally-determined mix of income and property taxes by school districts and the removal of income tax restrictions on local governments. Property tax exemptions should be narrowed and limits placed on individual tax burdens.

• Deep Mine Subsidence — Present law does not protect landowners in case of water loss or pollution due to underground mining in their area. Mine operators are also restricted by law from mining under houses built before 1966. Farm Bureau supports S.B. 955 which would give mining operators greater flexibility in siting mines and would require them to replace or restore any impaired water supplies within 48 hours.

• Animal Health — Laws governing domestic animal health and disease control date back in some cases to the 19th century and need to be updated. H.B. 2215 has been introduced to recodify the old laws and give the PA Department of Agriculture the authority needed to effectively monitor animal health and respond quickly to disease outbreaks. Farm Bureau supports the goals of the legislation and is recommending some amendments for clarification.

• Farm Odors — Pennsylvania's air pollution law exempts the production of agricultural commodities. However, DER has reacted to complaints about odors from mushroom composting by deciding that it does not constitute agricultural production and is therefore in violation of the law. Farm Bureau is supporting H.B. 1814 to clearly identify farm activities that are exempt — including mushroom composting.

Farmers participating in the Harrisburg tour will also be urging support of legislation, H.B. 1353 to balance state wetlands protection with property rights, and S.B. 1255 to clarify and restore the scope of the state's 1978 Seasonal Farm Labor to its original intent.

Passage of bills to protect agriculture during water shortages and to eliminate roadside litter by placing deposits on bottles and cans will also be sought. Other topics will include amendments to improve the operation of the state's farmland preservation program and clarify state vehicle code requirements for farm trucks.

Bulls Complete Testing

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center has announced the final results from its performance-tested bull program. The Sale Committee has selected the best 60 bulls to offer for sale in Pennsylvania's 21st Performance-tested Bull Sale, scheduled for Friday, March 25, at Penn State's Ag Arena. This committee, consisting of producers with bulls on test and several members of the bull-testing technical committee, was rather selective, requiring the bulls to pass stringent breeding soundness and structural evaluations.

This year's sales event will feature a trade show with over twenty commercial exhibitors who will also provide numerous valuable door prizes. In addition to fitting the bulls for the sale, the Penn State Block and Bridle Club will be preparing plenty of good food for a large crowd.

The Bull Sale is scheduled to get underway at 12 noon with the sale of the top-indexing Polled Hereford. This SBF Royal Gypsy King son consigned by Fred McMurray indexed 117 and was the fastest gaining of his breed. He also had the top yearling weight for the breed and posted a +50 lbs yearling weight EPD. Walter Boosel's PS Jazz 008 son was the second highest indexing Polled Hereford. This bull had an actual birth weight of 70 lb. and an adjusted yearling weight of 1,232 lb. Twenty-one Polled Hereford bulls will be included in this sale.

Next up will be 24 Angus bulls. The top-indexing Angus bull is the lightest birth weight EPD bull consigned by Joe and Bobbi McMullen. This calving-ease bull with an actual birth weight of 69 lb. gained 4.62 lb. per day on test and recorded an adjusted yearling weight of 1,354 lb. This bull's 118 index is tops of the 74 bulls completing the testing program. The second-highest indexing Angus was the R&J Maxima bull from Errer Hill Farms. This ET bull recorded a final index of 115 and the top adjusted yearling weight (1,371 lb.) of the Angus up for sale. The top-gaining Angus also ended up third highest indexing Angus, with an ADG of 4.63 lb. per day on test and a final index of 112.

The top two indexing Simmentals were both consigned by Ken Foust. These two top-performing bulls have indexes of 115 and 110, respectively. They also recorded the two top adjusted yearling weights over all the bulls on test. Their yearling weights were 1,535 and 1,526 lb. The sire of both of these bulls, MF Advantage, was the top-indexing and top-selling Simmental bull in the 1990 Pennsylvania Performance-tested Bull Sale. The third highest indexing Simmental, belonging to Bill and Karen Flagg, was a calving-ease Simmental which recorded the top gain on test for the breed of 4.42 lb. per day.

The lone Charolais tested had a very good gain of 3.70 lb. per day and an adjusted 365-day weight of 1,335 lb. This smooth-muscled polled Charolais was consigned by Bratton Charolais Farm.

For more information on the bulls or on the center's performance-testing programs, or to request a sale catalog, contact Glenn Eberly, Director; Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803 (telephone 814-238-2527 or 814-865-5857).

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Now Is The Time To Have Your Farm Entered In The Dairy Of Distinction Program. Use Application Below.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc., is prepared to receive applications for the 1994 awards. This program rewards clean, well-kept farmsteads to help with consumer acceptance of dairy products in the store.

State President Dan Baker, dairyman from Covington, Tioga County, said the program has been well received, and officers look forward to an excellent program again next year.

"There are plenty of good looking dairy farms out there that have not been judged," Baker said. "And even those who have entered the selection process in the past years, without success should enter again."

The program provides rewards of recognition to producers who maintain attractive production sites. This recognition benefits the entire dairy industry, as well as individual dairymen. Not only does the favorable publicity generated by the program in the general press help bring modern farm practices to the attention of urban people, farmers use the distinction to promote their own operation or seek and hire farm labor.

Paul Nichols, the secretary for the Pennsylvania program, said applications may be sent to him any time after January 1, 1994. Deadline for applications is April 15. Judging is completed in May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. The states are divided into districts and a local committee oversees the program in each district.

A team of judges designated by the local committee visits each farm and uses a score sheet to rate each farm. In Pennsylvania, in addition to this team of judges, the sanitarian for the farm's cooperative or dealer-handler is asked to be part of the judging process.

"One of the things I always tell people is that even though they may not now have the most fancy place, they can work toward the principles of the Dairy of Distinction program," Nichols said. "By doing this, they work toward a goal that encourages consumers to use more dairy products."

Winners receive a colorful, 18x24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed at the entrance to the farmstead. In addition, as in past years, an 11x14-inch color portrait of the farm will be given by Lancaster Farming to each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program.

"As a dairy farmer, you work hard all year long, taking care of your farm," said Helen Fountain, program executive secretary. "In addition to managing your herd, there are lawns to mow, flowers to plant, and overall maintenance to keep farm buildings looking great. You deserve to be recognized for all the hard work, dedication and pride you put into your farmstead.

"It's time you and your farm received some recognition for your hard work. The coveted Dairy of Distinction award will give you that recognition, In addition your attractive farm will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, thereby stimulating milk sales and encourage public support for the dairy industry."

Active dairy farms in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are eligible to apply for the award. Criteria for Dairy of Distinction awards include: clean and attractively finished buildings; neat landscaping, ditches, roads and lands; and well-maintained fences. Cleanliness of animals, barnyard, feed areas, as well as manure management, are also taken into consideration.

Applications are available from each state's program secretary or local cooperative extension. In

New York, contact Carol Weddle, New York Holstein Assn., 957 Mitchell St., Box 190, Ithica, N.Y. 14851. In New Jersey, contact Angust Knispel, RD 1, Box 325, Pittstown, NJ 08867.

In Pennsylvania, you may contact Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council, Tower Business Building, 239 Schuyler Ave., Kingston, PA 18704.

The North View Farm of the Calvin and Mary Will family in Somerset County is an example of the farms that were designated Dairy of Distinction last year. You are invited to use the application to have your farm named in 1994.

Dairy of Distinction
Dairy Farm Beautification Program

Pennsylvania Districts

Pennsylvania is divided into ten districts. Approximately 10 Dairy of Distinction awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to the applicant.

Pennsylvania area chairpersons are: District 11, Leslie Firth; District 12, Wally Jackson; District 13, Susan DuJour; District 14, Janet and David Hileman; District 15, Norman Coons; District 16, Robert and Bernice Gable; District 17, Larue Thomas; District 18, Allen Roszel; District 19, Lisa Risser; and District 20, Russell Rooks.

As a winner, you will receive a certificate and a nice metal sign to install at the end of your farm lane. In addition, LANCASTER FARMING will present a color farm portrait print to each of this year's winners in Pennsylvania. If your farm is a winner, be sure you or your district committee takes a color photograph of your farm and sends the negative and proof to LANCASTER FARMING in time for the awards ceremony.

York Co. Milk Producers Can Apply For Refunds

YORK (York Co.) — The York County ASCS Office is currently issuing refunds for amounts deducted from 1993 commercial milk marketings under the Dairy Refund Payment Program (DRPP). The program is authorized under the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 as amended by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993.

Wayne Beshore - Chairperson of the York County ASC Committee said any producer who provides evidence that they did not market more milk in 1993 than in 1992, or if they went out of the dairy business during the refund period, did not market more milk for the same days and months of 1992, will be eligible to receive the entire amount deducted from their milk proceeds if he or she meets the eligibility requirements and claims the refund by March 15.

Under the DRPP, milk producers requesting a refund must establish their milk marketings for the refund year, 1993, and the immediate preceding calendar year, 1992, before the refund request is made. Refund request must be made by March 15, 1994.

The 1990 Act calls for an 11.25 cents per hundredweight reduction in the price received by producers for all milk produced and marketed for commercial use in calendar year 1993. This amount was increased on May 1, 1993 by 5.1 cents per hundredweight, for a total of 16.35 cents per hundredweight, to compensate for refunds paid under the 1992 program. This rate remained in effect through October 1993. The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 provided for a 10 percent decrease in the amount of the reduction in the price received by producers during November and December 1993, for a total of 14.71 cents per hundredweight.

"Eligibility for participation in all programs administered by ASCS is established under law without regard to race, color, age, sex, religion, national origin, marital status or disability."

March 31 Deadline For Lehigh Preservation

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — The Lehigh County Agricultural Land Preservation Board is now accepting applications for the first 1994 application round of the Lehigh County Agricultural Conservation Easement Program. Through this program, qualified Lehigh County farmland owners can apply to sell an agricultural conservation easement to Lehigh County and to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Agricultural conservation easements preserve farmland by permanently limiting all forms of nonagricultural development on a farm property. In return for giving up development rights, landowners can receive cash payments equal to the difference between the fair market value and the agricultural value of their property.

To date, the agricultural conservation easement program has preserved 24 farms in Lehigh County totaling 3145 acres.

Applications may be picked up in room 105 of the Lehigh County Agricultural Center, 4184 Dorney Park Road in South Whitehall. The deadline for submitting an application is Thursday, March 31, 1994. Please call Jeff Zehr at 391-9583 if you would like more information.

Northeastern Farm Credit Posts $2.1 Million Earnings

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — A profitable year was recorded in 1993 for Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA, Northeastern Pennsylvania's largest agricultural lender.

The strong net earnings were generated during a year when loan volume advanced a solid 5.3%, according to Association reports which show a December 31, 1993 loan portfolio of $201.4 million.

"We're pleased with the results of efforts made during 1993 to increase earnings and improve the credit quality of our loan portfolio," said Robert T. Reich. "While the combination of somewhat sluggish credit demand and solid competitive factors acted to slow our growth in total loans outstanding compared to recent years, the association still posted improved earnings and an increase in the number of customers served." Reich cited the association's patronage program, which allows it to return a large portion of its earnings back to its customers, as another factor contributing to the association's success in attracting and retaining customers.

The Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA is a cooperative which is part of the nationwide Farm Credit System. Headquartered in Lewisburg, its eight branch offices serve the credit and related service needs of farmers and rural homeowners throughout 21 counties of northeastern Pennsylvania.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As time goes by we tend to look back on years past. And so it was on a recent Sunday afternoon, as I and some of my sisters got together, that we reminisced. Most of us have been married about 40 years and so we had a lot to talk about.

As I save everything, I had brought with me letters that they wrote to me in the 1970s and returned them to the writers. You see, I'm still going through boxes that I left in the farmhouse attic. They like to reread them as it is very much like a diary. They can relive the years when their children were young and had slumber parties. And, they can remember all of the traveling that they did in taking them to athletic events.

There was one item that a sister gave me that I really appreciate. It was a June 22, 1900 copy of "The Lititz Express." It contains not only news of the day but also many advertisements. Some of these are for clothes, coal, wood and groceries. But, most of them are for medicines to improve your health.

But, the one piece of news that is of interest to our family in the newspaper was the account of my grandfather's tragic death. It seems that as he was returning from delivering a load of wheat to a mill in Lancaster, he drove his team of four horses across a railroad crossing just as a train approached. He was killed as were two of his horses.

I find it odd to read that three of his brothers were in the crowd that gathered. He was only 51 years old and the paper says that some 3,000 people attended the service at Landis Valley. He had 11 brothers and sisters but surely a lot of curious people must also have come to the funeral.

If someone before me had not also saved things, we would not know these facts. Of course, my mother who was only five years old at the time, often told of the bananas that were found in the wagon for her as they were her favorite fruit.

Training For Home Care Providers

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Do you take care of children on a regular basis? Are you interested in updating your skills or knowledge of child development? Are you a family day care provider in need of obtaining a certain number of hours of training?

Penn State Cooperative Extension of Montgomery County has the class for you. Several two-hour sessions are being held in March, April and May with you in mind. Topics will include communication, discipline, and nutritious snack ideas for children.

For more information, request a free "child care class brochure" from the Extension office by calling (215) 489-4315.

Training costs for registered family day care providers, licensed group day care home providers, and group day care home assistants are underwritten by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, KURC Home Based Childcare Directed Training Program.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

When I was a kid, I loved the wind.

The wind was a companion of play. It toyed with kites, dipping and flipping their colorful paper bodies, tweaking their ragged tails, gently dragging them high over our heads or rudely tossing them to the ground.

Sometimes, the wind would macrame a kite through a tree, just like those flown by hapless, round-headed Charlie Brown of Peanuts comic strip fame.

Wind enhanced the performance of our toy airplanes of lightweight balsa, lifting them gracefully into the air, sometimes into stunt-flying loop-de-loops — and onto the house roof on a regular basis.

A stiff breeze likewise added a tailwind to the "birdies" we batted back and forth in endless summertime badminton games on the side lawn.

Of course, only one player was the beneficiary of the wind, the other having to whack the cork-and-feathered target twice as hard to try to get it back across the net to the opponent. Whacking a birdie hard enough to counter a stiff headwind sometimes sent it right into a tangle in the cross-strings of the raquet.

Winds set the stand of hardwoods behind our home into murmuring protest and whistled overhead in the television antennae. Snuggling down on a windy night, probing gingers of air rattling the windows, made for a safe, contented feel of innocent childhood.

Over the years, my affection for wind has matured to respect, with occasional bursts of dread and fear. Too many benevolent breezes turning to violent destruction in the matter of mere moments have left me wary of wind.

South winds once stirred visions of tropical islands and palm trees. Now, they churn images of weather maps overlaid with swirling cloud patterns ominously curling up the East Coast bearing loads of snow, sleet, rain, ice or hot, humid (remember that?), hurricanes, and various other wind-blown surprise weather packages. And while the "westerlies" usually generate drier winds, they do freight in those gusty, summertime, thunder-rumblers tossing lightning, hail, and haysoaking cloudbursts.

Wind lashed nights no longer generate that safe, smug, snug-in-bed sense of my childhood. Instead, will the wind . . . or blown sleet . . . or falling trees take out the power lines somewhere between the co-op's sub-station and the dairy barn? Will heavy gusts yank barn roofing away from the rafters? Are all the wide, barn doors securely closed? Is some cow in premature labor off in some wind-battered pasture corner delivering a calf?

Despite all that, I still welcome the wind — when it's on more benevolent bahavior.

I like the way it flaps clean sheets on the washline and purposefully shakes out wrinkles in the white, ruffled curtains hung to dry in the sunshine. It stirs the pond's flat surface and breaks it into thousands of sparkling diamonds when it riffles across the waters. Grain fields do "the wave" as summer breezes dance over acres of golden, ripening heads. And wind is vital for drying and curing our acres of hay.

We keep tabs on the wind, not with a weathervance but the colorful wind sock fastened between the barn and house. Our present one is in the shape of a fish. On calm days, the fish looks as if it's been out of water too long; when it's blowing parallel and appears to the fighting to swim upstream, look out.

My favorite wind accessory, though, is wind chimes. Their melodious tinkling sounds are a musical accompaniment to the brisk breezes of spring and the faint stirrings of air through long, lingering summer evenings.

Knowing what the winds of weather have delivered so far this year, our wind chimes will honor this traditionally-breezy month of March by remaining where they've been all season.

Bucks-Montgomery Searchs For Volunteers, Princess Candidates

OTTSVILLE (Bucks Co.) — The Bucks-Montgomery Dairy Promotion Committee is gearing up for its 1994-1995 promotion year, which will kick off with special activities during June Dairy Month.

To prepare for the year's upcoming programs, the committee is seeking candidates for its 1994 Bucks-Montgomery Dairy Princess Pageant. Any single young woman, between 16 and 24 years of age, whose parents or guardians are engaged in dairy farming is eligible to compete. A young woman also is eligible if she herself owns at least two dairy animals in a bona fide 4-H or FFA program, or is a dairy farm employee, or is a daughter of a dairy industry employee.

The committee also is seeking volunteers to help with promotional programs and activities. During the year, the committee promotes milk and dairy products at schools, grocery stores, county fairs, community events, and farm meetings throughout the two-county area.

Anyone interested in competing in the 1994 Bucks-Montgomery Dairy Princess Pageant or serving as a member of the committee is asked to contact Tanya Martin, chairperson, at (215) 795-0454.

Holstein Ladies Look Back Into History

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — History, heritage and heirlooms combined in a sparkling Ladies'Day program, held February 25 during the annual Pennsylvania Holstein Convention in Gettysburg.

In keeping with the convention theme of "Holsteins and History," Ladies'Day planners staged a show of fashion, food, and music at Patty and John's, an old barn restored into a restaurant/reception facility on the outskirts of Hanover, York County.

Speaker Linda McRae came garbed in appropriate dress to talk abuot the role of ladies during the Civil War era. The McRae family is involved in Civil War re-enactment, a hobby in which they research, dress, and camp as people of that time. Some re-enactors, she noted, actually do "first-person" role-playing, reliving as much as possible during encampments the life of a particular individual from the Civil War period.

"Clothes were reused, again, and again," she explained. "And so many layers of clothing were worn in part to help cover body odors because they didn't have the facilities to bathe and do laundry like we do."

Wearing eight or nine layers of clothing was commonplace when

"Nothing makes people get along like having to fork out box stalls together," says Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Jennifer Grimes. Jennifer kept PHA women laughing as she related her family's efforts to curb sibling squabbling by putting her and her brother to work forking out dairy barn stalls.

Women of the Gettysburg battle era dressed in up to nine layers of clothing, according to Civil War re-enacter Linda McRae. Outer layers were rarely laundered and clothing was reused, restyled and recycled over and over.

Melinda Johnson, wife of PHA treasurer Dean Johnson, designed the dress for their 1981 wedding with a country Victorian look. The gown of white crepe de chine has a blouson top, short train and bishop sleeves with cuffs of Schiffli lace. When the couple was ready to depart for their honeymoon after an outdoor reception at her family's dairy farm, they found Dean's pickup packed with hay.

Becky Sonnen modeled the gown worn in 1935 by her grandmother, Lillie Burkhart. Originally aqua, the fabric has faded to a pale brown-green. A long-sleeved jacket covers the crepe, sleeveless dress. In April, former state dairy princess Becky will march down the aisle in her own wedding gown.

Entertainment at the ladies program wrapped up with the rousing patriotic vocal salute from the Pat and Paul Miller family's Singing Millers Plus Six. Pat Miller chaired the ladies day program.

Homestead Notes

A wedding cake decorated in the European style of rolled fondant icing looks more like a priceless piece of porcelain than a tasty dessert. Decorated by Rosie Rohrer of Lancaster County, the cake was accented with lovely pink roses fashioned from gum paste, an edible modeling material.

one was dressed to go out, although while atd home doing housework a woman might just wear a couple of layers of petticoats topped by a wool or cotton skirt.

Long cotton or wool socks were donned first, then a pair of bloomers or underwear. A long chemise over that could alos double as a nightgown. A half or underslip might follow, along with the traditional stiff, bone corset, which females began wearing as early as age 12. The hoop and slip to cover the hoop added yet more layers and weight, topped with a blouse, skirt, gloves, jacket, and hat.

The "snood," or loose hairnet worn by most women, was sometimes woven of their own hair which was saved and painstakingly woven into a net.

"The older you got, the longer your skirts were," said McRae, adding that hundreds of women were burned each year in that era as their clothing caught fire.

A nostalgic fashion show of wedding gowns wove some personal history into the Holstein ladies' program. The wedding gown display featured those worn by some ladies' day participants, heirloom ones of their mothers and grandmothers, as well as new and not-so-new gowns from Yesterday's Bridals Shop.

Wearing her own gown after 48 years of marriage were Athena Beshore, New Cumberland. Also modeling their own gowns from more recent wedding days were Holstein women Rhoda Crider, Beverly Sease, Donna Woerth, Melinda Johnson, and Deb Brubaker. Gowns belonging to Ann Kopp, Sandy Roth, Lily Nichol, Leona Crider, Helen Cope, and Ailene "Dick" Thompson were also part of the fashhion display.

Stephanie Wagner and Sheryl Horst both modeled their mother's gowns, and gowns worn by their grandmothers were modeled by Becky Sonnen, Diane Hoover, and Barb Lentz.

Other models of the heirloom and contemporary gowns included Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Jennifer Grimes, York Dairy Princess Cecilia Martin, Beth Raney, Nancy Myers, Katy Crider, Bridget Boyer, Linda Miller, and Sally Hill. Narrator was Mim Kauffman.

Wedding cake decorating tips were given by 10-year-cake-decorating veteran Viola Haines, a dairy farm woman from Taneytown, Maryland. Alma Wenger of Lancaster displayed a less traditional form of wedding cake, decorated in the European-style with a rolled fondant icing and decora-

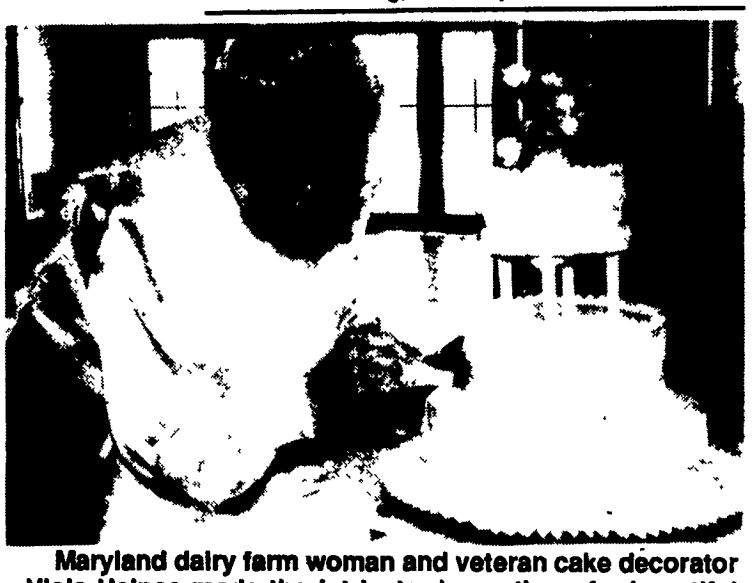
Nancy Myers models the gown worn by her mother, Lily, when she married PHA executive director Bill Nichol in 1956. The gown is of Chantilly lace, chapel length, with an off-the-shoulder scalloped neckline. After the wedding, the couple discovered their ushers had removed and hidden the front seat of their car.



Maryland dairy farm woman and veteran cake decorator Viola Haines made the intricate decorating of a beautiful wedding cake look . . . well, like a piece of cake.

The organza and satin gown with a bridal train from her mother's 1947 wedding was modeled by Sheryl Horst. Cost of the gown was $20.25. Returning to Pennsylvania in a snowstorm, the couple finished their last leg back home from the honeymoon on a tractor.

Athena Beshore modeled the white satin floor-length gown she wore in her 1946 wedding to 1994 PHA Hall of Fame winner Wayne Beshore. Her string of pearls was part of that original wedding costume.

In a gown of white chiffon, Dauphin County dairy farm daughter Deb Miller Brubaker married Lancaster County dairy farmer Lowell Brubaker in 1979. The fitted bodice and chapel length veil are finished with Alencon lace and seed pearls.

A gown of sienna brown silk/satin fabric, worn by her grandmother Jennie Reist in 1928, is modeled by Diane Hoover. The dress is believed to have been made by a seamstress at a Lebanon dress shop and had a hand-embroidered design above the box pleat line and at the waist.

Recipes To Celebrate National Nutrition Month

March is National Nutrition Month. It's a good time to review your family's eating habits and the meals you prepare on a regular basis.

Some meals are not only loaded with nutritious protein, calcium, and iron but also with calories and fat. It's fine to serve these ocassionally but try to cut down on the fat content and include more fiber.

Fiber is an important part of a healthful diet. A good way to include fiber in the diet is eating a bowl of whole-grain or high-fiber cereal.

Another way is in snacks. Snacks are as varied as your imagination. Keep track of foods you're likely to snack on, then switch to more healthy choices, such as cereal-based snacks. You can give added flavor and crunch to any snack by using a high-fiber cereal as an added ingredient or topping.

- Stir 1 to 2 tablespoons high-fiber cereal into each serving of scrambled eggs just before serving.
- Sprinkle cereal on a serving of creamed cottage cheese.
- In place of croutons, toss high-fiber cereal into salad greens or on top of hot or cold soups.
- Dust fruit-flavored yogurt or ice cream with crushed cereal.
- Top fresh, canned or frozen fruit with cereal.
- Fill half of a small cantaloupe or honeydew melon with high-fiber cereal and milk.
- Add crunch to mashed or baked potatoes or other cooked vegetables by sprinkling on cereal just before serving.

FRUIT SMOOTHIE AND FROZEN POPS

1 cup vanilla low-fat yogurt
½ cup apple juice
1 cup fresh or frozen strawberries
1 banana

Blend all ingredients in blender or food processor until smooth. Drink as is or freeze in molds or paper cups. Yields about 3 cups or 10 to 11 pops.

National Cancer Institute

STIR FRY CHICKEN WITH CARROTS AND PEPPERS

1 pound boneless chicken breast or turkey tenders
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 green onion, minced
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons water
½ cup sliced carrots
1 cup sliced green pepper
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon low-sodium soy sauce
¼ teaspoon sugar
½ cup chicken broth
Cooked rice

Slice chicken into thin strips. Mix the cornstarch and water in a bowl. Add the minced onion and ginger to the cornstarch. Add all of this to the chicken and toss to coat. The cornstarch will help the onion and ginger stick to the chicken. Let stand 15 minutes. Heat the oil in a skillet over medium high heat. Add the chicken in small batches. Cook until white using utensils to toss and turn the meat rapidly. Remove the cooked chicken to separate pan. Put the carrots in the same pan and stir fry 2 to 3 minutes more. Sprinkle with soy sauce and sugar. Stir in chicken broth and heat quickly. Then simmer covered until carrots are crisp but not soft. Return chicken to pan, stir to reheat, and serve immediately with rice.

STUFFED SWEET POTATOES

3 large sweet potatoes
¼ cup crushed juice packed pineapple, drained
¼ cup reserved pineapple juice
¼ cup chopped dates
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt

Scrub potatoes and prick with fork. Bake in 400 degrees for 1 hour or microwave 8 minutes until tender. Halve potatoes lengthwise and scoop out pulp. Mash and combine with a mixture of the remaining ingredients. Pile into shells. Bake in 350 degree oven 15 minutes or microwave until potatoes are heated through.

Serves 6 at 100 calories, 2 grams fiber, and less than 1 gram fat for ½ stuffed potato. 1% calories from fat.

Nat. Cancer Institute

Serve easy and delicious stir-fry chicken and broccoli for a nutritious dinner.

BROCCOLI AND CAULIFLOWER

3 cups broccoli florets
3 cups cauliflower florets
¼ cup coarsely chopped red pepper or pimiento
½ cup chicken or vegetable broth
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon dried dill weed

Steam broccoli and cauliflower until tender-crisp. Lightly oil a 1½ quarts heat-proof bowl. Arrange pieces in bowl so that florets and peppers are pressed to bottom and sides. Tightly pack center with remaining florets. Bake in 350 degree oven for 10 minutes. In small saucepan, blend broth and cornstarch until smooth. Heat until thickened. Blend in lemon juice and dill. Place serving dish over vegetable bowl and invert. Pour sauce over vegetable mold.

Serves 9 at 20 calories, 2 grams fiber, and less than 1 gram fat per ⅓ cup serving. 11% calories from fat.

ZESTY GET-UP-AND-GO SNACK

3 cups Cheerios cereal
3 cups Crisp Baked Bugles
3 plain rice cakes, broken in bite-size pieces
2 cups fat-free pretzel sucks
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 tablespoon unsweetened apple juice
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon onion flakes

Heat oven to 300 degrees. Mix cereal, corn snacks, rice cake pieces and pretzels in jelly roll pan. Mix remaining ingredients. Drizzle over cereal mixture; toss until evenly coated. Bake 10 minutes, stirring once. Store in tightly covered container.

18 servings (½ cup each).

KIDNEY BEAN AND TUNA SALAD

15½ -ounce can no-salt added kidney beans, drained
6½ -ounce can water packed tuna, drained
2 tablespoons reduced-calorie mayonnaise
2 tablespoons plain low-fat yogurt
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons pickle relish or substitute 1 tablespoon minced onion, ¼ teaspoon dill and ⅛ teaspoon black pepper

Mix together and chill.

Serves 4 at 150 calories, 4 grams fiber, and 3 grams fat per ¾ cup serving; 18% calories from fat.

Featured Recipe

Polenta, traditional Lenten fare, dates back further than any dish in Italian cruisine, but it's only recently that many Americans have discovered this commeal dish. A staple in all parts of Italy, polenta can be fried, baked, or — as is often the choice — eaten simply with butter and cheese.

The American Dairy Association has developed and kitchen tested its own delicious variation of the popular polenta casserole using creamy provolone to contrast the distinctive tang of blue cheese.

TWO-CHEESE POLENTA

4½ cups milk
1½ cups yellow cormeal
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped carrot
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1½ teaspoon chopped fresh basil
¾ teaspoon chopped fresh oregano
1 bay leaf
28 ounces Italian peeled tomatoes, coarsely chopped
½ teapsoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 ounces thinly sliced provolone cheese
1 cup crumbled blue cheese

Bring the milk to a boil in a 3-quart heavy saucepan. Reduce heat to simmer. Add the cornmeal in a thin, steady stream, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture is thick and pulls away from the sides of the pan, about 15 to 20 minutes. Immediately pour mixture into lightly buttered 9x5-inch pan. Cool to room temperature.

Meanwhile, melt butter in a 3-quart saucepan. Add onion, carrot, garlic, parsley, basil, oregano, and bay leaf. Saute until vegetables are soft, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes, salt and pepper. Simmer over medium heat until thickened, about 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Discard bay leaf.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Invert the polenta onto a cutting board and cut inot ½ -inch slices. Spread approximately 1 cup sauce in the bottom of a 13-inch oval gratin or casserole. Arrange the polenta and cheese slices in overlapping layers. Spoon the remaining sauce over the layers. Sprinkle the blue cheese over the top. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until lightly browned. Serve immediately.

Destroy Bagworms

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — March is a good time to inspect your trees and shrubs for bagworms, according to an entomologist with the Home and Garden Inforamtion Center (HGK) of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park.

These caterpillars, which are especially destructive to evergreens, build small bags around themselves from silk and leaves on the plants where they feed. These small bags are about 1½ inches long and resemble a cone hanging on the tree. Bags found now are either empgy male cases or female cases full of eggs that will hatch in late May or early June.

To control bagworms, regional Extension entomology specialist Mary Kay Malinoski recommends removing the bags from branches and disposing of them in the trash. You can also destroy them by stepping on them, but make sure you crush them completely, otherwise, the caterpillars will still hatch and crawl right back up on the plant.

For information about bagworms, other plant pests and a variety of gardening topics, call the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's Home and Garden Information Center at 1-800-342-2507. Residents in other states should call the number listed in the phone directory for the cooperative extension.

Presentations by state dairiy princess Jennifer Grimes and patriotic vocal selections from the Pat and Pul Miller family's three-generation singing group, The Singing Millers Plus Six, rounded out the program.

Committee for the Ladies' Program were Linda and Pat Miller, co-chairwomen, Deb Brubaker, Ann Day, Shirley Laughman, Barbara Lentz, Gretchen Naugle, and Chris Wood.

June bride-to-be Bridget Boyer modeled the gown of Helen Cope, wife of national Holstein president John Cope. The Chantilly lace over satin gown has appliques of clusters of seed pearls and opalescent sequins. Helen and John Cope were married in 1953.

Donna Woerth's gown for her 1982 wedding was made by her mother, Ruth Akers. Full-length, of lace and with a train, the gown features ruffles on the neckline, hemline and train, satin cummerbund at the waist, and full-length sleeves gathered at the cap.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Bette Lawrence, Honesdale, would like a recipe for pear jam or pear jelly that uses green tomatoes as an ingredient.

QUESTION — Mimi Stoltzfus, Lewisburg, would like a recipe for honey-mustard pretzels such as those sold by Snyders.

QUESTION — Ruth Cantello, Somerset, N.J., would like a recipe for apple cider donuts like those served at Apple Cider Mills.

QUESTION — Gail Hunter, Smithsburg, Md., would like a recipe for Peanut Butter Melt Away Filling and any other great candy fillings.

QUESTION — Lloyd Decker, New Fairfield, Ct., would like a recipe for Penkelwurst, a northern Germany dish that is usually served with kale, smoked ham, and potatoes.

QUESTION — It seems on a regular basis, we receive requests for non-cooking questions. People write here in the hopes that a reader will know the answer. Perhaps we should start another column for these questions. Do any readers have a suggestion for a name for a non-cooking column? In the meantime, here is a question from Bill Stock, Plymouth. QUESTION — M. Sauder, Mohnton, asks if anyone has a recipe for the waffle cones served at ice cream stands?

QUESTION — Janet Beckdel, Mill Hall, would like to find ways to use lupine beans, which resemble lima beans with thicker skin.

QUESTION — Helen Kofran would like a recipe for Amish shredded roast beef salad.

QUESTION — Ada Mothes, Renick, W.Va., would like a recipe for Maryland Crab Soup with vegetables, broth, and a tomato base — not milk.

QUESTION — A reader from Kutztown would like a recipe to make suet cakes for the birds.

QUESTION — A reader from Kutztown would like recipes using self-rising flour.

QUESTION — Vicky Mitchell, Fairbanks, Alaska, would like a recipe for extra sour rye bread with caraway seeds (not the dark rye made with molasses).

QUESTION — Beatrice Weight, Duncannon, would like a recipe for oatmeal pie that tastes like those served at Yoder's in Mifflinburg.

QUESTION — Jennifer Bake, Gillett, would like a good peanut butter fudge recipe.

ANSWER — Brice Kinnamon Jr., Cambridge, Md., wanted a sourdough starter recipe and recipes to use it. Thanks to Mary Clark who sent a starter recipe that uses potato water and many recipes for using the starter.

Sourdough Starter

How to start:

Prepare liquid by grating enough raw potatoes to fill a cup. Pour 4 cups boiling water over the grated potatoes and let set until lukewarm. Strain off liquid through a wire mesh strainer.

Starter:

4 cups flour
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
4 cups potato water

Sift together flour, salt, and sugar. Blend in the potato water. Keep in a warm place (89-100 degrees) for 1½ to 2 days or until a yeasty smell develops. Then store the starter in a loosely covered container in refrigerator until needed. Feed at least once a week (but not more than 3 or 4 days) to keep alive and to replace what is used.

To feed the sourdough mixture, add:

1 cup flour
¼ cup sugar
1 cup milk

Stir the sourdough starter, add above mixture to feed it. Stir well. Keep sourdough starter refrigerated at all times to keep it lively or it will die. If you get tired of using it, freeze it in a sealed container. It will live as long as it is frozen. To use again, thaw and feed as usual. One cupful can be given as a starter to a friend.

GARDEN VEGGIES ITALIAN STYLE

1 onion, chopped
1 squash or eggplant, diced
1 tomato, diced
1 green pepper, chopped
Pinch oregano or Italian seasoning
8-ounces tomato sauce
½ cup part skim mozzarella cheese, shredded

Combine vegetables in a baking dish. Sprinkle with oregano. Pour on the tomato sauce. Bake uncovered at 350 for 20 to 30 minutes. Top with cheese and bake another 4 to 5 minutes until cheese is melted. Serves 6. 65 calories per serving.

STIR-FRIED CABBAGE

2-3 cups cabbage (red or green)
1 medium onion, chopped
1-2 tablespoons butter
2 tart apples, diced
1 tablespoon brown sugar
4 tablespoons lemon juice

Shred cabbage. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice to apples to prevent browning. Melt margarine in skillet. Add shredded cabbage and chopped onion. Cook gently for 3-5 mintues over medium heat, stirring with a fork. Season with 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Cook, covered, for 10 more mintes. Add apples and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon brown sugar.

Cover and simmer until the apples and cabbage are tender.

Sourdough Cinnamon Buns

1 cup sourdough
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 cups self-rising flour
1 package dry yeast

Dissolve yeast in ½ cup warm water. Put flour, sourdough, oil, and yeast water mixture in bowl. Mix well. Cover and let rise in a warm place 1 hour or longer.

Punch down. Knead dough, adding enough flour to keep from sticking. Roll out dough. Spread with soft butter. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon and corn syrup. Roll up and slice horizontally. Lay in syrup in two 8x8-inch baking pans.

Heat together to melt butter. Pour in pans. Cut dough and lay in syrup. Bake at 375 to 400 degrees, for 15 to 20 minutes.

Turn pan upside down on a plate as soon as the buns are removed from the oven. Makes 18 buns.

Sourdough Doughnuts

Use same recipes for sourdough cinnamon buns except roll out dough to the thickness desired and cut with a doughnut cutter. Fry in hot oil, turning to brown on both sides. Sprinkle with sugar or glaze.

Sourdough Pancakes Or Waffles

1 cup sourdough
½ cup flour
½ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder

Mix flour, baking soda, salt, and baking powder. Add sourdough and milk. Add beaten egg. Heat griddle or electric skillet to 380 degrees and brown on both sides. Makes 8 to 9 pancakes.

Sourdough Banana Bread

⅓ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup mashed bananas
1 cup sourdough
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup chopped walnuts

Mix together all ingredients. Bake in preheated oven to 350 degrees for 1 hour and 5 minutes. Cool 5 minutes. Remove from pan. Good served warm.

Cherry Cobbler Using Sourdough

¾ cup flour
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup sourdough
1 pound 5 ounce can cherry pie filling
¼ cup seedless raisins, optional

Combine flour, sugars, and cinnamon. Cut in butter. Stir in nuts and sourdough. Combine pie filling and raisins in an 8-inch round baking dish. Spoon sourdough mixture over cherry mixture. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 minutes or until lightly browned.

ANSWER — Brenda Breisch, Bloomsburg, wanted recipes for fish. Thanks to Mrs. W.H. Rinehart, Stewartsville, N.J.; a Lewisburg reader; Pamela Keefer, Spring Grove; Emma Rissler, New Enterprise; and others for sending recipes.

PEANUT BUTTER PUDDING CAKE

1 cup peanuts, roasted, chopped, and divided
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup butter, softened
½ cup peanut butter, creamy
8 ounces cream cheese
1 cup confectioners' sugar
4½ ounces whipped topping
3-ounce package instant vanilla pudding
3-ounce package instant chocolate pudding
2¾ cups milk
9-ounces whipped topping
1 ounce sweet chocolate, grated

Layer 1: In small bowl, thoroughly mix ⅔ cup peanuts, flour, and softened butter. Press into bottom of 8x12-inch baking dish. Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool thoroughly.

Layer 4: Top with 9 ounces whipped topping. Sprinkle with chocolate and ⅓ cup peanuts. Chill 2 to 3 hours.

ICE CREAM PEANUT DESSERT

1 pound Oreo cookies, crushed
½ cup butter, melted
2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 large can evaporated milk
⅔ cup chocolate chips
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ gallon vanilla ice cream, slightly softened
1½ cups Spanish peanuts

Mix cookie crumbs with butter. Press into a 9x13-inch and an 8x8-inch pan. Refrigerate 1 hour.

Combine sugar, milk, chocolate chips and butter in saucepan. Blend over medium heat. Bring to a boil and boil for 8 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Set aside to cool.

Spoon the ice cream evenly over the refrigerated cookie crumb crust. Sprinkle the peanuts over the ice cream layer. Carefully pour the cooled chocolate mixture over the peanuts. Freeze. Serve frozen.

Mary Clark Breezewood

ONION-PEANUT CASSEROLE

2 pounds onion
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup chopped salted peanuts.

Boil onions in salted water until tender. Arrange in baking dish. Melt butter; stir in flour. Add milk, stir until thickened. Add salt, mustard, and Worcestershire sauce; pour over onions. Sprinkle with peanuts. Bake at 350 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Four servings.

Cook's Question

Stuffed Fish Fillets

1 pound fish fillets
¼ cup fine bread crumbs
2 teaspoons milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons onion, minced
1½ teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon butter
1 cup mayonnaise

Arrange fillets in greased baking sheet. Mix remaining ingredients and spread over fillets. Bake uncovered 30 minutes at 375 degrees. Serve at once.

Poached Fish

Put 1 inch or more of water in stainless steel frying pan. Add:

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 bay leaves
2 tablespoons dried parsley
1 onion, chopped

Bring to a boil, add partially thawed fish fillets. Cover. Simmer 10 minutes or until fish can be flaked with a fork. Fish becomes dry if overcooked.

Wanted: Baking Fanatics For Muffin Mania Contest

KIRTLAND, Ohio — On Saturday, Mar. 19, Lake Farmpark invites you to put your baking skills to the test for the third annual Muffin Mania Contest as part of Farmpark's Food and Nutrition Month. Muffin Mania categories include:

- best muffin baked by a woman,
- best muffin baked by a child 12 years and younger,
- best muffin baked by a man,
- best colossal muffin
- best muffin with a recipe within the U.S. Dietary Guidelines (1990),
- best muffin baked by a school group (limit four students per group), and
- most marvelous muffin (this category judged from winners of all other categories).

All entrants to the Muffin Mania contest are admitted free to the Food and Nutrition Month's exhibits and events on Saturday, Mar. 19. First place winners in each category will win product gift bags from The Fowler's Milling Company. The winner of the most marvelous muffin will win a $25 gift certificate towards Fowler's Mills products.

To enter the Muffin Mania contest, bring six regular muffins or four colossal (in the "best colossal muffin" category) to Lake Farmpark between 9 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., Saturday, Mar. 19. Judging begins at 11 p.m. Awards will be presented at 4 p.m.

Muffin Mania is sponsored by The Fowler's Milling Company.

Dill Fish

1½ pounds fish fillets (flounder, sole, turbot)
¼ cup lime juice
1 teaspoon dillweed
1 clove garlic, minced
Salt and pepper, to taste

Squeeze lime juice over fillets and marinate at least 30 minutes in refrigerator.

Grease shallow baking pan. Place fillets in baking pan and sprinkle with dill, garlic, salt, and pepper.

Bake at 350 degrees for 5 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily.

Jiffy Baked Fish

Lay heavy foil in baking pan. Spread haddock or halibut fillets generously with Miracle Whip salad dressing, salt, and pepper. Sprinkle crushed corn flakes over the fish and dot with butter. Bring edges of foil over fish to prevent scorching. Bake in 400 degree oven 15 minutes.

Classes Help Children Learn Aspects Of Community

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — In two upcoming Hershey Museum classes youngsters can become familiar with aspects of a major local industry, and with small town, and rural life.

On Saturday, March 26 from 10-11:30 a.m. children ages 7-9 can actively learn about a major local industry in the class "Chocolate Champs." Participants will learn the history of this Natice American food, make a chocolate lollypop to take home, perform a variety of tasks on a production line, and try some chocolate taste testing. Fee for the class is $7 for museum members, $10 for non-members and registration is necessary. For nformation call (717) 534-3439.

"Chicken on A Roost/Eggs In a Basket" to be held on Saturday, March 26 from 1-2:30 p.m. for ages 5-7 acquaints children with small town and rural Pennsylvania life at the turn of the century when most people kept chickens. Meet a real-live henny penny, learn about egg baskets, chicken feeders and other essentials of raising these birds. Dye an egg, Pennsylvania German style, and fashion a nest for it. Fee for the class is $6 for museum members, $9 for non-members. Registration is necessary. Call (717) 534-3439 for information.

Poisonous Plants

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Children are often attracted to the colorful berries, flowers, fruits, and leaves of plants. Plants are a common cause of poisoning to preschoolers. More than 700 typical plants in the United States have been identified as poisonous, including Pennsylvania's mountain laurel.

If eaten, some plant parts can cause a skin rash or upset stomach; others can cause death.

Most plant poisonings can be prevented:

• Identify plants both inside and outside your house. Learn which ones are poisonous. For help, check library books, a local garden or floral shop, or call your county Cooperative Extension Office.

• Remove poisonous indoor and outdoor plants.

• Supervise young children closely around plants. Eating too much of any plant can make a child sick. It is best to move all plants out of children's reach.

• Teach children not to put plants, fruits, or berries in their mouths without asking a grown-up first.

Here is a partial list of plants that are very dangerous — CHILDREN HAVE DIED FROM EATING THESE PLANTS.

- autumn crocus
- azalea
- baneberry
- belladonna
- black cherry
- black locust
- buckeye
- caladium
- castor bean

Where Does The Word Pothole Come From?

The word "pothole" comes from an old practice in Ireland. It refers to the hole in the dirt floor of an Irish cottage in which the potato pot was set for mashing.

According to the Great Potato Book by Thomas Meredith Hughes (Macmillan, 1986), Irish potatoes were boiled in a heavy iron pot.

"The pot was removed from the fire and set in a shallow hole in the ground to keep it steady. The potatoes were mashed directly in the pot withi a wood or iron masher. The repeated blows of the masher pushed the pot farther into the earth. As the pot was always put in the same place near the hearth, a sizable pothole soon developed."

Anatomy Of A Pothole

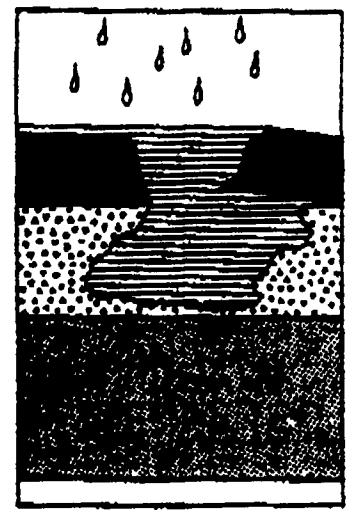
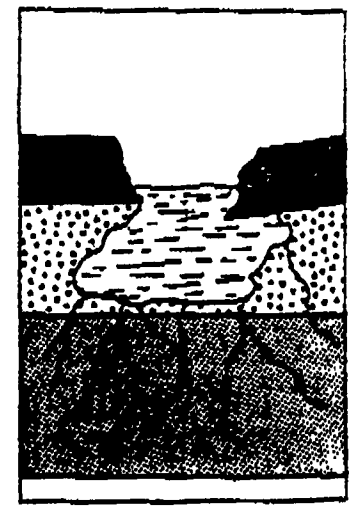
1. A crack develops in the pavement near joints. Water enters crack area; freezes; expands crack area, knocking small pieces loose.

2. Car wear continues to enlarge the crack area. More water enters and the cycle repeats.



3. Water eventually leaks into sub-base, freezing below the surface area. Expansion forces larger pieces to become dislodged.



4. As ice thaws, whole sections of the road surface drop. Traffic pushes road surface even further down. Pothole is fully developed.

VEGETABLE CHEESE SPREAD

1 cup part-skim ricotta cheese
2 tablespoons shredded carrot
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
½ teaspoon dried dill
1½ teaspoon Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
8 drops hot pepper sauce (optional)

Combine all ingredients and stir until well-blended. Chill. Serve with crisp bread or whole wheat melba toast. The dip will keep several days. Yields 1 cup.

4 servings; 90 calories, less than 1 gram fiber, and 5 grams fat per ¼ cup. 50% calories from fat.

HOT OR COLD POACHED SALMON

1½ quart water
½ cup wine vinegar
2 slices onion
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1-1½ pounds salmon fillets

Bring water, vinegar, onion, and pepper to a boil in large saucepan. Slip in salmon and simmer 10 minutes per inch of thickness. Remove fish from liquid with a slotted spatula. Chill if desired. Serve with cucumber dill sauce.

Cucumber Dill Sauce:

1 cucumber, peeled and shredded
1 cup plain low-fat yogurt
1½ teaspoon lemon juice
¾ teaspoon dried dill weed or 1 tablespoon fresh
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix together all ingredients and chill several hours before serving.

Serves 4 at about 270 calories, 1 gram fiber and 11 grams fat per serving with ½ cup sauce. 37 percent from fat.

CARROT, ORANGE AND RAISIN SALAD

1½ cups carrots, cleaned and finely chopped or shredded
1½ cups oranges, diced
½ cup raisins
½ cup low-fat vanilla yogurt

Toss carrots, oranges, and raisins together lightly with 2 forks. Mix in yogurt. Chill.

CHICKEN VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

1 pound boneless skinned chicken breast
2 tablespoons sherry or white wine
4 cups broccoli florets
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
5 cups spinach
1 cup sliced mushrooms

Cut chicken into bite-sized pieces. Marinate in sherry or white wine for 30 minutes. Drain before cooking. Steam broccoli 1½ minutes and rinse under cold water. Mix together water, cornstarch, and soy sauce. Saute chicken in oil for 2 to 3 minutes. Add cornstarch mixture and vegetables; cook 3 minutes. Serve over hot rice.

Serves 4 at 290 calories, 7 grams fiber, and 8 grams fat per serving. 25% calories from fat.

Doris Thomas Honored At Reception

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The well-deserved accolades for 30 plus years of service to education and the community were given to Doris Thomas, retiring Lancaster County Extension home economist at the reception held at the Host Resort last Sunday afternoon.

Doris is well know to Lancaster Farming readers for her weekly column "Have You Heard" that appeared each week begining in 1964.

Phrases such as illustrious carrier in education; outstanding job in efforts to better people's lives; most popular women in the county; and a role model for all people, are representative of the reflections presented by a number of Doris' friends and professional associates.

One especially fine tribute came from Janice Wagner, a home maker graduate of the Expanded Food Nutrition Education Program EFNEP. Ms. Wagner said that she had initiated a cooking program in her home more than 20 years ago so that her five children and the children of neighbors could have a balanced diet. She told of her trepidation at the thought of hosting a well-educated person such as Doris Thomas. Ms. Wagner said because of her family obligations she was not able to complete her high school education until later in life.

"I actually had a grandson when I graduated," Wagner said. "So this lady (Doris) is coming and I'm shaking. And when she came in, I poured her a cup of coffee, and she said 'Janice, relax.' And I felt I knew her for years. She has always been like that. I'll get upset and she will say 'Calm down, you can do it.' She really has been a good friend to me and to everyone. Whether you are poor, rich, black or white, it doesn't matter. Doris will say 'You can do it.'"

Many persons paid tribute to Doris' work. Donald Evans and Paul Wangsness brought messages from Penn State University and the Capital Region respectively. Virginia Ranck told of experiences in 4-H while wearing an outfit made in one of Doris' sewing clubs as a youth. Lee Glatfleter reviewed Doris' work with the American Heart Association, and the Rev. Robert Muise, told of her work with the St. Peter's United Church of Christ. Elizabeth Specht joined Ms. Wagner in reflections from EFNEP past and present.

Sherri Heller brough a tribute from the county commissioners; and Rep. John Barley read a proclamation from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. Patricia Powley brought gifts from the Pennsylvania Association of Home Economists; Mae Hostetter, the Epsilon Sigma Phi; Brenda Stallman, the Pennsylvania Extension Para Professional Association; Kathryn Fry, the Lancaster County Farm Women's Society, and Connie Rutt presented the roses, quilt, and a check from the Friends of Doris Thomas (everyone who was present).

John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension director, announced that a portrait of Doris will hang in the kitchen of the Farm and Home Center because this kitchen was her dream come true and because of the many years she "mothered" over it.

Alletta Schadler, Lebanon County extension director, was mistress of ceremonies.

But with all the accolades, maybe the poem by S. Joan Hershey in her reflections from the Lancaster County Farm Women Society best summarized the feelings of everyone present.

To Doris With Love:

Doris we are here to celebrate your special day,
For many have gathered in your honor to gladly say,
Everybody everywhere thinks you are the absolute most.

By always being ready, willing and able to respond.
No one was ignored with the simplist of questions,
Your answers over the years received honorable mention.

Dedicated, loyal and tireless, are just a very few—
Words that express our sincere appreciation too.
There was always much to do and so little time,
For you managed to regularly speak on radio prime.

You clearly moved ahead with what you believed.
Locally and nationally you served us and others well,

And all these wonderful ideas at one very low price.
You have kept up with all the many changes all these years,

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Using authentic tools and period equipment, Brother Johannes of the Christiansbrunn Kloster, will demonstrate how flax was traditionally processed in Colonial-era Pennsylvania and how it is still processed in his community. The program, part of a series, will be held at the Hershey Museum on Monday, March 21, at 1 p.m. A half-hour slide program showing the entire process from the planting of seeds to the finished product will be used to introduce the demonstration. The program is designed to help visitors to better understand the uses for the flax production tools housed in the museum's collections and to gain a sense of the process of textile production in the 18th and early 19th centuries.

Garden Symposium For Te

Hyacinths provide aroma, color, and style. Learn how to use them as companion plants in landscaping design.

These water lilies show why water gardening is growing in popularity among homeowners. Step by step instructions on planning, installing, stocking, and maintaining a water garden will be taught at the symposium.

These crabapple trees at Penn State University's Landisville trial gardens are used for research in order to find ways to improve flowering and resistance to disease.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Don't be fooled by the snow-covered ground, spring is almost here. Although it's too early to plant, it's definitely time to plan your flower garden.

If you are one of those hodgepodge gardeners who would like to bring some order and design into your landscaping efforts or if you are perplexed when it comes to choosing the most appropriate shrubs, trees, and plants for the soil and climate conditions, help is on the way.

The Penn State Garden Symposium, scheduled at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster, on March 19, promises to instruct and inspire both novice and professional gardeners.

H. Bruce Hellerick, horticulture agent for the county, planned the program by inviting guest speakers who are experts in a variety of gardening techniques.

Dr. Irwin Richman, Penn State horticulture professor, will kick off the pace for the day-long program by showing slides of gardens with a special emphasis on paradise gardens, where the perfect landscape looks like eternal spring with masses of color.

Richman said that his theory is that western culture desire to attain perfection in gardening has roots going back to the Garden of Eden, known as perfection.

"Art and gardening is intertwined in design and the aesthetic pleasure provided in relation to form, texture, and color," Richman said.

"Even if a person does not have a natural eye for design, one can learn the basics of landscape design," he said.

Richman said that the best gardening books are written in England. "They show all these great examples, but most the plants don't thrive in this locality. A gardener should make certain that plants selected can grow and thrive in the climate and soil for which it is chosen."

Brent and Becky Heath, who raise more than 2,000 varieties of daffodils, tulips, alliums, anemones, crocus, dutch iris, and other bulbs, will share the "tricks of the trade" on growing bulbs and offer ideas on using bulbs as companion plants in landscaping. The Heaths are the fourth generation of bulb growers and owners of the Daffodil Mart in Gloucester, Va.

Water gardening is one of the most exciting and popular directions attracting gardeners. Virginia Crum of the famous Lilypons Water Gardens in Buckeysville, Md., will offer step-by-step instructions on planning, installing, stocking, and maintaining a water garden. Special emphasis will be placed on planning and construction with man-made products such as flexible rubber pond liners and preformed fiberglass pools.

The selection and use of shrubs in gardening will be taught by David Sanford, horticulture professor and an expert in ornamental tree and shrub identification.

Losing trees to disease is a major setback to homeowners not only financially but also aesthetically. Alan Michael, Penn State multicounty extension agent, has done major research on disease resistance and will speak on improving flowering crabapples and dogwoods.

Internationally recognized landscape architect James Anthony van Sweden, who has created exquisite gardens throughout the world, is another speaker who will share his expertise.

The cost of the symposium is $35 and includes speaker's fees, handouts, lunch, and refreshments. Make checks payable to Agricultural Extension and mail check with name, full address, and phone number to Penn State Garden Symposium, Penn State Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Rd. Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601-3149.

Gardening Classes

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) — The Westmoreland County office, Penn State Extension and the Greensburg Garden Center are co-sponsoring a series of garden, landscape, and nature seminars at Westmoreland County Community College. These classes are open to anyone with interest and enthusiasm for gardening or nature. Instructors are Pennsylvanians who are experts on their topics and understand Pennsylvania soils and climate. Classes will be held on consecutive Tuesday evenings, March 15, 22, and 29.

On the evening of March 15, gardeners will be able to choose two one-hour classes. These include "Basic Perennial Gardening," "The Herb Border," "Apples for Pennsylvania Gardens," and "Wildflowers of Western Pennsylvania."

The second week of the program, March 22 gardeners can attend one of the following two hour seminars:

"Choosing Small Trees for Pennsylvania Landscapes" - David Quatchak, Penn State extension horticulturist, Allegheny County.

"Landscape Design for the Homeowner," - Mark D'Amico, landscape architect or "Pennsylvania Vegetable Gardening" - Eric Oesterling, Penn State Extension horticulturist, Westmoreland County.

The sessions will culminate on March 29 when nationally known author and speaker Charles Thomas of Lilypons Water Gardens will show gardeners how to "Create Beautiful Water Gardens." Water gardening is one of the fastest growing and most exciting types of gardening. Get your water gardening started right by taking the advice of this nationally recognized expert. Register with Westmoreland County Community College at (412) 925-4204.

Landscape Seminar For Homeowners

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Just in time for spring: A Landscape Symposium for Homeowners will be offered on April 9 by the Home and Garden Information Center of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park. Scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., the symposium will be held at Howard Community College in Columbia.

"The intent of the program," says regional extension horticulture specialist Ray Bosmans, "is to provide homeowners with information on plants and environmentally sound horticulture practices they can use to maintain healthy lawns and gardens." Speakers will emphasize integrated pest management (IPM) and limited use of traditional pesticides and fertilizers.

Among the topics to be covered:

- Low-Maintenance Landscaping;
- Maintaining a Healthy Lawn;
- Composting Made Easy;
- Insects: the Good, Bad and Ugly; and
- Diseases: the Wilted, Spotted and Dying.

Advance registration is suggested. Fees are $20 each, or $30 for two adult family members. (The fee for Extension master gardeners is $15 each, or $22 for two master gardeners residing in the same household.) Registration at the door will cost $25.

For more information about the Landscape Symposium for Homeowners or a copy of the program schedule and registration form, call the Home and Garden Information Center at (410) 531-5556.

Lebanon's Extension Void Filled By Voight

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Delbert Voight seemed a little shell shocked last week, in his office at the Lebanon Agricultural Center last week.

The new agronomy extension agent seemed caught between taking telephone messages and talking to people about upcoming events and activities, and digging through reference books seeking answers to questions about weed pests to production crop farming.

A bundle of branches, labeled and cut for a demonstration were lying on the floor between his desk and chairs presumably intended for office guests.

Also evidently ongoing was a project of going through an office that was left idle for more than a year with the retirement of Denis Hoke, former Lebanon County extension agent.

He had already gone through a lot of the old files and made a number of "discoveries" about the county's agronomy extension work, but there is much more to do.

In his office, Delbert Voight takes a phone message while in the middle of giving advise, preparing for meetings, and trying to get the office up to running order.

At the same time, he was telling his opinions and recommendations based on his knowledge as a holder of a master's degree in agricultural education, and on his experience as a custom crop production manager responsible for the start-to-finish of thousands of acres of corn and soybeans in Iowa.

The young married man, with a football player's build and shortcropped black hair, said people somehow think he's from the Midwest.

It's true he's lived in Iowa for several years, finishing his master's degree at the Iowa State University and then going immediately to work full time as a crop production specialist for Cenex-Land O Lakes. He personally was involved in the fertilizing, planting and protection of 12,000 to 15,000 acres of corn and soybeans.

Perhaps it's his red-cheeks that come from working outside and from tossing heavy bags of seed and fertilizer that makes him look like a Midwestern farm boy.

Or maybe its the photographs of huge equipment that he used in Iowa, such as equipment to air flow soybeans, huge boom sprayers with balloon wheels, and fertilizer equipment that would have a tough time making a turn around in a typical Pennsylvania corn field.

The truth is, he was born and raised in Sussex County, New Jersey, where his father was a manager for the local Agway Cooperative.

And while, to the average American, the mention of New Jersey hasn't conjured images of rural bliss for some time, there is still a strong agricultural element in the Garden State. It is an element that Voight was exposed to as he grew up.

His father used to raise between seven to 10 registered Holsteins to sell as dairy replacements as an annual sideline business, and from that "Del," as the Lebanon community is beginning to call him, also got jobs milking cows in the area.

"I was milking cows in the area since I was old enough to pull a teat," Voight said, and adding that starting in fifth grade, he was also heavily involved in 4-H.

His father's work with the Sussex County Fair also got him involved in helping with the fair.

In the meantime, he met and married Lori, the former Miss America Angus, who also happens to be the daughter of Penn State University professor Dr. Erskine Cash, well known in Pennsylvania agriculture because of his work in beef production.

In Voight's office last week, during a short time when he was uninterrupted, he took some cucumber seeds and planted them in a container he filled with soil that was purposefully contaminated with a soil pest which typically attacks and destroys seedling plants.

He was planting the seeds so that they would sprout and begin to die off just in time for a scheduled telecommunications conference for the Extension Master Gardner program. The plants are to be used as examples that coincide with the satellite downlink program.

His schedule is full, but he said he thinks he will enjoy helping people in his new role as an extension agent.

"I think that my role is to assist (area people) in getting timely information on research and techniques which can help them succeed," he said.

"I think it's a two-way street. We can learn from each other. They can learn from us if they use us."

He said that in his position at Lebanon the major thrust of his work will be in agronomy, and will include such activities as holding pesticide education meetings, providing help with anything to do with row crops, doing on-farm demonstrations, and working with industry as well as individuals.

He said he also plans to plant a weed garden in the rear of the Lebanon Agricultural Center so that people who need to identify a weed will be able to see an example of the plant throughout the growing season.

Voight said he is also very interested in the Young Farmer program and intends to attend their meetings and depend on them to help him stay on top of what types of information is being sought.

On Oct. 15 he did his last soil sample in Iowa and pulled out of the field and headed for Pennsylvania and officially began work Nov. 1. He said he would like to stay in the Lebanon Valley, develop a good relationship with its people and contribute to their well-being, and make it his home too.

Consuming Thoughts

Fay Strickler

Are you known for making the best lasagna, homemade baked beans or cracker pudding? There's probably a dish or two that your family, friends or relatives think that you can whip up better than most anyone else. But a knack for cooking one or two specialty dishes is not all there is to putting together a meal for a special occasion or a holiday. Making the menu is all important. And that takes time, practice, and above all, careful planning.

When you're planning a menu, there are several things to consider.

• Preplan your menu before you shop. Make a shopping list, but be flexible enough to take advantage of seasonal specials or weekend buys. While planning your menu, check your recipes and the groceries you have at home.

• Keep your cooking utensils and appliances in mind. Two or more dishes that require baking at different temperatures won't always work in a one-oven kitchen.

• Choose the main dish first and then select the other courses to complement it.

• It's wise to save more complicated dishes for the days when you have the time for them. Shorten your preparation time by choosing some recipes which can be partially or totally prepared ahead of time. This leaves you more free time just before the meal.

• Your meal will really stand out from the ordinary if you collect interesting recipes. Make sure that they offer a variety of textures, tastes, colors and shapes. Also, keep in mind that certain qualities to together; crisp goes with soft, bland or sweet with tart or zippy, hot with cold, light with heavy. When you don't have time to prepare a new dish, something as simple as an attractive garnish can help keep the meal from looking routine.

Learning how to organize your meals can save you from those horrible last minute flurries. The best way to keep things under control is to read through each recipe and make out a work schedule on paper. You can tailor the schedule for any meal if you follow these steps.

• Each dish needs to be assembled before it's ready to be cooked, so estimate the preparation time for each dish. Often the preparation time exceeds the cooking time.

• Check the recipe for the cooking time of each dish.

• Add the preparation time and cooking time together to determine how long each dish will take. List these starting times in sequence, with the longest time first. Jot down what you will be doing during each time.

• Working backwards from your scheduled serving time, figure when you should start the first dish. You will find that there will be extra time throughout your schedule to take care of miscellaneous tasks.

Careful planning can make your family reunion — or any special occasion — a success.

Avoiding Insurance Policy Surprises

The snow and cold weather continue to drag on as I type this column, and with the record-breaking weather comes some record-breaking insurance claims. People across the state are contacting their agents for financial assistance as they repair structure damage to properties. But no all the phone calls have resulted in good news. Some people have been unpleasantly surprised.

We each need to look critically at the coverage our current insurance policies provide and explore options so that we have the coverage we need without paying money for coverage that is not of value to us. During the last few months I explored our family's coverage. I found out that plumbing work to fix frozen pipes was not covered by my company. Damage to surrounding furnishings, flooring and walls was included but not the hardware itself.

Other people learned about ranges of coverage through misfortune as well. Some discovered that although residences may be covered for damage received from excessive snow load, other outbuildings may not be included. For farmers, the financial value of those outbuildings and their contents is great. Policy riders may be an option, but agents won't write a policy until all the snow has melted from the roof.

Organizations and families that own buildings and pay regularly on policies must stay in touch with the coverage that they have. According to Bottom Line researchers, 90 percent of people don't have the proper coverage. They estimate 70 percent have too much coverage. Others are underinsured or are insured for the wrong things. Each family should review its coverage annually. For some that may mean taking time to locate the actual policy first. By carefully reading the fine print and asking direct questions of their agents, families can avoid surprises and manage their risks more effectively. Probe for the exceptions. Begin by asking questions like: • What exclusions or limitations does this policy have? (Example: Homeowners policies may exclude earthquake, flood or mudslide damage. Artwork or jewelry may be excluded.) Endorsements may be an option for protection in these areas.

• Have we adjusted our level of coverage to keep up with inflation?

• Do you reimburse for the replacement value of belongings, appliances and equipment aor actual value of current items?

• Is my detached garage protected in the same way as my home? What about other outbuildings?

• Is an open-sided storage building protected any differently than an enclosed one?

• Is damage to landscaping covered?

It is critical to keep an updated inventory for your household and other buildings. Video recordings may make this task more manageable. Keep receipts for major purchases in a fire safe box or safe deposit box. Don't forget to include closets and garages in your inventory work. Replacing business clothes, children's toys and sports equipment can be expensive.

Secondly, most homeowners should work toward a level of insurance that is at least 80 percent of the replacement cost of the residence. Otherwise partial losses to certain rooms or areas may not be covered fully. Don't forget to shop around when evaluating insurance options. This can be a way for families to save money while improving coverage. Families should select insurance that will protect them against possible unknown circumstances that would bring significant loss, not against predictable future events that you can budget for.

The examples given related to property insurance can be modified and appllied to inquiries about life insurance, health insurance or auto insurance. By taking the time to probe and ask specific questions, you can protect your family and your farm business from many unpredictable losses without spending a fortune.

4-H HAPPENINGS

North Mountain 4-H Community Club

A new 4-H community club has formed in the North Annville, Ono, Waterworks, Bellegrove area.

4-H is the largest growing youth program in the world. This program is free to boys and girls ages 8-19. It teaches leadershiop, responsibility, and self-esteem through many hands-on projects, such as air rifle safety, baseball card collecting, cake decorating, ceramics, cooking, cross-stitch, entomology, first aid, plants, pets, poultry, rabbits, rocketry, sewing, small engines, vegetable gardening, vet science, and woodworking.

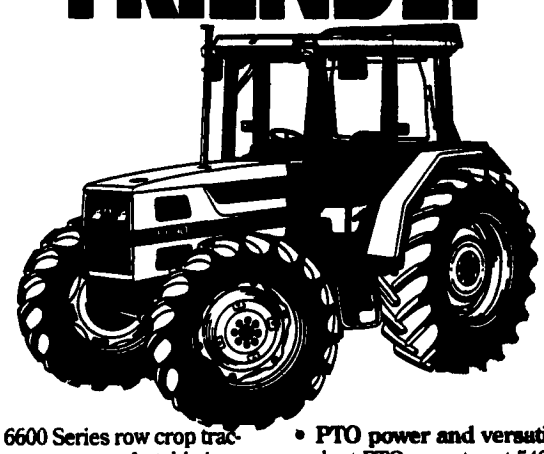
At the Monday, Feb. 28 meeting, 35 members were present. Games and mixers were enjoyed by everyone 20 minutes before the meeting began. The meeting was called to order by president Jesse Wenmger. Secretary's report was read and roll call was taken.

Under old business, insurance forms were explained.

Anyone interested in being a leader or a member, call DAle and Fran Bushong, (717) 865-6270.

AGCO ALLIS
6600 SERIES TRACTORS

OPERATOR FRIENDLY



The AGCO Allis 6600 Series row crop tractors are engineered to put you comfortably in control. In addition to a comfortable cab or a platform and ROPS, you get low maintenance, low operating costs and a 4-year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Trouble-free, air- and oil-cooled engine. The 6600 Series tractors are equipped with low-maintenance, 4-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engines. The 6670 provides 63 PTO hp and the 6680 73 PTO hp, both with 22% torque rise. The 6690 has a turbocharged 81 PTO hp engine that delivers a 28% torque rise, as well as the best fuel economy in its class.
- Many speed choices. The synchropower transmission with a separate synchro-reverser offers 12 forward and 12 reverse speeds, planetary final drive and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch. An optional creeper transmission provides 16 forward and 16 reverse speeds; a dual speed option has 24 forward and 12 reverse and a power Hi-Lo transmission provides 30 forward and 30 reverse speeds. All tractor models are available as either 2WD or AWD.
- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and has a hydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch. The Category II/I 3-point hitch has a convenient rear remote control and is equipped with telescopic stabilizers. Optional telescopic lower links are also available.
- Quality performance and comfort. The 6600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear radial tires. They have hydrostatic power steering, a tilt-telescopic steering wheel, hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes and a mechanically-actuated differential lock. AWD models have four-wheel brakes for 40% better braking and an operator controlled front differential lock for tighter turns. All operated from the comfort of the enclosed cab.

To experience the user-friendliness of the 6600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon.

New Turfgrass And Landscape Mulch Developed

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Landscapers and turfgrass professionals have a new mulch to use this spring, thanks to research in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Pennmulch (patent pending) was developed by agronomy instructor George Hamilton. The product is made from chopped newsprint, magazines, and other paper, and can be used in place of traditional mulching materials.

In addition to creating a use for large volumes of waste paper, the product addresses a long-standing need in the industry. "Mulching is crucial in turfgrass seedbeds for holding moisture, reducing erosion, and protecting seeds from temperature extremes," says Hamilton.

"But traditional mulches present problems. Many professionals use hydromulch — mixture of wood fiber or ground paper combined with fertilizer and seed, which is sprayed onto seedbeds. Hydromulching requires an expensive machine and a high-volume water source for filling the hydromulcher.

"The alternative is straw, which often contains weed seeds, tends to blow away, and is difficult to store and handle," Hamilton adds. "In addition, soil microorganisms that break down straw also deplete soil nitrogen."

Pennmulch is shaped into small, green pellets that are easy to ship and store. "It looks exactly like rabbit food," Hamilton explains. "The pellets can be spread by hand nor by many types of conventional spreaders owned by turfgrass professionals and landscapers. A starter fertilizer can be combined with the product so that fertilizing and mulching is done in one step."

When the pellets become wet, they expand to several times their original size so that a small amount covers a large area. Also, because the mulch is made entirely paper, there's no danger of seedbeds being contaminated by weed seeds.

While Pennmulch currently is marketed only to commercial operations, Hamilton hopes to make it available to homeowners soon. "The producer has a large marketing potential," says Hamilton. "A Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture survey shows that in 1989 homeowners spent nearly $19 million on grass seed.

"Pennmulch has great possibilities for retail because it can be sold in any size bag, it is shipped and stored much more easily than traditional mulches and the shelf life is unlimited," he adds. "Although it was designed for use in grass seedbeds, we're looking into other uses, such as vegetable gardens and ornamental plantings.

Research on the product began three years ago with a Ben Franklin Partnership Environmental Technology Fund, which included in-kind support from Penn State's College of Agricultural Services.

Pennmulch currently is being manufactured by Penn Mulch, Inc., located in Pittsburgh. Last fall 50 tons of the mulch were produced and about 40 tons were sold to turfgrass and landscape companies.

Alfalfa Question:

The Answer:
No.

These varieties can be harvested earlier in the spring and later in the fall to give higher yields, and a more even distribution of yield over the season. And because they are vigorous, they can be cut more frequently to give softer, leafier hay.

Why settle for late-starting, slow-growing, short-season alfalfa. Choose CimarronVR or Belmont – premium alfalfa varieties that not only provide excellent winterhardiness, yield and quality – but also combined resistance to all the major diseases, insects, and nematodes that attack alfalfa. Proven performance.

CimarronVR The High-Yield, High-Quality Alfalfa
BELMONT Fast Growing Alfalfa

Tree Grafting Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Landis Valley Museum in cooperation with the Lancaster-based Back Yard Fruit Growers (BYFG) will conduct an open workshop for anyone who wants to learn fruit tree grafting on Saturday, March 19, from 1-4:30 p.m. at the Museum's Visitor Center. Landis Valley and the BYFG hope to interest people in preserving "antique" apple trees by giving them the opportunity to graft or attach an oldscion or piece of a branch to a modern, healthy rootstock. The fruit which is produced out of this union willhave all the characteristics of the old fruit: color, taste, shape and size — only on a smaller and healthier tree; a tree that could be planted in any backyard, large or small.

People may bring pencil-sized sticks or water shoots from first year growth from a favorite apple tree they knew on the farm, or obtain from the museum and the fruitgrowers a scion from among 100 plus choices of historical apple trees. The BYFG and the museum staff will offer instruction, hands-on assistance, hand outs and two ready-to-plant, labeled trees for $15 on Saturday afternoon, March 19. The workshop begins promptly at 1:15 and is offered on a first come, first-served basis with people being admitted after 1 p.m. No reservations will be taken. Information only is offered by phone prior to the event.

The Back Yard Fruit Growers is a small organization made up of people interested in producing fruit in the back yard environment with little or no chemical help. They meet informally throughout the year and hold this special spring meeting to assist the community in an effort to preserve old apple tree varieties as well as old knowledge. In addition to the hands-on workshop there will be a superbly assembled slide show illustrating fruit growing through the whole season and the opportunity to learn from seasoned pros such details as how to sharpen a pocket knife.

The Landis Valley Museum is located 2½ miles North of Lancaster on the Oregon Pike (Rt. 272) a marked exit off both Routes 30 and 222. For information only call Landis Valley at 717/569-0401, Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Landis Valley is operated by the Pennsylvania Historical & Museum Commission and supported by the Landis Valley Associates.

Rid Trees Of Tent Caterpillars

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The tent-like community nests of Eastern tent caterpillars are among the less sightly signs of spring. And despite an especially cold winter, they can be expected to start showing up soon.

Tent caterpillar eggs hatch in early spring — about the time trees start to leaf out. The young caterpillars stay together, building and enlarging their communal nests. They spend most of their time in these "tents," leaving several times a day to feed on the host tree's leaves.

Tent caterpillars have a special affinity for apple and wild cherry trees, but they also feed on peach, plum, hawthorne and many varieties of shade trees. Although they can defoliate a small tree, they almost never do permanent damage, according to Mary Kay Malinoski, a regional entomology specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park.

The best time to get rid of tent caterpillars is before the egg masses hatch in the spring, says Malinoski. Unhatched tent caterpillar egg masses look like black styrofoam masses around small twigs. These egg masses can be pruned out easily. If they look rough rather than shiny, however, don'nt bother; the larvae have already hatched.

But don't despair. It's still possible to get rid of the caterpillars. The easiest method is to remove the tents with a stick or your gloved hand, or prune them out with clippers. Crush the nests and their occupants under your feet or put them in a bucket of warm, soapy water to kill the pests.

For more information on controlling Eastern tent caterpillars and other insect pests, Maryland residents can call the Home and Garden InformationCenter at 1-800-342-2507.

Here are the facts why ULTRAFLO® outperforms chain feeders
FEED SAVINGS. Customers report 1/2 to 2 lbs. per 100 birds/day—over $10,000 per year saved on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year!
TROUGH DESIGN. High tensile steel for strength. No feed buildup or waste like chain trough.
NO RE-GRADING of feed, due to our design. Chain lets birds pick over feed while feeder runs.
REMIXES FEED. Our auger slowly revolves, keeping oil and new feed blended. Chain doesn't, so feed can get stale.
REPAIR & MAINTENANCE. Ours needs the least of all feeders. Easy splicing with auger connector, and no troublesome corners or chain guides to replace. Saves money and time year after year.

SIMPLE OPERATION. "Push-Pull" Power Units with low HP motor are located along the feeder line as needed.

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR. Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary.

Remodel with Chore-Time and you can have more birds, better performance and less maintenance. Chore-Time's 4 tier, 20 inch deep Duratrims are the same width as 3 tier dropping board systems and 4 tier reverse cages. Go from 60,000 birds to 80,000 birds.

Egg producers have been putting up with obsolete chain feeders far too long. Now there's a better way: Chore-Time's proven ULTRAFLO Cage Feeding System. Since introduction, more than 80% of the top 54 egg producers* have gone to ULTRAFLO. A lot of smaller ones have too.

They've all looked at the advantages and chosen ULTRAFLO. That's because it makes them more profitable Total egg production and egg size—these are the best benefits of our complete feeding system.

Why not check out the facts for yourself? Contact us now—or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO.

Because the only negative comments about our feeding system come from our competition—not from our customers

Where Do Your Food Dollars Go?

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Have you ever wondered just who gets all those bucks you spend at the grocery store? According to Annette Goodling, Penn State Cooperative Extension, the U.S. Department of Agriculture keeps track of such things and their most recent accounting (through 1991) may hold some surprises.

For starters, farmers don't get as much as you may think. Lumping all types of foods together, the so-called farm value — what the farmer receives from each dollar we spend — amounts to less than a quarter. In fact, this farm share is falling, from 32 percent in 1971 to 22 percent in 1991. The loss in the farmer's share has been offset by a consistent rise in what's called marketing costs. These costs include labor, packaging, transportation, depreciation, fuels and electricity, rent, interest, repairs, etc. Marketing costs account for 78 cents of every dollar we spend on food. By far the biggest chunk of the marketing cost is labor. Thirty-five cents out of every food dollar goes to paying for the labor involved in processing, transporting, and selling foods. And this expense is on the rise. In 1991 labor costs rose 6 percent, as they had, on average, for each of the preceding five years. To better understand what these numbers mean in terms of your own food purchases, consider two items common to most shopping lists — eggs and cereal. On the average, farmers get about 60 cents out of every dollar spent on eggs, while the marketing share is 40 percent. This is the opposite of what you find when all commodities are taken together. Why is this so? The packaging is already done by the chicken. Eggs simply have to be collected, cleaned off a bit, put in cartons, and delivered to the egg case in the store. So with eggs, the chicken provides the bulk of the labor and the rest typically involves only one or two simple steps. By contrast, the farmer's share of what we pay for a box of cereal is a mere 5 percent because so much post-farm labor goes into, say, transforming grain into corn flakes. Cereal manufacturers first pick up the corn at a central collection point, most likely a grain elevator, truck it to the manufacturing plant, wash it, grind it into flour, process it into flakes using other ingredients, and box it. The boxes are packed into cartons which are fastened together into units that can be moved via pallets and forklifts. Then the cereal is transported to a distribution center, from which it's taken to the supermarket, where the cartons must be opened and individual boxes inventoried, priced, and placed on the shelves. In addition, the cereal business is highly competitive, fueling large advertising budgets.

We, the consumers, pay for flashy packaging and all those TV ads, as part of a product's marketing cost. Remember, too, that consumer convenience plays a big role in increasing marketing costs. With cereal all you have to do is pour it in a bowl and add milk. So when we buy bread, snack foods, frozen dinners, and the like, the cost of the ingredients is fairly small. Much of what we're paying for is someone else providing services we pay them to perform. Consumers pay for appearance as well. Take lettuce, a highly perishable crop trucked east from California throughout the winter. Although the lettuce may be wrapped and crated right on the farm, the outside leaves sometimes turn brown during shipping. Typically, grocery store personnel will unwrap the heads, remove the outside leaves, and rewrap them. Even though they know the inside of the lettuce is fine, most people would rather pay to have someone else take the outer leaves off than to do it themselves. When given a choice between two items, people often go for the higher-priced, more attractive one. When you stare in shock at your grocery bill, remember this: the two key factors affecting your food dollar are consumer demand for services and a highly efficient agricultural system.

John and Susanna Umble of Atglen display the recognition plaque for being named to the Pennsylvania Holstein Hall of Fame during the state cattle club's annual banquet recently. Umbles' purchased a foundation cow in the 1950s. At the herd dispersal in 1983, 45 direct descendants of that animal helped generate the state high herd dispersal average of $5,717. The herd has earned the Progressive Breeder Registry award 13 times. Wayne and Athene Beshore of York were also named to the Hall of Fame. # Dairy Royalty Reigns In New York

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Jennifer Emerling from Perry, New York in Wyoming County, was crowned the 1994-95 New York State Dairy Princess on February 22 at the Sheraton Inn, Liverpool, New York.

Emerling was awarded a $1,200 scholarship as well as $150 for being a speech winner and $75 for having a winning scrapbook. She will spend a year making appearances on behelf of New York's dairy industry. The new state princess has already served almost a year as a county dairy princess.

Lillian Lunde of Apalachin, New York in Tioga County was named first Alternate State Princess. She received a $700 scholarship and $75 as a scrapbook winner. Heather Ivett of South Dayton, New York in Chautauqua County was selected as second Alternate State Princess. She received a $600 scholarship and $150 for being a speech award winner. Both alternate princesses will assist the state princess with various appearances throughout the state.

Selection of the state princesses was based on a three-part judging process. The youing women went through personal interviews, presented a three to five minute speech for an adult audience, and presented a school program appropriate for an elementary school audience. The candidates were also judged on their knowledge of the dairy industry, enthusiasm, communication skills, creativity, poise, and appearance.

Other pageant winners were Lori Shaw of Delaware County who was awarded $75 for her winning scrapbook, and Tammi McBath of St. Lawrence County who was awarded $150 in the speech category. Honorable Mention for speech presentations were Suzan Jenne, Chenango County; and Anna Marie DeHart, Lewis County. Rebecca Jo Blunt, Oneida County, and Jaime Pudney, Cortland County, were both speech and overall pageant finalists. Other overall pageant finalists were Harriet Pimm, Orange County, and Jessica Wickham, Schuyler County.

Amy Hesser of Chemung County was chosen "Miss Congeniality" by her fellow princesses for her friendly and outgoing manner during the two-day competition. She received a bouquet, silver heart-shaped jewel box and silver identification bracelet on behalf of all the princess candidates.

The dairy princess program is designed to promote the consumption and sale of milk and dairy products to consumers and to create better relations between urban and rural people through one-on-one contact at the local level. There are currently 36 dairy princesses and their courts working on behalf of New York's dairy farm families.

Time To Start Indoor Plant Transplants

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Enthusiastic home gardeners — eager for an end to winter's chill — can rejoice. Although it's a little early to really get out and work the soil, it's not too early to start flower and vegetable transplants indoors.

Most seeds should be planted five to six weeks before it's time to set the plants outside, according to experts at the Home and Garden Information Center of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park.

"Many gardeners start their seeds too early," says Extension horticulture specialist Ray Bosmans. "Then their plants are ready to be moved outside before the last frost dates." These dates range from mid- to late April on the Eastern Shore to mid-May in most parts of western Maryland.

Starting your own transplants can be rewarding — and save you money, too. It's not particularly difficult, says Bosmans, as long as you can provide adequate light and a suitable growing medium.

He recommends mixes of peat moss, perlite or vermiculite, which are sterile and drain well. Place several seeds in rows of attached containers designed especially for starting transplants.

Unless you have south-facing windows and strong sunlight, seedlings will not do well on a window sill. Bosmans suggests growing transplants under fluorescent lights to supplement or replace natural light. Cool white tubes work very well.

Transplants need some time to adjust to the outdoor environment before being planted. You can do this by placing the flats outside on nice days in a semi-shaded location for a week before transplanting them to their permanent location.

For more information about growing and transplanting seedlings, Maryland residents can call the Home and Garden Information Center at 1-800-342-2507. Extension specialists and master gardeners are available to answer questions between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m., Monday through Friday. Pre-recorded information can be accessed via touch-tone telephone 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

The February meeting of Group 3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women was held at the home of Dora Pollock, Boyertown R.D. 3. Each member present received a carnation corsage in honor of the group's 40th anniversary. Thirteen members attended.

Canned goods were collected for the Berks County Food Bank. Group 3 will serve refreshments at the Bechtel auction on Saturday, March 26.

Reading of the Society's constitution and by-laws was the program for the evening. Several members also gave reports on the State Convention held on January 10 in Harrisburg.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Leona Stauffer, Indian Lane, Boyertown. Each member is asked to wear a green bow in celebration of St. Patrick's Day.

York Society 11

President Mary Winemiller gave dates to remember: Spring Rally, May 11, at the York Fairgrounds and County Fair on July 27 at the 4-H Center. A special request for money for the Southern York Co. Food Bank was honored with a $25 donation.

The program chairperson passed out slips of paper with questions about Washington and Lincoln or to sing a song or recite a poem. Every member participated and were rewarded with two Fastnachts.

The next meeting will be held at St. Paul Lutheran Church Social Room with President Mary Winemiller as hostess and Melba Dise and Mary Carman will chair the program.

Lake Farmpark Hosts Food And Nutrition Month

CONCORD, Ohio — As the saying goes, you are what you eat. So learn what makes a nutritious diet for a healthier life. In celebration of the National Nutrition Month, Lake Farmpark will host a month-long Food and Nutrition Month in March. Most events will take place on the weekends, with special food and cooking classes scheduled on week-days.

Extended programs, demonstrations and exhibits teach the value of a healthy diet for children and adults. Participants are welcome to join these activities:

Ohio Food Show and Nutrition Fair, Saturday, Mar. 26 — Sample delicious food products from businesses throughout Ohio.

Third Annual Muffin Mania Contest, Saturday, Mar. 19 — Bakers in various categories compete for the best muffin. Visitors can sample last year's prize winning recipes baked fresh in the Farmpark Cafe.

Pizza Farm — Children and their parents can trace the origins of pizza ingredients down on the farm through this scavenger hunt. Program will be held every weekend in March.

Registered dietitians, March 26, the nutrition experts, will interpret the food guide pyramid and answer specific questions about nutrition.

Food and Cooking Classes — Recipe Revolution, The Wild Ramp Romp and hay for Your Health teach more than just good cooking, they teach good nutrition! (additional fees and pre-registration are required).

General Farmpark admission is $5 for adults ages 12 and oleder, $4 for seniors ages 65 and older, $3.50 for youths ages 2-11 and free for children under 2. All regular Farmpark offerings are available with the price of admission to the Food and Nutrition Month.

Lake Farmpark is open 9 a.m. -5 p.m. daily except Mondays in March. Farmpark is located at 8800 Chardon Road in Kirtland — just 10 minutes from I-90. Take Rt. 306 south to Rt. 6 (Chardon Road), turn left (east) and drive one mile to Lake Farmpark.

4-H HAPPENINGS

4-H Science Program

National 4-H Council knocked on Mark Manno's door with an opportunity he couldn't refuse.

The New Castle County, Del., 4-H agent welcomed the chance to design a pilot project for 4-H's Cooperative Applications of Science and Technology (CAST) program. Manno was one of four agents nationwide chosen to lead a pilot.

Parameters set by National 4-H Council specified that up to five eighth-graders could participate, the project should be hands-on and team-oriented, the project must use advanced telecommunications software and equipment, and the project must involve extension and private-sector scientists.

Associate director for the university's Apricultural Experiment Station, Dr. William Saylor, suggested a nutrition experiment that he used with undergraduates. With some modifications, it could be adapted for younger students. The experiment involves raising five groups of broiler chicks on five different commercial feeds. Each feed has a specific amount of protein and calories that will result in different growth rates.

The 4-H'ers' job is to determine which group is receiving which feed. By carefully recording data, searching literature on growth and nutrition, and consulting with adult specialists, the 4-H'ers hope to be able to identify which feed has resulted in optimum growth and explain why.

Manno had applications from 16 4-H'ers. In the end he chose five eighth-grade girls from Holy Angels School: Nicole Alexandre, Katie Bartosik, Lisa Darby, Kelly Dawson, and Erin Feeley.

"We asked for a lot of dedication to the project," said Manno. "These five girls and their parents were committed to seeing the project to completion."

Manno said it will be an intense six-week experience. The 4-H'ers will learn how to use electronic mail and computers and to scientific literature searchers. Jo Mercer, extension horticulture agent, was tapped to train the girls on electronic communication. The hands-on laboratory experience will be supervised by Robert Alphin, Experiment Station poultry manager. The girls will spend at least three days a week after school at the laboratory site in Worrilow Hall, located at the College of Agricultural Sciences in Newark.

With the feeds ranging in composition from 13 percent to almost 25 percent protein, differences in growth should be obvious by the second week. The girls will weigh feed to determine how much has been eaten, weigh the chicks to measure growth, calculate the feed efificiency and feed conversion, and record data. They'll be using metric systems and computers to communicate with each other and their science advisor, Dr. Charles Cover, a veterinary toxicologist at DuPont's Haskell Lab.

On March 20-26, the group will visit the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Md., to present their findings to National 4-H Council. They also will meet with students from the other three pilots and share results.

We're pushing these kids as far as we can," Manno said. "When the review comes through, we want our project to be the one to model."

Manno said without the people who have offered to help, the project wouldn't be possible.

"The project represents a tremendous opportunity for all involved." Manno said, "We are shaping the future of science education in this country.

Diamond H 4-H Horsemen

A new 1994 officer of the Diamond H 4-H Horsemen is President Joy Young. Joy is a 16-year-old sophomore at Solanco High School. This is her sixth year of 4-H.

News reporter is Elizabeth Young, a fifth grader at Clermont Elementary. Becky Young was elected as social chairman. She is a sixth grader at Swift Middle School.

There are two simple requirements for joining 4-H: be between the ages of 8-19, and have an interest to learn and have fun.

The March and April meetings will be concentrating on enrolling and welcoming new members. The March meeting is scheduled March 17 and the April meeting is April 21.

Hack Becomes Franklin 4-H Agent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Karen S. Hack has been recently named the 4-H extension agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Franklin County. She succeeds Robert Kessler, who became the county extension director and agronomy agent in July 1993.

Hack was an 11-year 4-H member in Juniata County. She carried a variety of projects, such as clothing, foods, bicycle, and market lamb.

She attended Penn State University and received a bachelor's in animal science with a minor in extension education. She worked in Butler County for one year before she was appointed as an assistant extension agent working in 4-H in Greene and Fayette counties. She was promoted to associate extension agent in July 1993.

Hack's emphasis was on leadership development, teen programming, and livestock while in Fayette and Greene counties. She was also involved in a variety of regional programming.

In Franklin County, Hack will be responsible for all areas of the 4-H program of more than 1,800 members. She will be providing leadership to the volunteers and to the other extension staff involved in the 4-H program.

Hack has been awarded the New Worker Award in 1988 from the Pennsylvania 4-H Agents Association. She also received the National Teen Issues Programming Award in 1990 from the National 4-H Agents Association. She is active in the Pennsylvania 4-H Agents Association and has served as regional director, committee chair, and vice president.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Sign-Up Begins For Farmers

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy has announced a March 1 through April 29 sign-up period for the 1994 Wheat and Feed Grain Program, according to Paul B. Klilne, chairperson of the Lancaster County ASC Committee.

Kline, of Lititz, said "a change in program enrollment has given county farmers greater flexibility for 1994. Producers are allowed until the final certification date for each participating crop in the county to withdraw that crop from the agreement, that is, change an individual crop from participation to nonparticipating without penalty."

The 1994 program provides for 0 percent acreage reduction (ARP) factor on program crops grown in Lancaster County, the first in more than a decade. Participants must limit their planted acreages to the farms crop base to remain eligible for deficiency payments and nonrecourse commodity loans.

Interested county farmers can contact the local ASCS office at 1383 Arcadia Road in Lancaster or phone (717) 397-6235.

Researchers Expect Late Blight To Challenge Potatoes

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Late blight was a significant disease in many potato-growing regions in 1993. That means growers should be even more prepared for the disease in 1994, according to researchers who attended a recent Potato Late Blight Symposium in Portland, Ore., sponsored by Ciba Plant Protection.

"Since we had a lot of late blight disease confirmed in 1993, the inoculum will be there in 1994," said Duane Preston, area extension agent, potatoes, with the University of Minnesota and North Dakota State University, Grand Forks, N.D. "If the environmental conditions favor late blight, we can expect to see the disease again."

For late blight to occur, three things must be present: the pathogen (phytophthora), a host plant, and environmental conditions conducive to disease development (cool, damp conditions). The host plant can be in the form of the growing potato, cull piles, or volunteer potatoes. There also are some species of late blight that can transfer from tomatoes to potatoes in areas where both crops are grown.

Researchers at the meeting agreed that one of the keys to controlling the disease is to follow good cultural practices, which include:

- Eliminate cull piles and volunteer potatoes.
- Use resistant or tolerant varieties when possible.
- Plant disease-free seed.
- Use crop rotation to reduce disease pressure.
- Manage irrigation properly.
- Use early preventive fungicide applications.

Fungicides have proven their effectiveness in the past for control of late blight and storage diseases caused by late blight. Ridomil® prepacks, including Ridomil MZ®, Ridomil/Bravo® and Ridomil/Copper, along with protectant fungicides, have been used effectively in the past.

Because storage diseases used to be a greater issue than late blight in the field, the Ridomil prepacks were recommended primarily for storage rot control.

According to Ciba Phytopathology Research Specialist Dr. Bobby Bassi, that is no longer the case. Because of the increase in late blight occurrence, Ciba recommends early preventive applications of the prepacks.

As many as three applications of Ridomil prepacks are recommended at 14-day intervals. The final application should be no later than row closure (when the potato plants touch each other within the row). The company recommends that growers then use protectant fungicides according to their labels for the remainder of the season. A protectant spray should be used between the early Ridomil prepack applications.

This early preventive program has proven itself effective in Ireland, where severe late blight infestations became rampant several years ago and threatened the entire potato industry.

Dr. Leslie J. Dowley, head of plant pathology/entomology, Oak Park Research Centre, Carlow, Ireland, relayed the success in Ireland.

"To effectively control late blight, we use a Ridomil prepack for the first three sprays at intervals of 10 days or less," he said. "We follow with protectant fungicides. This program controls a disease that had threatened our potato industry. More and more growers continue to adapt the early preventive program, which has helped the overall industry."

Growers should rely on local extension and university representatives, as well as their agrichemical dealer and sales representatives, for recommendations on the most effective late blight control program in their area.

Spring Meeting Set

IRISHTOWN (Adams Co.) — The annual spring meeting of the Adams County Farmers' Association will be held Tuesday, March 29, at the Irishtown Community Fire Hall, according to Larry Feeser, co-chairperson for the annual event.

The Adams County Farmers' Association is a general farm organization with 900 family members. It is affiliated with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Bureau.

"The purpose of the meeting," according to Co-chairperson Kevin Holtzinger, "is to familiarize the membership with special programs and business services offered to our members."

Holtzinger also noted that the membership of the organization will be voting to rename the group to the Adams County Farmers' Bureau during the business session. He urged all members to be present.

Tickets for the spring meeting, which includes a family-style dinner, can be purchased by calling any board member or committee Co-chairs Larry Feeser and Kevin Holtzinger. Reservations are due by March 15 to Treasurer Pam Ketterman.

A Revolutionary Approach To Pressure Washing

The DK Cleaning Nozzle

The Dirt Killer is the ideal cleaning nozzle. With its unique, high-speed, spinning head it gives a less powerful machine the impact of larger, more powerful industrial pressure washers. The DK, unlike some rotary nozzles, leaves no unsightly pressure washing lines on the surface it is cleaning and it is safe for use in sensitive industrial areas. Some uses include brick restoration, paint and graffiti removal and deck cleaning. When you don't need a water blasting nozzle, but want high performance cleaning, turn to the DK from Dirt Killer.

The IDK Water Blasting Nozzle

The Industrial Dirt Killer is the world's most powerful cleaning nozzle. It also features a spinning head, which moves at a much slower speed to produce large water droplets that deliver a devastating blasting force. The IDK has the ability to attack and thoroughly clean 3-dimensional surfaces such as concrete and steel. Difficult cleaning projects, such as crab pots, hog confinements, farrowing crates, milk barns and many others, are made easy with this incredible tool. For the toughest industrial pressure washing applications, ask for the IDK from Dirt Killer.

Cost-Share Program Reaches $30 Million

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Governor William Donald Schaefer announced that the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program (MACS) has reached a $30 million milestone in financial assistance provided to farmers who have installed eligible best management practices to protect the environment. This figure represents a personal financial commitment of more than $4.3 million on the part of Maryland's farmers to control agricultural runoff during the past 10 years.

"Maryland farmers have a strong commitment to protecting the state's natural resources, especially the Chesapeake Bay," said Governor Schaefer. "I'm deeply gratified that the state is able to help farmers do their part on behalf of the Bay."

Established in 1983 and administered by the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the MACS Program is a key feature in the state's efforts to protect water quality in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. Through the program, farmers are provided with up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install certain best management practices (BMPs) to prevent soil erosion and control nutrient runoff from farm fields and livestock operations.

Grassed waterways, animal waste storage facilities, and contour strips are among more than 25 BMPs currently eligible for MACS funding. Each of these measures, helps prevent pollution caused by agricultural runoff into farm streams.

During MACS' 10-year history, several new practices, such as stream protection measures, poultry mortality composters, and cover crops for nutrient uptake, have been added to the program. In addition, funding ceilings have been raised to accommodate expensive practices such as animal waste storage systems.

"MACS is one of the strongest financial programs of its kind in the country," said Robert L. Walker, Maryland secretary of agriculture. "We are extremely proud that the program has been so well received by Maryland farmers."

To date, some 8,200 practices have been completed under the MACS program with technical assistance provided by local soil conservation districts.

USMEF Votes To Fund Beef Industry Long Range Plan

DENVER — The Executive Committee of the U.S. Meat Export Federation (USMEF) voted last week to approve funding that will allow the further development of the Beef Industry Long-Range Plan.

This planning process, which began 14 months ago, involves representatives from the four national industry organizations: USMEF, The National Cattlemen's Association, the Cattlemen's Beef Board, and the Beef Industry Council.

USMEF is the third of the four national organizations to endorse the concept of the Beef Industry Long-Range Plan, following the Cattlemen's Beef Board and the National Cattlemen's Association. The Beef Industry Council is to vote in mid-March.

According to USMEF Chairman Jim Mullins, endorsement by all four organizations will allow the Oversight Committee, made up of representatives from each of these four groups, to oversee the development of the final plan. When complete, the plan will detail a strategy and structure to address eight leverage points developed earlier in the process by the Beef Industry Long-Range Planning Task Force.

"There are many issues that need to be considered and many details that still need to be addressed," said Mullins. "As the process moves forward, it is absolutely vital that USMEF not forget about its current responsibilities and the programs that are already in place and underway."

Mullins noted that USMEF's multi-segmented structure is unique. USMEF is fully integrated, he said, and represents the entire production and marketing chain, including allied industries.

"This multi-segmented structure has given us an advantage over our competition in key markets like Japan and Mexico," said Mullins. "Obviously, there are a number of issues that USMEF and the industry need to consider carefully as we continue this process."

Once the plan is in final form, it will be presented to the full USMEF board of directors for consideration and action. The planning schedule calls for the four national organizations to vote on the completed plan by Jan. 31, 1995.

Mullins is a member of the Oversight Committee, which has responsibility for completing the plan. In addition to representatives from the other three national organizations, Mullins is joined on the Oversight Committee by Rick Allen, USMEF vice chairman and a Wyoming cattle producer; Ellard "Butch" Pfaelzer, USMEF Secretary/Treasurer and president of The Bruss Company (a packing company in Chicago); and Philip M. Seng, USMEF president and CEO.

3 New Combines Enhance Harvest Line

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Growers seeking higher harvest capacity can turn to Ford New Holland for new rotary and conventional combine models with more "total harvesting capacity."

The new units include the Models TR87 and TR97 Twin Rotor combines, and the new model TX66 conventional machine.

The "TX66" combine is a Class VI machine using a conventional style threshing mechanism along with a unique separating system. Horsepower goes from 240 to 270 hp with the "TX66", based on a 7.5-liter Ford 6-cylinder engine.

The unique, proven threshing system on the TX model machine was first introduced in the 1960s. It features a traditional feeder housing, but uses a rotary separator behind the conventional cylinder before grain moves to the straw walkers.

New TR 87 and TR 97 combines from Ford New Holland offer more horsepower and fuel capacity for even greater field productivity to go along with the Twin Rotor combine's proven ability to put clean grain with less damage in the grain tank.

"The TX66 also has a self-leveling shoe, so you can harvest on sidehills or around corners and save grain," Martin said.

Standard convenience features include electrohydraulic engagement for the thresher, header, unload auger fold out and unload auger engagement; on-the-go tailings return indicator readout in the cab; synchronized reel speed which adjusts according to combine travel velocity; digital engine rpm display; and an all new monitor system to help keep track of all combine operations.

Ford New Holland Re-Engineers 4-Wheel Drive Line

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Ford New Holland introduces the new 80 Series 4-WD tractors in its new Versatile tractor line.

"We worked closely with our customers to come up with the features they wanted in the new tractors," said Brian Martin, product manager, 4-WD line. "They also told us what not to eliminate."

That meant sticking with Cummins engines for power. The new models also retain the modular design originally pioneered by Versatile. The four models and their horsepower ratings include the "9280" at 250 hp, the "9480" at 300 hp, the "9680" at 350 hp and the "9880" at 400 hp. Power for the "9280" comes from an LT10-A engine with 10 liters of displacement. The top three models are powered by a 14-liter NTA855-A engine that's turbocharged and aftercooled.

The "9280" and "9480" each offer 20 hp more than their predecessors. The "9680" has a 25 hp boost and the "9880" is 40 hp higher than the previous model.

"We're increasing horsepower with each model and these engines offer higher torque backup (33-38 percent)" Martin said, reducing the need for downshifts in the field and providing improved fuel economy.

The sleek, restyled machines feature flip up side shields for improved maintenance access and faster service. "You can reach all service points from the ground," Martin said. Sight gauges are used for hydraulic oil, coolant, front and rear differentials and transmission fluid levels.

Ford New Holland introduces the new higher horsepower 80 Series 4WD tractors in its Versatile tractor line: The "9280" at 250 hp, "9480" at 300 hp, the "9680" at 350 hp, and the 400 hp "9880". All are Cummins powered.

Hydraulics on the 80 Series feature a closed center load-sensing implement circuit that provides pressure and flow only on demand. There's a separate steering pump. The "9480", "9680" and "9880" will all feature 30 gpm hydraulic flow to implement valves as standard equipment.

See It, Use It At Center

TULLY, N.Y. — Farmers across the Northeast are invited to see the Agway Farm Research Center and use any new technology that could benefit their farm operations.

Timely and continuous research takes place within this commercial farm setting. Research is aimed at environmental impact as it relates to dairy cattle nutrition, crops, and farm systems.

Located in Tully, N.Y., Agway Farm Research Center is open year-round for tours, meetings, or events.

Asgrow Soybeans Win Va. Contest

BRANDY STATION, Va. — Beauregard Farms is the recent winner of the 1993 Virginia State Soybean Yield Contest with Asgrow A4595 soybeans.

Bowen grew the winning yield under minimum tillage culture at 70.8 bushels per acre. The local dealer supplying Asgrow A4595 seed to Bowen was Culpeper Farmers Co-op.

The third place winner in the 1993 contest went to Hugh Townsend III, Riverside Farms, Manquin, Va. His Asgrow A4595 yield was produced no-till, yielding 67.2 bushels per acre. Townsend local supplier is Alliance Fertilizer.

Riverside Farms also produced the Virginia Soybean Yield Contest Winner in 1992 when Barnes Townsend took the top spot with Asgrow A5403, yielding 74.0 bushels per acre.

Aluminum I-Beam Structure In Sliding Doors

MORTON, Ill. — I-beam structural members now frame the advanced Alumasteel® doors of Morton Buildings.

The I-beams add strength, rigidity, and durability to the popular door style. Tests prove the Alumasteel® door to be approximately twice as strong as commonly used, commercially available steel frame sliding doors.

By using aluminum I-beams, frame weight has been reduced, making the Alumasteel® door easier to use. The door maintains a neater, cleaner appearance without distortion.

The Alumasteel® door can be trimmed out to match any desired siding material. The doors can be installed on new construction or retrofitted to the existing structure.

Tests prove the Alumasteel® door to be approximately twice as strong as commonly used, commercially available steel frame sliding doors.

Best Values in New Equipment

Welcome to the 7200 series of MAGNUM™ tractors. ■ Five tractors so relentlessly strong, they may surpass all that you've experienced in agricultural power. Ranging from the 130 PTO hp 7210 to the 215 PTO hp 7250 — the most powerful 2WD tractor in the world. Each built with a brand of durability, reliability and performance that will exceed even the highest expectations. ■ Five tractors so fully equipped, they will surprise even the most demanding operator. With 3-pt. hitch capacities up to nearly 7½ tons. Standard 18-speed full-powershift transmissions that shift easier than ever. And the most comfortable cab we've ever manufactured. ■ Five tractors so thoroughly refined, they stand as proud testimony to all that we've learned from our customers. With the enhanced controls, improved monitor access and state-of-the-art seat that you requested. ■ The next MAGNUM. After seven years on the cutting edge of performance, dependability and durability, we knew of only one way to go: Further.

Dekalb Strengthens Product Line

DEKALB, Ill. — Dekalb Genetics Corporation said that it is releasing 23 new seed products for sale to farmers in the United States.

The new products include 12 new corn hybrids, the product line that accounts for most of Dekalb's seed sales and the largest protion of its research budget.

In 1993, Dekalb released a total of 25 new products, including 13 corn hybrids. During the past several years, the company has significantly increased the number of new product offerings. As a result, the company is strengthening its ability to offer farmers, in every maturity zone, a solid package of seed products.

"Most farmers plant three to four different corn hybrids," said Bruce P. Bickner, chairman and chief executive officer. "With our expanded corn product line, we feel we can provide every farmer with a package of hybrids that will spread their risk in terms of maturity and genetic diversity." Bickner added that all of the new corn hybrids were bred from proprietary germplasm, and that overall, about 95 percent of Dekalb's corn sales this year will be from proprietary hybrids.

The new hybrids and varieties are targeted for specific areas where their performance features can provide substantial economic benefits to farmers. The 12 corn hybrids cover all major maturity zones, offering improved performance under a variety of farm management practices, In 1993, Dekalb's commercial corn hybrids provided a 5.5 percent advantage compared to the average yield in the United States. Bickner noted that he expects the new releases to add to Dekalb's performance advantage in future comparisons. Several of the hybrids also provide larger seed size, a characteristic many farmers prefer.

The new releases include three corn hybrids for the northern Corn Belt (the 90- to 100-day relative maturity zone, representing 8.5 million acres); three hybrids for the central Corn Belt (the 100- to 110-day relative maturity zone, representing 21.4 million acres); three hybrids for the southern Corn Belt (the 110- to 115-day relative maturity zone, representing 19.8 million acres); a 120-day hybrid for the 4.0 million acre southern U.S. market; and two hybrids for specialty corn markets.

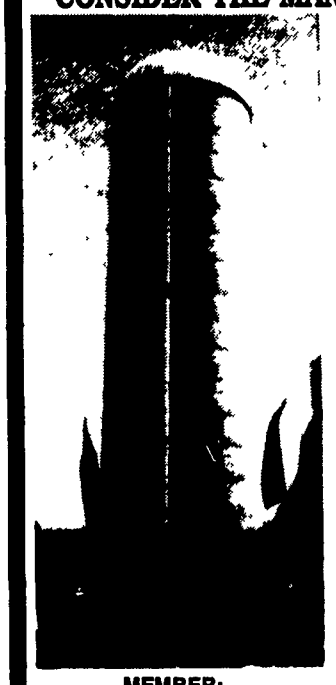
CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF CONCRETE



This has been quite the winter, hasn't it? I think most of us are really looking forward to spring. In the meantime, we have to get through this ice, snow, and soon MUD! There's a lot of ground not frozen because of the snow cover, and if you must go over that ground to get to your stored feed, that will cause quite a struggle.

And, if the long range forecasters are right, another 6 years of severe winter weather means you will want to be better prepared to store and handle your valuable feeds.

"On most dairy farms, QUALITY FORAGE is the single most important factor affecting profit."

Our business has to do with "Protecting Your Forage Quality." Nobody protects forage quality like we do... Nobody!

Blend molasses & warm water in a 1:1 ratio. Apply to hay or feed. Will encourage cows to cleanup all that is fed to them.

LIQUID
MOLASSES:
- makes feed more palatable
- cow gains more energy
- replaces dust
- improves cows appetite

CORN & SOYBEAN OILS - For Animals

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

PENNSYLVANIA'S 21ST PERFORMANCE TESTED BULL SALE
FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1994
AT NOON
AT PENN STATE'S AG ARENA
Only the top bulls from the respective herds were put on test. They are fully evaluated for ADG on test, lifetime WDA, adjusted 250- and 365-day weights. The bulls are ultrasonically scanned for backfat thickness and loin-eye area and are given a complete breeding soundness and semen exam. The bulls will have health papers to go anywhere. After the evaluation, the top two-thirds of the bulls will be offered. In the past, these bulls have been real herd-improving bargains.
Current EPD's will be available

" TURBOCHARGER SYSTEM

Ford 7.3L/6.9L Diesel Pickup & Navistar S Series Trucks

Hypermax ENGINEERING, INC.

The HYPERMAX PULSE TURBOCHARGER SYSTEM utilizes the high pressure exhaust pulses to achieve faster "off idle" engine acceleration and vastly improves throttle response. This response feature is accomplished without the use of a wastegate, which detracts from performance anywhere but at low engine speeds, due to its inherent high exhaust back pressure.

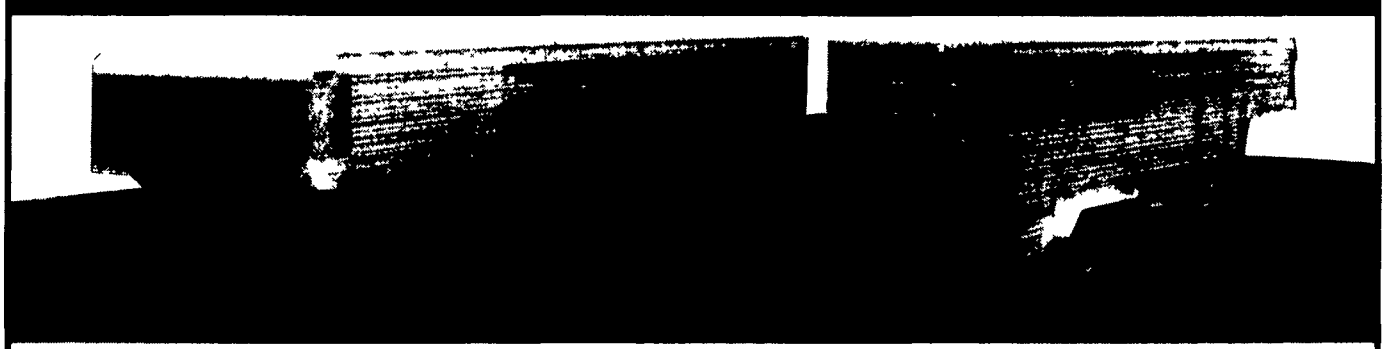
Anything Less Isn't Good Enough



If livestock is your business, Eby Gooseneck Trailers include these features to protect the livestock you transport:

- Durable all-aluminum construction with less weight for more payload
- Axles, wheels, tires and brakes that are designed to carry the weight the trailer will hold
- Gates and doors designed for easy loading/unloading
- Proven post and slat design to control airflow and easily close up for winter conditions
- Aerodynamic design to improve fuel economy

Eby Gooseneck Trailers are available in lengths from 12 to 32 feet with a choice of widths and inside heights. We offer every custom option, including stainless steel front end for great looks.

Conservation District To Sponsor Traveling Farmer Workshop

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — With the deadline for pesticide applicator license renewals fast approaching, many farmers are searching for pesticide meetings to fulfill their credit requirements.

The Lancaster County Conservation District has prepared a traveling farmer workshop on pesticides to be conducted this spring on March 22-24, at three different farms in Lancaster County.

Up to four core credits may be earned by attending any one of the three presentations. All programs will begin at noon and end around 2:30 p.m.

The first workshop will be held at the Don Welk farm just south of Strasburg on Lime Valley Road on Tuesday, March 22. On Wednesday, March 23, the second presentation will be held at the John Zimmerman farm located south of Bowmansville on Center Church Road. The final workshop will be held on Thursday, March 24 at the Ken Zurin farm on Spooky Nook Road south of Route 283 and west of Salunga. Signs will be posted the day of the workshop, or those interested can call the district office for more complete directions.

The focus of the traveling workshop will be on pesticide container recycling and disposal, calibration of sprayers and insecticide hoppers, and finish with a discussion of streambank fencing and other county programs. The district is working with Jeff Stoltzfus, Elanco adult farmer instructor, and Bob Anderson, Penn State extension, on coordinating the workshop.

The traveling farmer workshop was designed to be presented in an afternoon at three different farms in different sections of the county. This is better than one larger program because it will enable more farmers to attend a meeting without an extremely long drive.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheel and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers. Grass seeding attachment for 16x7.

Rubber Tracks Give You More Traction And Flotation For Faster Snow Removal

1840/1845C CASE RUBBER-TRACK SKID STEERS IN STOCK

- Better traction
- Improved flotation
- Quiet operation
- Reduced surface damage
- Smoother ride
- Tire protection

Work when and where you need them

On more surfaces
Improved flotation lets Case rubber-track skid steers work on soils sand or gravel and even mud

More comfortably
Rubber tracks provide a smooth ride with less bounce • also less chance of tire punctures

More places
Excellent for working on dirt and concrete lots • rubber tracks cause less ground disturbance • can drive on bedded areas without sinking in

Work through wet muddy conditions typical in spring and fall

Flat fold WingPackers range from 19' to 36' wide. Behind a disk harrow or field cultivator, they're an ideal final tool before planting. Behind a drill, they gently but firmly pack soil to increase seed-to-soil contact, improving germination for even field stands.

FACTORY DIRECT

ALSO SMALL NON-FOLD PACKERS

- All units fold flat to a safe transport width of 13'6".
- Single hydraulic control for transport and to raise/lower wings.
- Heavy-duty tubing and plate construction with 4"x6" tool bar
- Choose smooth 6-spoke rollers or crowfoot rollers for more aggressive action.

case IH PRECISION TILLAGE

Comes From Binkley & Hurst.

Case International 4800 and 4900 field cultivators cover up to 52 feet with every pass through the field. But even with this great width, tillage precision remains its level best.

First, there's simple fore-and-aft leveling to match tractor to cultivator. A unique self-leveling hitch keeps the unit level regardless of the working depth. Positive, mechanically-maintained depth control also means uniform working depth from side-to-side...all day long.

4 Wheel Drive Open ROPS Tractor

5230 MAXXUM: 90 PTO hp

Three years ago, the original line of Case International MAXXUM tractors set a standard for the mid-size class that is yet to be matched. And now that standard is about to be raised. ■ Introducing the new 5230 MAXXUM. A mid size tractor that refuses to act that way. With the kind of deep, reassuring power reserves that fieldwork demands. A standard 16F/12R transmission that ensures total versatility. And a list of features so complete that no job will seem out of reach. ■ For three years, we've compiled your suggestions regarding the original MAXXUM line. And now those suggestions are part of every new 5230. ■ You wanted more visibility, we added exclusive all glass doors. You asked for easier implement attachment, we added ground level hitch control. You wanted more muscle, we added horsepower durability and efficiency. All in all, more than 50 changes have been made. ■ Stop by and see the new 5230 MAXXUM today. And bring along some high expectations.

MAXXUM

Don't Miss This One!

Three years ago, Case International MAXXUM set new standards for mid-size tractors. With the introduction of the 5200 Series, those standards have been raised even higher.

You wanted more visibility, we added exclusive all-glass doors. You asked for easier implement attachment, we responded with ground-level hitch control. You wanted more muscle, and we increased horsepower and durability.

5250 Price Reduced Demonstrator

Leadership never stands still, and the MAXXUM 5200 Series is still the best in the business.

RDM DISC MOWERS

The new Rhino RDM Series Disc Mower is designed for faster, efficient mowing of grass pastures and hay meadows and offers features not found on many competitive units.

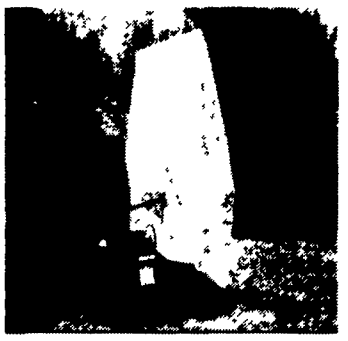
Rhino disc mowers feature an easy access cutterbar The innovative design of the cutterbar allows access to the disc spindle shaft and gear module without disassembly of the entire cutterbar, reducing maintenance costs and downtime The hardened rock guards are designed to help protect the entire leading edge of the cutterbar from damage and, along with the skid shoes, are easily replaceable A heavy-duty CAT I-II & Cat II offset three-point hitch made of 4"x6" thick-wall tubing, is standard to provide dependable service A safety breakaway system is built in to provide mainframe protection against sudden impacts when mowing With 5" of blade overlap and blade tip speed of 15,814 FPM Rhino disc mowers provide a clean, smooth cut. Rugged construction and high performance are two reasons Rhino disc mowers are the ideal choice for fast, efficent grass mowing



The cutterbar can be easily raised to the transport position hydraulically from the tractor seat A parking stand is standard for easier unit storage and "hook-up"

The innovative design of the cutterbar allows easier access to the disc spindle shaft and gear compared to some competitive units. The gears run in an enclosed oil bath for constant lubrication The blades are reversible and easily replaceable for lower maintenance costs and minimal downtime

HANDLES ANYTHING THAT CROPS UP.

Kubota M-Series farm tractors are built for any kind of work that crops up. And with 4-wheel drive, they easily pull implements you'd expect to find behind a much larger tractor.

These Kubota tractors are built with strong, liquid-cooled diesel engines. With 44-85 PTO horsepower. Optional shuttle-shift transmissions. A turbo-charged model offers increased pulling power. A narrow new version works harder in close quarters.

Kubota.

For The Way You Farm Today
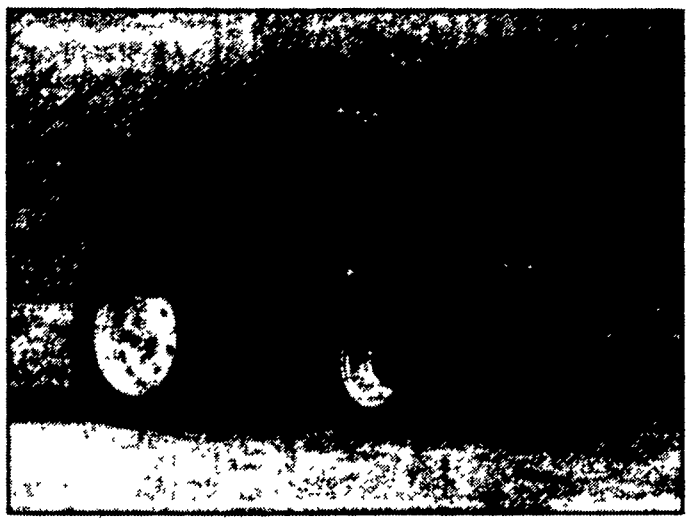
Fingertip Powershift Control, Improved Field Visibility and The Most Comfortable Cab Ever



AGCO ALLIS
For the way you farm today

Model 9650
147 PTO HP (109.7 kW)

With their new 18x9 speed full powershift transmissions that electronically control the engagement of massive gears with just the tap of a hand... their cab-forward design that permits a clear, unobstructed view of the field in all directions... and their roomy, comfortable cabs, that feature a unique swivel, air-ride seat and an exclusive seat-mounted control console, the new 9600 Series tractors are clearly ahead of the time.

Every component — from the sleek, sloping hood, to the rugged, cast-iron mainframe to the world-proven air-cooled diesel engines, that require less maintenance — has been designed to match the way you farm today. The result is greater comfort, better performance and improved productivity.

Compare the features and specifications for yourself. Better yet, stop by your AGCO Allis dealer soon and try out one of the 9600 models for yourself. You have to drive it to believe it.

WELL BUILT Rack Wagons

8' wide; 8' high; 16', 18' & 20' lengths
9' wide; 8' high; 16', 18' & 20' lengths

Description & Material Used:

- Two 4x8 fur stringers
- 3x4x8' oak cross members bolted to the fur stringers
- 18 ft. wagons have 9 cross members and 20 ft. wagons have 10 cross members
- Oak flooring nailed to the cross members with screw nails
- Racks are made out of 2" square tubing - 14' guage - 1" square tubing between the uprights
- Swinging door at the back of the wagon; has quick release and swings 270 degrees one way
- Two 4' side openings with quick chain release
- Racks can be easily dismounted
- Painted John Deere Green or New Holland Red

FEEDER WAGONS

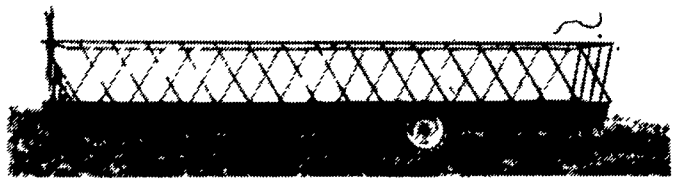
16', 21' and 27' lengths
Available with slant bars or self-locking head gates.



A great feature for feeding cattle in meadows or in feed lots. These wagons can be used to feed round hay bales, square bales or silage out of Ag bags or silos, etc.

21' has 26 head locks
27' has 32 head locks

- Feeder bottoms are sand blasted to remove rust & lead

Manufactured By:

The New CLAAS ROTOCUT SILAGE BALER

Cuts Your Crop As It Is Forced Through A Series Of Knives.

The Benefits:

- Hard to feed crops are aggressively fed right into this baler
- Now you can cut and bale rye, barley and oats at boot stage.
- Bales fall apart - you can throw them down a hay hole and feed them with a fork.

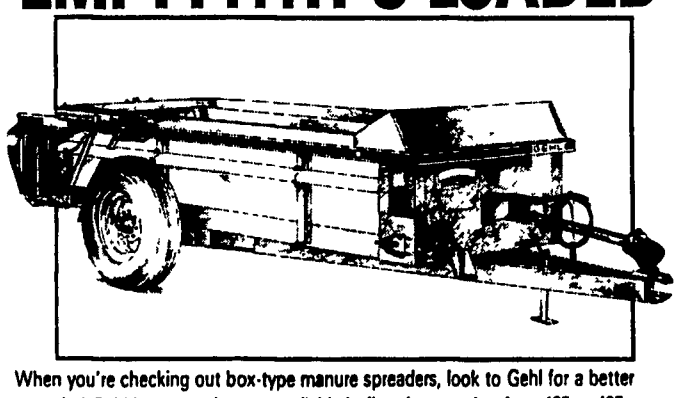
GEHL

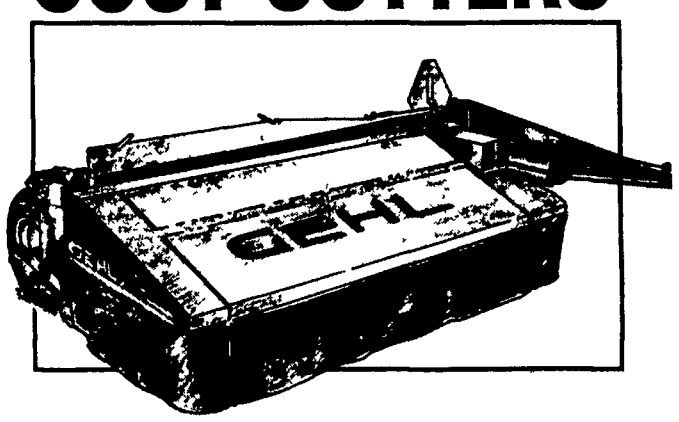
EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily.
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability.
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant.
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors.
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

COST CUTTERS



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

Now serving South Central Pennsylvania's agricultural needs. We need listings of farms and acreage for our clients. No one else is in tune with the agricultural industries needs as us. A name known in the cattle and farming industry for over six generations with contacts the world wide. It is hard enough to market farms in today's economy without having an experienced team on your side. Specializing in large farms and estates. Dedicated to dependable service for today's farmers.

Phone 717-786-1725 or Fax at 717-786-3250

HERD AVAILABLE

We have a top herd of Maryland cows available for private treaty. 66 head of Holsteins all I.D. Sired. Approximately one quarter are registered. This herd currently has a 20,500 lbs. milk average from all home raised cows. Nothing has been bought into the herd for the past 25 years. Always culled very hard, a well maintained herd. You can pick 40 to 50 head from the 66 head or price them altogether. Can stay on farm until April. Selling due discontinuation of dairy.

HEIFERS NEEDED

We currently need 500 head of heifers of all ages, from fresh to springing. Top prices paid. Registered or grades. Must be clean and healthy, direct from the farm.

QUALITY REPLACEMENTS

We have a good inventory of springing and fresh cows and heifers from local dispersals. Many of the fresh heifers from local dispersals. Many of the fresh heifers have been bred and fed on our farms. Call if you need any replacements or plan to attend one of our dispersals.

HELP WANTED

A fulltime position is currently available at Shady Lane Dairy Sales, Inc. for a second herdsman. Responsibilities include some milking, light duty maintenance and preparation for public auctions. Housing available. Experience with Cattle and references.
